Practical Judgments Essays In Culture Politics And Interpretation:

Practical Judgments Mark Kingwell, 2004-01-01 This collection of essays and reviews reveals the sources and developments of popular Toronto philosopher and cultural theorist Mark Kingwell's thought and examines the nature and limits of intellectual engagement

The Interiors Theory Primer William Mangold, 2025-07-31 In a world where life is increasingly defined by the spaces we inhabit understanding interiors is essential to understanding ourselves The Interiors Theory Primer maps the intellectual terrain of interior design and spatial experience introducing readers to key concepts that shape how people occupy interior spaces Organized into three parts this book begins with foundational concerns such as place identity materiality and atmosphere and then examines the boundaries and expertise of the discipline before turning to critical and emerging topics like biophilia virtuality and social justice Each chapter presents a focused literature review of a major theme in interiors theory supported by key design precedents and suggestions for further reading Drawing on a wide range of scholarship The Interiors Theory Primer offers a coherent framework for understanding interiors as a distinct interdisciplinary field deeply embedded in the human condition Accessible to students useful to professionals and provocative for scholars The Interiors Theory Primer argues that the designed environments in which we live work and gather deserve greater attention not only for their aesthetic and functional qualities but also for their powerful role in shaping contemporary life

Concrete Reveries Mark Kingwell, 2008 An analysis of the relationship between urbanism and personal identity evaluates the ways in which people are shaped by their spaces and vice versa in an account that explores such topics as the disparities between structural interiors and exteriors the moral obligations of citizens and the role of a city's atmosphere in molding its residents' beliefs 10 000 first printing

Getting a Life Benjamin Woo, 2018-03-31 Comic book superheroes fantasy kingdoms and futuristic starships have become inescapable features of today's pop culture landscape and the people we used to deride as nerds or geeks have ridden their popularity and visibility to mainstream recognition It seems it's finally hip to be square Yet these conventionalized representations of geek culture typically ignore the real people who have invested time and resources to make it what it is. Getting a Life recentres our understanding of geek culture on the everyday lives of its participants drawing on fieldwork in comic book shops game stores and conventions including in depth interviews with ordinary members of the overlapping communities of fans and enthusiasts. Benjamin Woo shows how geek culture is a set of interconnected social practices that are associated with popular media. He argues that typical depictions of mass mediated entertainment as something that isolates and pacifies its audiences are flawed because they do not account for the conversations relationships communities and identities that are created by engaging with the products of mass culture. Getting a Life combines engaging interview material with lucid interpretation and a clear interdisciplinary framework. The volume is both an accessible introduction to this contemporary subculture and an exploration of the ethical possibilities of a life lived with media. Academic

Knowledge Construction and Multimodal Curriculum Development Loveless, Douglas J., Griffith, Bryant, Bérci, Margaret E., Ortlieb, Evan, Sullivan, Pamela M., 2013-11-30 This book presents practical conversations with philosophical and theoretical concerns regarding the use of digital technologies in the educational process challenging the assumption that information accessibility is synonymous with learning. A Philosophy of Curriculum Bryant Griffith, 2007-01-01

Curriculum has become the new wonder word for our times. Even more curriculum has become a concept and an idea. This book provides a speculum mentis a map of the mind of modern curriculum theory to help trace the interactions between various forms of thought as they play out in contemporary schooling. This book is also about how the weaving of various forms of thought provides an umbrella of understanding about the nature of curriculum and perhaps a glimpse of human understanding. One of the presuppositions of this book is that there are often and perhaps almost always multiple strands of ideas at work simultaneously. In the modern world when they come together they form a coherent set of theories which can be called a paradigm. In the de centered world that this book suggests the history of ideas then might be best described as being a bit like our own mind. We often have divergent opinions about who we are what we want to do and so on. One of the central concepts in contemporary education reflection is an attempt to help us override that tendency to become more pragmatic by focusing and getting on with the job. This might work in the world of formal education where one can coerce students to be more goal oriented for short periods of time by testing them but in reality that doesn't happen to most of us a lot of the time. To illustrate this point strands such as the development of theoretical physics in the early part of the twentieth century a discussion of the part which philosophical thinking plays in the development of curriculum particularly in a post modern sense a recasting of narrative knowledge and a focus on mavericks learners are discussed. To live in this modern post modern world requires reflective thought about the question of what form connectedness will take. In this case the small narratives of the thinkers who have experienced the tension between the modern and post modern world as they variously grappled with their inabilities to construct a unified theory are examined. It is suggested that this failure is a primary

illustration of the grand narratives initial collapse Further it is suggested that the smaller stories of men and women working to paper over the cracks in the proceeding decades represent the foundations of a metaphor for the human condition as it in fact is not as it has been constructed Bryant Griffith is currently a Professor in the College of Education at Texas A M University Corpus Christi He has also been on the faculty of the University of Calgary in Canada and has taught in various public school settings Dr Griffith has published widely in the areas of curriculum theory and the philosophy of education

Information Systems Research Bonnie Kaplan, Duane P. Truex, David Wastell, A. Trevor Wood-Harper, Janice I. DeGross, 2006-04-11 Information Systems Research Relevant Theory and Informed Practice comprises the edited proceedings of the WG8 2 conference Relevant Theory and Informed Practice Looking Forward from a 20 Year Perspective on IS Research which was sponsored by IFIP and held in Manchester England in July 2004 The conference attracted a record number of high quality manuscripts all of which were subjected to a rigorous reviewing process in which four to eight track chairs associate editors and reviewers thoughtfully scrutinized papers by the highly regarded as well as the newcomers No person or idea was considered sacrosanct and no paper made it through this process unscathed All authors were asked to revise the accepted papers some more than once thus good papers got better With only 29 percent of the papers accepted these proceedings are significantly more selective than is typical of many conference proceedings This volume is organized in 7 sections with 33 full research papers providing panoramic views and reflections on the Information Systems IS discipline followed by papers featuring critical interpretive studies action research theoretical perspectives on IS research and the methods and politics of IS development Also included are 6 panel descriptions and a new category of bright idea position papers 11 in all wherein main points are summarized in a pithy and provocative fashion

The People, Place, and Space Reader Jen Jack Gieseeking, William Mangold, Cindi Katz, Setha Low, Susan Saegert, 2014-04-16 The People Place and Space Reader brings together the writings of scholars designers and activists from a variety of fields to make sense of the makings and meanings of the world we inhabit They help us to understand the relationships between people and the environment at all scales and to consider the active roles individuals groups and social structures play in creating the environments in which people live work and play These readings highlight the ways in which space and place are produced through large and small scale social political and economic practices and offer new ways to think about how people engage the environment in multiple and diverse ways Providing an essential resource for students of urban studies geography sociology and many other areas this book brings together important but till now widely dispersed writings across many inter related disciplines Introductions from the editors precede each section introducing the texts demonstrating their significance and outlining the key issues surrounding the topic A companion website PeoplePlaceSpace org extends the work even further by providing an on going series of additional reading lists that cover issues ranging from food security to foreclosure psychiatric spaces to the environments of predator animals

Management Ethics Stewart R. Clegg, Carl Rhodes, 2012-11-12 Ethics has become big business but have businesses become ethical This is a central question for today's managers Managing ethics is critical in an era characterized by unprecedented corporate power and a myriad of competing ethical traditions Giving new insights into the understanding of ethics for today's organization practice and managerial behaviour this timely volume edited by well respected industry authorities provides an overview and critique of ethics as they relate to contemporary challenges and issues such as globalization sustainability consumerism neo liberalism corporate collapses leadership and corporate regulation This book an essential read for postgraduate students of business and ethics is organized around the core question What are the ethics of organizing in today's institutional environment and what does this mean for the practice of management and the organization of business In response to this the contributors examine ethics as it is deeply embedded in the everyday practice of management Interdisciplinary contributions from the fields of sociology philosophy management organization studies and public administration provide unique perspectives while case studies and real life examples illustrate the challenges and dilemmas faced in practice Each chapter has a brief overview and editor's introduction which skilfully summarizes key points and draws connections between the chapters

Critical Pedagogy for a Polymodal World
Douglas J. Loveless, Bryant Griffith, 2014-11-04 This book explores the complexity of communication and understanding as a possible asset in formal education rather than a problem that needs to be fixed The authors examine the question and experience as pedagogical tools challenging readers to play the critic and ask hard questions beginning with Why do the ideas discussed within the book matter The digital information age with expanding ways of thinking being communicating and learning complicates public education So what happens as diverse narratives collide in schools To answer this question the authors of this book delve into conflicting assumptions within the framework of complexity sciences and education in an attempt to explore space beyond positivist anti positivist debates This involves examining the role of cultural and aesthetic narratives and cautionary tales as means of acknowledging possibilities in human experiences in education These possibilities can facilitate praxis as theory research and teaching become reflective practices and as thinking about education broadens to include diverse methods of understanding and presenting complex phenomena

Phronesis as Professional Knowledge Elizabeth Anne Kinsella, Allan Pitman, 2012-07-30 Phronesis is the Aristotelian notion of practical wisdom In this collected series phronesis is explored as an alternate way of considering professional knowledge In the present context dominated by technical rationalities and instrumentalist approaches a re examination of the concept of phronesis offers a fundamental re visioning of the educational aims in professional schools and continuing professional education programs This book originated from a conversation amongst an interdisciplinary group of scholars from education health philosophy and sociology who share concerns that something of fundamental importance of moral significance is missing from the vision of what it means to be a professional The contributors consider the ways in which phronesis offers a generative possibility for reconsidering the professional knowledge of practitioners The question at the centre of this inquiry is If we take phronesis seriously as an organising framework for professional knowledge what are the implications for professional education and practice A multiplicity of understandings emerge as to what is meant by phronesis and how it might be reinterpreted understood applied and extended in a world radically different to that of the progenitor of the term Aristotle For those concerned with professional life this is a conversation not to be missed Question Authority Mark Kingwell,2024-11-05

Philosopher Mark Kingwell thinks about thinking for yourself in an era of radical know it all ism Question authority the popular 1960s slogan commanded Think for yourself But what started as a counter cultural catchphrase playful in logic but serious in intent has become a practical paradox Yesterday s social critics are the tone policing tyrants of today while those who claim colourblindness see no need to engage with critical theory at all The resulting crisis of authority made worse by rival political factions and chaotic public discourse has exposed cracks in every facet of shared social life Politics academia journalism medicine religion science every kind of institutional claim is now routinely subject to objection investigation and outright disbelief A recurring feature of this comprehensive distrust of authority is the firm often unshakeable belief in personal righteousness and superiority what Mark Kingwell calls our addiction to conviction In this critical survey of the predicament of contemporary authority Kingwell draws on philosophical argument personal reflection and details from the headlines in an attempt to reclaim the democratic spirit of questioning authority and thinking for oneself Defending a program of compassionate skepticism Question Authority is a fascinating survey of the role of individual humility in public life and illuminates how we might each do our part in the infinite project of justice On Risk Mark Kingwell,2020-10-13

With COVID 19 comes a heightened sense of everyday risk How should a society manage distribute and conceive of it As we cope with the lengthening effects of the global COVID 19 pandemic considerations of everyday risk have been more pressing and inescapable In the past everyone engaged in some degree of risky behaviour from mundane realities like taking a shower or getting into a car to purposely thrill seeking activities like rock climbing or BASE jumping Many activities that seemed high risk such as flying were claimed basically safe But risk was and always has been a fact of life With new focus on the risks of even leaving the safety of our homes it s time for a deeper consideration of risk itself How do we manage and distribute risks How do we predict uncertain outcomes If risk can never be completely eliminated can it perhaps be controlled At the heart of these questions which govern everything from waking up each day to the abstract mathematics of actuarial science lie philosophical issues of life death and danger Mortality is the event horizon of daily risk How should we conceive of it Nearest Thing to Heaven Mark Kingwell,2006-01-01 This elegantly written appreciation of the Empire State Building opens up the building s richness and importance as an icon of America The book leads us through the facts surrounding the skyscraper s conception and construction then enters into a provocative theoretical discussion of its function as an icon its representation in pictures literature and film and the implications of its iconic status as New York s most important architectural monument to ambition and optimism The Empire State Building literally cannot be seen in its totality from any perspective And paradoxically this building of unmistakable solidity has been made invisible by familiarity and reproduction through imagery Mark Kingwell encourages us to look beneath the strong physical presence of the building to become aware of its evolving layers of meaning and to see how the building lives within a unique imaginative space in the landscape of the American consciousness He offers new ways of understanding the Empire State Building in all its complexity and surprising insights into its special role as an American icon

The Body in Professional Practice, Learning and Education Bill Green, Nick Hopwood, 2014-11-14 The body matters in practice How then might we think about the body in our work in and on professional practice learning and education What value is there in realising and articulating the notion of the professional practitioner as crucially embodied Beyond that what of conceiving of the professional practice field itself as a living corporate body How is the body implicated in understanding and researching professional practice learning and education Body Practice is an extensive volume dedicated to exploring these and related questions philosophically and empirically It constitutes a rare but much needed reframing of scholarship relating to professional practice and its relation with professional learning and professional education more generally It takes bodies seriously developing theoretical frameworks offering detailed analyses from empirical studies and opening up questions of representation The book is organized into four parts I Introducing the Body in Professional Practice Learning and Education II Thinking with the Body in Professional Practice III The Body in Question in Health Professional Education and Practice IV Concluding Reflections It brings together researchers from a range of disciplinary and professional practice fields including particular reference to Health and Education Across fifteen chapters the authors explore a broad range of issues and challenges with regard to corporeality practice theory and philosophy and professional education providing an innovative coherent and richly informed account of what it means to bring the body back in with regard to professional education and beyond Harper's, 2002

The Ethics of Architecture Mark Kingwell, 2021-01-29 A lively and accessible discussion of how architecture functions in a complex world of obligation and responsibility with a preface offering specific discussion of architecture during and after the COVID 19 pandemic What are the special ethical obligations assumed by architects Because their work creates the basic material conditions that make all other human activity possible architects and their associates in building enjoy vast influence on how we all live work play worship and think With this influence comes tremendous and not always examined responsibility This book addresses the range of ethical issues that architects face with a broad understanding of ethics Beyond strictly professional duties transparency technical competence fair trading lie more profound issues that move into aesthetic political and existential realms Does an architect have a duty to create art if not always beautiful art Should an architect feel obliged to serve a community and not just a client Is justice a possible orientation for architectural practice Is there such a thing as feeling compelled to shelter being in architectural work By taking these usually abstract questions into the region of physical creation the book attempts a reformulation of architectural ethics as a matter of deep reflection on the architect's role as both citizen and caretaker Thinkers and makers discussed include Le Corbusier Martin Heidegger Lewis Mumford Rem Koolhaas Jane Jacobs Arthur Danto and John Rawls Canadian Books in Print. Author and Title Index, 1975 Book Review Index Cumulation Dana Ferguson, 2005-09 Book Review Index provides quick access to reviews of books periodicals books on tape and electronic media representing a wide range of popular academic and professional interests The up to date coverage wide scope and inclusion of citations for both newly published and older materials make Book Review Index an exceptionally useful reference tool More than 600 publications are indexed including journals and national general interest publications and newspapers Book Review Index is available in a three issue subscription covering the current year or as an annual cumulation covering the past year
