Practice Of Value:

The Practice of Value Joseph Raz, 2005-01-27 The Tanner Lectures on Human Values which honor the American scholar industrialist and philanthropist Obert Clark Tanner are presented annually at each of nine universities in the United States and Great Britain They were established at the University of California Berkeley beginning in the 2000 1 academic year The Berkeley Tanner Lectures Series has been established in the belief that these distinguished lectures together with the lively debates stimulated by their presentation in Berkeley deserve to be made available to a wider audience The Practice of Value is an exploration of a pervasive but puzzling aspect of our world value At the core of the book are the Tanner Lectures delivered at Berkeley in 2001 by Joseph Raz who has been one of the leading figures in moral and legal philosophy since the 1970s His aim is to make sense of the dependence of value on social practice without falling back on cultural relativism In response three eminent philosophers Christine Korsgaard Robert Pippin and Bernard Williams offer interestingly different approaches to the subject The book begins with an introduction by Jay Wallace setting the scene for what follows and ends with a response from Raz to his commentators The result is a fascinating debate accessible to readers throughout and beyond philosophy about the relations between human values and human life The Practice of Value Joseph Raz, 2003

Value Practices in the Life Sciences and Medicine Isabelle Dussauge, Claes-Fredrik Helgesson, Francis

Lee, 2015-01-29 Many deep concerns in the life sciences and medicine have to do with the enactment ordering and displacement of a broad range of values This volume articulates a pragmatist stance for the study of the making of values in society exploring various sites within life sciences and medicine and asking how values are at play This means taking seriously the work scientists regulators analysts professionals and publics regularly do in order to define what counts as proper conduct in science and health care what is economically valuable and what is known and worth knowing A number of analytical and methodological means to investigate these concerns are presented The editors introduce a way to indicate an empirically oriented research program into the enacting ordering and displacing of values They argue that a research programme of this kind makes it possible to move orthogonally to the question of what values are and thus ask how they are constituted This rectifies some central problems that arise with approaches that depend on stabilized understandings of value At the heart of it such a research programme encourages the examination of how and with what means certain things come to count as valuable and desirable how registers of value are ordered as well as displaced It further encourages a sense that these matters could be and sometimes simultaneously are otherwise Hyperbaric Medicine Practice, 5th Edition

Statistical Report on the Production Value, Exports and Imports of Minerals in Canada Canada. Dominion Bureau of Statistics, 1928 Transitions, 2006 Quarterly Bulletin Michigan State University. Agricultural Experiment Station, 1928 Advancing Relational Leadership Research Mary Uhl-Bien, Sonia M. Ospina, 2012-10-01 Leaders and followers live in a relational world a world in which leadership occurs in complex webs of relationships and dynamically changing contexts Despite this our theories of leadership are grounded in assumptions of individuality and linear causality If we are to advance understandings of leadership that have more relevance to the world of practice we need to embed issues of relationality into leadership studies This volume addresses this issue by bringing together for the first time a set of prominent scholars from different paradigmatic and disciplinary perspectives to engage in dialogue regarding how to meet the challenges of relationality in leadership research and practice Included are cutting edge thinking heated debate and passionate perspectives on the issues at hand The chapters reveal the varied and nuanced treatments of relationality that come from authors alternative paradigmatic entity constructionist critical views Dialogue scholars reacting to the chapters engage in spirited debate regarding the commensurability or incommensurability of the paradigmatic approaches The editors bring the dialogue together with introductory and concluding chapters that offer a framework for comparing and situating the competing assumptions and perspectives spanning the relational leadership landscape Using paradigm interplay they unpack assumptions and lay out a roadmap for relational leadership research A key takeaway is that advancing relational leadership research requires multiple paradigmatic perspectives and scholars who are conversant in the assumptions brought by these perspectives The book is aimed at those who feel that much of current leadership thinking is missing the boat in today s complex relational world It provides an essential resource for all leadership scholars and practitioners curious about the nature of research on leadership both those with much research exposure and those new to the field
