Practicing Intersubjectively:

Practicing Intersubjectively Peter Buirski, 2007-09 Practicing Intersubjectively describes how the intersubjective systems perspective informs shapes and guides the psychotherapeutic process Using extensive clinical case material Buirski illustrates the way an intersubjective systems sensibility informs and enriches clinical practice The intersubjective systems perspective views each treatment as exquisitely context sensitive This means that the person who comes for therapy would present differently to different therapists and the two of them would construct different processes Therapists themselves are not interchangeable and the intersubjective field that the two participants create together would be quite different from the field created by any other pair Practicing Intersubjectively with the focus on attuning and articulating to the contextual construction of personal worlds of experience enables a different therapy process to unfold than occurs in traditional 1 person authority based treatment approaches and is uniquely suited to working with people from diverse cultural backgrounds and those suffering from such challenging concerns as trauma and prejudice ople from diverse cultural backgrounds and those suffering from such challenging concerns as trauma and prejudice ople from diverse cultural backgrounds and those suffering from such challenging concerns as trauma and prejudice ople from diverse cultural backgrounds and those suffering from such challenging concerns as trauma and prejudice Making Sense Together

Peter Buirski, Pamela Haglund, Emily Markley, 2020-09-15 The second edition of Making Sense Together provides a greater examination of the clinical practice of the intersubjective perspective Listening and responding intersubjectively is concerned with attuning to affect putting words to affective experience and maintaining a caring relationship that offers the kind of needed self objective experience missing in development In addition the intersubjective perspective co constructs a developmental narrative that contextualizes the evolution of the person s troubles In this new and updated edition authors Peter Buirski Pamela Haglund and Emily Markley draw on more than twenty years of combined experience teaching and supervising in the practice of the intersubjective perspective Free to Run the Race Gary V. Ventimiglia, 2016-09-22 Free to Run the Race describes the living out of our life in Christ Hebrews 12:1 It speaks of running with endurance the race that is set before us This can be done by fixing our eyes on Jesus Undoing the Burden of Parental Disregard speaks to a specific encumbrance that weighs the runner down making it harder to keep focus and finish the race The burden is called parental disregard It is not being allowed to be oneself to pursue one s inner direction or natural proclivity in one s life It is the experience of developmental woundedness that says being oneself in temperament aptitudes natural talents and the expressing of this is prohibited Prov 22:6 says train up a child according to his own way The burden of parental disregard is the emotional pain in living out an identity that is not based on any expression of one s natural way s or bent s This makes the development of trust in a heavenly Father parent difficult The relieving of this burden takes a ruthlessly honest focus on this woundedness and its working out its implications honestly that allows a more truthful understanding of God s love for our lives What Every Therapist Needs to Know Michael Karson, 2018-06-20 With the ubiquity of knowledge on too many topics relevant to psychotherapy and life problems it is difficult for therapists to muddle through and stay up to date. Therapists often have to choose between braving a bewildering onslaught of information and wishfully disregarding all that's out there. What Every Therapist Needs to Know answers for therapists the practical humble question: What do I need to know about a topic to practice competently? This book provides an engaging overview on the topics that working clinicians need to know about while drawing parallels between the therapist's professional growth and the patient's personal growth. Foundational knowledge on learning life and psychology segues into the therapy topics of conflict resolution, the working alliance, the therapeutic frame, technique and feedback. What Every Therapist Needs to Know emphasizes the application of psychological theories to the therapy itself and not just to the patient's life.

Change in Psychoanalysis Chris Jaenicke, 2011-03-01 In this clinically rich and deeply personal book, Chris Jaenicke demonstrates that the therapeutic process involves change in both the patient and the analyst and that therapy will not have a lasting effect until the inevitability and depth of the analyst's involvement in the intersubjective field is better understood. In other words, in order to change, we must allow ourselves to be changed. This can happen within the sessions themselves as one grasps the influence of and decenters from one's own subjectivity with cumulative effects over the course of the treatment. Thus, the process, limitations and cure of psychotherapy are cocreated without displacing the asymmetrical nature of roles and responsibility. Essentially, beyond the theories and techniques, it is the specificity of our subjectivity as it interacts with the patient's subjectivity which plays the central role in the therapeutic process.

Kohut's Twinship Across Cultures Koichi Togashi, Amanda Kottler, 2015-09-16 Kohut's Twinship Across Cultures: The Psychology of Being Human chronicles a 10-year voyage in which the authors struggled initially independently to make sense of Kohut's intentions when he radically redefined the twinship experience to one of being human among other human beings. Commencing with an exploration of Kohut's work on twinship and an illustration of the value of what he left for elaboration, Togashi and Kottler proceed to introduce a new and very different sensitivity to understanding particular psychoanalytic relational processes and ideas about human existential anguish, trauma and the meaning of life. Together, they tackle the twinship concept which has often been misunderstood and about which little has been written. Uniquely, the book expands and elaborates upon Kohut's final definition: being human among other human beings. It problematizes this apparently simple concept with a wide range of clinical material demonstrating the complexity of the statement and the intricacies involved in recognizing and working with traumatized patients who have never experienced this feeling. It asks how a sense of being human as opposed to being described as human can be generated and how this might help clinicians to better understand and work with trauma. Written for psychoanalysts and psychoanalytic psychotherapists interested in self, psychological, intersubjective and relational theories, Twinship Across Cultures will also be invaluable to clinicians working in the broader areas of psychoanalysis, psychotherapy, social work, psychiatry and education. It will enrich their sensitivity and capacity to understand and treat traumatized patients and the alienation they feel among other human beings

Deadly Therapy Michael Karson, 2008-05-29 Deadly Therapy explores the implications of a dramaturgical approach to the therapy encounter and uses lessons from the theater to illustrate how to enliven psychotherapy Every psychotherapy is an interpersonal system in which power and privilege lead to self serving rules a

Using Early Memories in Psychotherapy Michael Karson, 2006 Certain intrinsic features of early memories make them analogous to life problems and to the therapy relationship childhood tends to imply situations that are confusing disempowered or impulsive and relationships that are parental intimate or defining When early memories are examined the results can be personally meaningful to the individual and relevant to the presenting problem and to the therapy This book recommends strategies for using early memories to enhance the working alliance to make psychological sense of presenting problems and to resolve treatment impasses

Love Matters For Psychic Transformation Maja Reinau, 2016-02-16 Love Matters for Psychic Transformation is woven by a profound respect and love for the soul and the transformative powers of the Body Psyche It is an exploration of the embodied psychic transformation in the specific context of the BodySoul Rhythms work BSR developed by Ann Skinner Mary Hamilton and Marion Woodman In describing the BSR work interviewing six women about their experiences and linking the BSR approach with the new neuroscience developmental psychology change in therapy attachment theory and relational trauma Dr Reinau brings to light all that the

BSR approach has to offer It is with relief and pleasure that I write this endorsement Relief comes because someone with clarity accuracy and care has outlined the consonants of the work of BSR Pleasure because the vowels of the work have been explored in an authentic voice from an open heart with a keen intelligence and from several well studied points of view Once again Maja Reinau has put on her diving costume gone down and this time surfaced with the pearl Love Matters in Psychic Transformation Thank you Maja Ann Skinner co creator of Body Soul Rhythms Love Matters For Psychic Transformation is a gift to the many women who have benefited from the BSR work Dr Reinau is able to delve deeply into the methodology of BodySoul work without destroying the mystery It is a treasure of information for those who seek this way of transformation in their lives The interviews deepen the mystery as well as the understanding of the work Dr Reinau s ability to link BodySoul experience to early developmental theories and to neuroscience provides the path to her conclusion that it is all about love A conclusion with which I am sure Marion Woodman would agree Everyone who seriously considers understanding BodySoul work should read Love Matters for Psychic Transformation Patricia C Patrick M A M D Child Adolescent and Adults Psychiatrist The Marion Woodman BodySoul Rhythms Leadership Training Board Member Marion Woodman Foundation Teaching Member Sand Play Therapist Association
