Trauma-Responsive Schooling Lyn Mikel Brown, Catharine Biddle, Mark Tappan, 2022-08-23 Trauma Responsive Schooling outlines a novel approach to transforming American schools through student centered trauma informed practices The book chronicles the use of an innovative educational model Trauma Responsive Equitable Education TREE as part of a multiyear research project in two elementary schools in rural Maine In this model Lyn Mikel Brown Catharine Biddle and Mark Tappan endorse whole school change encouraging educators to upend traditional classroom power dynamics by listening foremost to student voices validating student experiences and promoting student agency The authors provide complex real life examples of student involvement in the creation and implementation of trauma responsive and equitable practices Their work offers readers concrete actionable examples of such practices which include supporting the whole child by promoting social and emotional learning SEL as well as academic achievement providing access to basic needs such as food clothing and health care and meeting the instructional requirements of dual language learners Many rural schools in the United States experience low student achievement and high absenteeism rates as their geographically isolated communities struggle with poverty substance abuse and other significant stressors Yet as the authors demonstrate supportive learning environments even in under resourced rural schools are able to mitigate adversity stress and trauma and thus promote healing This heartening work illustrates that when educators and school leaders put student needs and interests at the core of school life long lasting change for all students is possible

Social Capital in the Asia Pacific

Yuliani Suseno,Chris Rowley,2020-05-06 Social capital is broadly conceptualised as consisting of resources and network ties embedded in the social structures and relationships that facilitate beneficial outcomes for the actors within those structures Despite the number of research studies on social capital there have been fewer attempts to examine social capital in the context of service oriented firms particularly in the Asia Pacific This is surprising as the service industry plays an important role in the global services trade transactions and business activities Social capital enables and maintains social relations for business transformation for service oriented firms Indeed it would be unimaginable for any economic activity particularly in service oriented firms to occur without social capital This examination of social capital in the Asia Pacific region provides the context for recognising the cultural social and economic opportunities and challenges of several Asia Pacific countries that can potentially enrich our knowledge and understanding of the region Contributions are drawn from cases based in Thailand Indonesia South Korea China and Australia for relevant application in the areas of social capital and service oriented firms in the Asia Pacific This book was originally published as a special issue of the Asia Pacific Business Review

Marx in the Field

Alessandra Mezzadri,2021-02-15 Marx in the Field is a unique edited collection illustrating the relevance of the Marxian method to study contemporary capitalism and the global development process Essays in the collection bring Marx to the field in three ways They illustrate how Marxian categories can be concretely deployed for field research in the global economy they analyse how these categories may be adapted during fieldwork and they discuss data collection methods supporting Marxian analysis Crucially many of the contributions expand the scope of Marxian analysis by combining its insights with those of other intellectual traditions including radical feminisms critical realism and postcolonial studies The book defines the possibilities and challenges of fieldwork guided by Marxian analysis including those emerging from the COVID 19 pandemic The collection takes a global approach to the study of development and of contemporary capitalism While some essays focus on themes and geographical areas of long term concern for international development like informal or rural poverty and work across South Asia Southern and West Africa or South America others focus instead on actors benefitting from the development process like regional exporters larger farmers and traders or on unequal socio economic outcomes across richer and emerging economies and regions including Gulf countries North America Southern Europe or Post Soviet Central and Eastern Europe Some essays explore global processes cutting across the world economy connecting multiple regions actors and inequalities While some of the contributions focus on classic Marxian tropes in the study of contemporary capitalism like class labour and working conditions agrarian change or global commodity chains and prices others aim at demonstrating the relevance of the Marxian method beyond its traditional boundaries for instance for exploring the interplays between food nutrition and poverty the links between social reproduction gender and homework the features of migration and refugees regimes tribal chieftaincy structures or prison labour or the dynamics structuring global surrogacy Overall through the analysis of an extremely varied set of concrete settings and cases this book illustrates the extraordinary insights we can gain by bringing Marx in the field
