D. Larkum,Gary A. Kendrick,Peter J. Ralph,2018-07-27 This book takes the place of Biology of Seagrasses A Treatise on the Biology of Seagrasses with Special Reference to the Australian Region co edited by A W D Larkum A J MaCComb and S A Shepherd and published by Elsevier in 1989 The first book has been influential but it is now 25 years since it was published and seagrass studies have progressed and developed considerably since then. The design of the current book follows in the steps of the first book. There are chapters on taxonomy, floral biology, biogeography and regional studies. The regional studies emphasize the importance of Australia having over half of the world's 62 species, including some ten species published for Australia since the previous book. There are a number of chapters on ecology and biogeography, fish biology and fisheries and dugong biology are prominent chapters. Physiological aspects again play an important part, including new knowledge on the role of hydrogen sulphide in sediments and on photosynthetic processes. Climate change, pollution and environmental degradation this time gain an even more important part of the book. Decline of seagrasses around Australia are also discussed in detail in several chapters. Since the first book was published, two new areas have received special attention: blue carbon and genomic studies. Seagrasses are now known to be a very important player in the formation of blue carbon, i.e. carbon that has a long turnover time in soils and sediments. Alongside salt marshes and mangroves, seagrasses are now recognized as playing a very important role in the formation of blue carbon. And because Australia has such an abundance and variety of seagrasses, their role in blue carbon production and turnover is of great importance. The first whole genomes of seagrasses are now available and Australia has played an important role here. It appears that seagrasses have several different suites of genes as compared with other land plants and even in comparison with freshwater hydrophytes. This difference is leading to important molecular biological studies where the new knowledge will be important to the understanding and conservation of seagrass ecosystems in Australia. Thus, by reason of its natural abundance of diverse seagrasses and a sophisticated seagrass research community in Australia, it is possible to produce a book which will be attractive to marine biologists, coastal scientists and conservationists from many countries around the world.

Painting Class Watercolor David Sanmiguel, 2006. A successful watercolor seems to be the product of pure inspiration, effortless and with a light touch that produces magical results. However, this complete on-the-page class teaches every aspect of the watercolorist's art, from the pigments, paints, palettes and papers to drawing techniques and color harmony in nine beautiful projects. Inspiring photographs go close up to capture every line stroke and figure emerging from the brush, and numerous examples of lovely artwork appear throughout to illustrate the points. Learn to do line drawings, create blocks of color work with cool and warm tones, paint en plein air from nature and interpret trees, skies, sea and beach. The final projects feature all the most popular styles, including portraits, landscapes and still lifes.

Courbet and the Modern Landscape, 2006. With its fittingly dramatic design, Courbet and the Modern Landscape accompanies the first major museum exhibition specifically to address Gustave Courbet's extraordinary achievement in landscape painting. Many of these carefully selected works, produced from 1855 to 1876, gathered from Asia, Europe and North America, will be new to readers. The catalogue, which accompanies an exhibition at the Getty Museum, to be held from February 21 to May 14 2006 highlights the artist's expressive responses to the natural environment. Essays by the curators examine Courbet's distinctly modern practice of landscape painting. Mary Morton's essay situates his landscapes in relation to his work in other genres, his critical reputation, and his role in establishing a new pictorial language for landscape painting. Charlotte Eyerman's essay investigates how later generations of nineteenth and twentieth century artists responded to Courbet's example. The catalogue also includes an essay by Dominique de Font Reaulx, curator of photographs at the Musée d'Orsay, on the relationship between Courbet's work and landscape photography of the 1850s and 1860s. Experimental Landscape Ecology Yolanda F. Wiersma, 2022-04-07 This book offers the first guide to landscape ecologists on the art and science of doing experiments, both observational and manipulative. How do you conduct an experiment when your study subject is as big as a landscape? Issues of scale, spatial heterogeneity, and limitations on replication may challenge scientists seeking to carry out robust experiments in landscape ecology. Beginning with an overview of the history and philosophy of the scientific method and tracing the development of experimental approaches in ecology, broadly, the first half of the book discusses the broader issues of what makes a good experiment. Individual chapters describe unique aspects of landscape ecology that present challenges to experimentation, with suggestions for solutions on issues of scale and how to apply controls, randomization, and adequate replication in a landscape setting. The second half of the book describes different kinds of landscape ecology experimental approaches, including large-scale manipulations, experimental model landscapes, mesocosms, and microcosms, in silico experiments, novel landscapes. Each chapter describes the advantages and disadvantages of each approach and identifies the types of landscape ecology concepts and questions that a research can address. Examples from around the world in a myriad of different environments help to illustrate the ideas in each chapter. Together with an annotated resources section, this book aims to stimulate ideas and inspire creativity for graduate students and early career researchers who want to conduct better experiments in landscape ecology.
