Noguchi In Paris The Unesco Garden:

Noguchi in Paris Marc Treib, Isamu Noguchi, 2003 In 1958 with the project of the garden for the new UNESCO headquarters building in Paris Noguchi realized an exterior design that tested both the state of modern sculpture and in some ways his own Japanese American background Noguchi designed a lower garden complete with modelled stone surfaces greenery rock arrangements a shallow cascade and a pond The garden mixed the contoured surfaces of a modern sculptural relief with arrangements of rocks and object forms that directly recalled the heritage of Japanese garden design Historic and contemporary photographs present the development of the design and its colours and textures throughout the seasons This book present for the first time Noguchi s life and work Noguchi in Paris Marc Treib, 2003 Mirei Shigemori - Rebel in the Garden Christian Tschumi, 2020-08-10 Mirei Shigemori had a major impact on the development of Japanese landscape architecture in the twentieth century Active from the 1920s he founded the Kyoto Garden Society in 1932 In 1939 he designed his own first masterpiece the garden at the main hall of the T fuku ji temple From then on he designed 240 gardens all over Japan until his death in 1975 amongst the most famous are the Tenrai an tea garden 1969 and the Matsuo Taisha garden 1975 The main characteristic of his gardens is that they respect tradition and at the same time depart from conventional paradigms by opening up to the influence of Western modernism with its own language The first part of the book covers Shigemori s life and factors that influenced his work The second part contains a detailed illustration of 17 gardens The book is published as a new and revised edition Listening to Stone Hayden Herrera, 2015-04-21 Throughout the twentieth century Isamu Noguchi was a vital figure in modern art From interlocking wooden sculptures to massive steel monuments to the elegant Akari lamps Noguchi became a master of what he called the sculpturing of space But his constant struggle as both an artist and a man was to embrace his conflicted identity as the son of a single American woman and a famous yet reclusive Japanese father It s only in art he insisted that it was ever possible for me to find any identity at all In this remarkable biography of the elusive artist Hayden Herrera observes this driving force of Noguchi s creativity as intimately tied to his deep appreciation of nature As a boy in Japan Noguchi would collect wild azaleas and blue mountain flowers for a little garden in front of his home As Herrera writes he also included a rock to give a feeling of weight and permanence It was a sensual appreciation he never abandoned When looking for stones in remote Japanese quarries for his zen like Paris garden forty years later he would spend hours actually listening to the stones scrambling from one to another until he found one that spoke to him Constantly striving to take the essence of nature and distill it Noguchi moved from sculpture to furniture and from playgrounds to sets for his friend the choreographer Martha Graham and back again working in wood iron clay steel aluminum and of course stone Throughout his career Noguchi traveled constantly from New York to Paris to India to Japan forever uprooting himself to reinvigorate what he called the keen edge of originality Wherever he went his needy disposition and boyish charm drew women to him yet he tended to push them away when things began to feel too settled Only through his art now seen as a powerful aesthetic link between the East and the West did Noguchi ever seem to feel that he belonged Combining the personal correspondence of and interviews with Noguchi and those closest to him from artists patrons assistants and lovers Herrera has created an authoritative biography of one of the twentieth century s most important sculptors She locates Noguchi in his friendships with such artists as Buckminster Fuller and Arshile Gorky and in his affairs with women including Frida Kahlo and Anna Matta Clark With the attention to detail and scholarship that made her biography of Gorky a finalist for the Pulitzer Prize Herrera has written a rich meditation on art in a globalized milieu Listening to Stone is a moving portrait of an artist compulsively driven to reinvent himself as he searched for his own essence of sculpture

Art in the Encounter of Nations Bert Winther-Tamaki,2001-01-01 Art in the Encounter of Nations is the first book length study of interactions between the Japanese and American art worlds in the early postwar years It brings to light a rich exchange of opinions and debates regarding the relationship between the art of the two nations The author begins with an examination of the Japanese margins of American Abstract Expressionism Taking a contrapuntal approach he investigates four abstract painters two Japanese artists who moved to the United States Okada Kenzo and Hasegawa Saburo and two European Americans whose work is often associated with Japanese calligraphy Mark Tobey and Franz Kline He then looks at the work of two young scions of the calligraphy and pottery worlds of Japan Morita Shiryo and Yagi Kazuo and argues that their radical innovations in these ancient arts were in part provoked by their sense of a threat posed by Euro American modernity The final chapter is devoted to the career of Japanese American sculptor and designer Isamu Noguchi whose feeling of affiliation was directed to both the U S and Japan in shifting ratios through a series of public and private places each posing unique opportunities for exploring national distinctions

Written by a team of renowned practitioners and academics this book offers a broad investigation of how the designed landscape is and has been represented for design study for criticism and even for its realization Invisible Gardens Peter Walker, Melanie Louise Simo, 1996 Invisible Gardens is a composite history of the individuals and firms that defined the field of landscape architecture in America from 1925 to 1975 a period that spawned a significant body of work combining social ideas of enduring value with landscapes and gardens that forged a modern aesthetic The major protagonists include Thomas Church Roberto Burle Marx Isamu Noguchi Luis Barragan Daniel Urban Kiley Stanley White Hideo Sasaki Ian McHarg Lawrence Halprin and Garrett Eckbo They were the pioneers of a new profession in America the first to offer alternatives to the historic landscape and the park tradition as well as to the suburban sprawl and other unplanned developments of twentieth century cities and institutions The work is described against the backdrop of the Great Depression the Second World War the postwar recovery American corporate expansion and the environmental revolution The authors look at unbuilt schemes as well as actual gardens ranging from tiny backyards and play spaces to urban plazas and corporate villas Some of the projects discussed already occupy a canonical position in modern landscape architecture others deserve a similar place but are less well known The result is a record of landscape architecture's cultural contribution as distinctly different in history intent and procedure from its sister fields of architecture and planning during the years when it was acquiring professional status and struggling to define a modernist aesthetic out of the startling changes in postwar America
