NON VERBAL COMMUNICATION P. Sooriya, 2017-12-30 According to experts a substantial portion of our communication is nonverbal Every day we respond to thousands of nonverbal cues and behaviors including postures facial expression eye gaze gestures and tone of voice From our handshakes to our hairstyles nonverbal details reveal who we are and impact how we relate to other people Scientific research on nonverbal communication and behavior began with the 1872 publication of Charles Darwin's the expression of the emotions in man and animals Since that time there has been an abundance of research on the types effects and expressions of unspoken communication and behavior While these signals are often so subtle that we are not consciously aware of them research has identified several different types of nonverbal communication

Nonverbal Communication Albert Mehrabian, 2017-07-28 Even though our society subtly discourages the verbal expression of emotions most of us in ostensibly conforming to our roles nevertheless manage to express likes dislikes status differences personalities as well as weaknesses in nonverbal ways Using vocal expressions gestures postures and movements we amplify restrict or deny what our words say to one another and even say some things with greater facility and efficiency than with words In this new multidimensional approach to the subject of nonverbal communication Albert Mehrabian brings together a great deal of original work which includes descriptions of new experimental methods that are especially suited to this field detailed findings of studies scattered throughout the literature and most importantly the integration of these findings within a compact framework The framework starts with the analysis of the meanings of various nonverbal behaviors and is based on the fact that more than half of the variance in the significance of nonverbal signals can be described in terms of the three orthogonal dimensions of positiveness potency or status and responsiveness These three dimensions not only constitute the semantic space for nonverbal communication but also help to identify groups of behaviors relating to each to describe characteristic differences in nonverbal communication to analyze and generate rules for the understanding of inconsistent messages and to provide researchers with new and comprehensive measures for description of social behavior This volume will be particularly valuable for both the professional psychologist and the graduate student in psychology It will also be of great interest to professionals in the fields of speech and communication sociology anthropology and psychiatry
