Normal Prices, Technical Change and Accumulation B. Schefold, 1997-02-14 This book presents the most significant theoretical articles by Bertram Schefold to illuminate the development and the present state of modern classical theory It assembles twenty heavily discussed papers on joint production and fixed capital choice of technique and technical progress composition of output and the relation between classical neoclassical and keynesian economics There is a broad new introduction The chapter on the critique of intertemporal general equilibrium is novel and represents an original theoretical advance Learning and Technological Change Ross Thomson, 1993-10-13 In this book fifteen prominent scholars of the economy business and technology argue that technical change can fruitfully be interpreted as an institutionally structured learning process These essays show that the analysis of knowledge generating institutions including firms industries patenting systems and occupations provides important insights into the pace direction and persistence of technological change The authors use these insights to both reshape economic theory and reinterpret the economic development of Britain the USA Germany and Japan Foreign Agricultural Economic Report, 1980 Cost-reducing and

Congress. House. Committee on Science. Subcommittee on Energy and Environment, 1998 Technological Change and Network Effects in Growth Regimes Torsten Heinrich, 2014-06-03 In this new volume it is argued that network effects are much more common than usually assumed and that they have a profound impact on many aspects of economic systems especially technological change and economic growth The analysis and modelling of this interrelationship is the central focus of this book While there exists a vast body of literature on economic growth the theories put forward so far have had limited success in explaining observed patterns of economic growth Growth cycles in particular continue to elude standard economic models though evolutionary economics has made some progress Seeking to fill the gap Torsten Heinrich's innovative approach uses microeconomics to explain heterogeneous sectoral dynamics on the meso level and then aggregating these to observed macroeconomic growth rates In this way it is shown that an evolutionary model of technological change with network effects can explain not only commonly observed asymmetric industry structures monopolies and oligopolies but also growth cycles The book includes a comprehensive account of the most influential economic growth theories a discussion of the research on network effects as well as an introduction to the methodology the model and a case study on the recent emergence of information and communication technology This important new volume will be relevant to all those interested in theoretical economics growth theory innovation economics agent based modelling and industry dynamics Changing the Rules Robert W. Crandall, Kenneth Flamm, 2001-06-29 Since 1971 competition has begun to replace regulation as a governing force in the telecommunications industry The breakup of the national telephone monopolies technological advances and the worldwide network in telecommunications have brought a revolution in the telecommunications equipment and services industries These changes have forced legislators and regulators to rethink public policy toward communications The papers in this book were first presented at a conference organized by Robert Crandall and Kenneth Flamm pulling together a group of industry professionals and scholars to address the far reaching implications of the upheaval in the communications industry The contributors analyze the effects of this increasing competition on standardization technical innovation and international rivalry Changing the Rules offers possible policy options and analyzes their potential effects on the future market structure and the competitive positions of the U S computer and communications industries The Economics of New Health Technologies Joan Costa-Font, Christophe Courbage, Alistair McGuire, 2009-05-14 Technological change in healthcare has led to huge improvements in health services and the health status of populations Although offering remarkable benefits these changes often entail significant financial physical and social risks This book analyses the impact of advances in medical technology from an economic perspective Investigation of Concentration of Economic Power: Technology and concentration of economic power. Apr. 8-12, 15-19, 22-26, 1940, xxi, 16207-17599, viii p United States. Congress. House. Douglass Vincent Brown, John Thomas Dunlop, Edwin M. Martin, Charles Andrew Myers, John A. Brownell, 1940 Profitability and the Great Recession Ascension Mejorado, Manuel Roman, 2013-10-23 From the mid 1980s investors in the US increasingly directed capital towards the financial sector at the expense of non financial sectors lured by the perception of higher profits This flow of capital inflated asset prices creating the stock market and housing bubbles which burst when the imbalance between stagnant incomes and rising debts triggered the banking meltdown Profitability and the Great Recession analyses these trends in profitability and capital accumulation which the authors identify as the root cause of the financial crisis in the context of the US and other major OECD countries Drawing on insights from Adam Smith David Ricardo John Stuart Mill and Karl Marx the authors interpret the relationship between capital accumulation and profitability trends through the conceptual lens of classical political economy The book provides extensive empirical evidence of declining rates of US non financial corporate accumulations from the mid 1960s and profitability trends in that sector falling from post war highs In contrast to this it is shown that there was a vigorous rise of profitability in the financial sector from a 1982 trough to the early part of the twenty first century which led to the bloating of that sector The authors conclude that the long term falling accumulation trend in the non financial corporate sector highlighted by the bankruptcy of major automobile corporations stands out as the underlying force that transformed the financial crisis into a fully fledged Great Recession This book will be of interest to students and researchers in the areas of economics political economy business and finance

Technological Change and the Environment Arnulf Grübler,2010-09-30 Much is written in the popular literature about the current pace of technological change But do we have enough scientific knowledge about the sources and management of innovation to properly inform policymaking in technology dependent domains such as energy and the environment While it is agreed that technological change does not fall from heaven like autumn leaves the theory data and models are deficient The specific mechanisms that govern the rate and direction of inventive activity the drivers and scope for incremental improvements that occur during technology diffusion and the spillover effects that cross fertilize technological innovations remain poorly understood In a work that will interest serious readers of history policy and economics the editors and their distinguished contributors offer a unique single volume overview of the theoretical and empirical work on technological change Beginning with a survey of existing research they provide analysis and case studies in contexts such as medicine agriculture and power generation paying particular attention to what technological change means for efficiency productivity and reduced environmental impacts The book includes a historical analysis of technological change an examination of the overall direction of technological change and general theories about the sources of change The contributors empirically test hypotheses of induced innovation and theories of institutional innovation They propose ways to model induced technological change and evaluate its impact and they consider issues such as uncertainty in technology returns technology crossover effects and clustering A copublication of Resources for the Future RFF and the International Institute for Applied Systems Analysis IIASA

Technological Change in a Spatial Context Enrico Ciciotti, Neil Alderman, Alfred Thwaites, 2012-12-06 This book represents a selection of contributions to the Regional Science Association European Summer Institute held at Arco Lake of Garda Italy from 17th to 23rd July 1988 on the theme of Theories and policies of technological development at the local level As such it forms a complementary volume to the collection of invited papers entitled The Spatial Context of Technological Development edited by Professors Riccardo Cappellin and Peter Nijkamp and published by Avebury Gower The Summer Institute covered a broad range of themes and contributions from over 100 researchers It has therefore not been our intention to represent or replicate these themes directly but to provide as wide an international coverage of current research in regional science in the field of technological change as possible The papers to be found in this book are drawn from the European Community Eastern Europe Scandinavia North America and elsewhere Inevitably as the book was to be published in English most of the editorial work has been undertaken at the Centre for Urban and Regional Development Studies at Newcastle University In so doing we have attempted to standardize the English as far as possible whilst trying not to lose the characteristics of the styles of the individual authors
