Religion Society Economics Easternpean:

Handbook of Religion and the Asian City Peter van der Veer, 2015-05-19 Handbook of Religion and the Asian City highlights the creative and innovative role of urban aspirations in Asian world cities. It points out that urban politics and governance are often about religious boundaries and processions in short that public religion is politics. The essays show how projects of secularism come up against projects and ambitions of a religious nature, a particular form of contestation that takes the city as its public arena. Asian cities are sites of speculation not only for those who invest in real estate but also for those who look for housing for employment and for salvation. In its potential and actual mobility, the sacred creates social space in which they all can meet. Handbook of Religion and the Asian City makes the comparative case that one cannot study the historical patterns of urbanization in Asia without paying attention to the role of religion in urban aspirations. Re-enchanting Modernity Mayfair Yang, 2020-05-15 In Re-enchanting Modernity Mayfair Yang examines the resurgence of religious and ritual life after decades of enforced secularization in the coastal area of Wenzhou, China. Drawing on twenty-five years of ethnographic fieldwork, Yang shows how the local practices of popular religion, Daoism and Buddhism are based in community-oriented grassroots organizations that create spaces for relative local autonomy and self-governance. Central to Wenzhou's religious civil society is what Yang calls a ritual economy in which an ethos of generosity is expressed through donations to temples, clerics, ritual events and charities in exchange for spiritual gain. With these investments in transcendent realms, Yang adopts Georges Bataille's notion of ritual expenditures to challenge the idea that rural Wenzhou's economic development can be described in terms of Max Weber's notion of a Protestant Ethic. Instead, Yang suggests that Wenzhou's ritual economy forges an alternate path to capitalist modernity.

The Religious Question in Modern China Vincent Goossaert, David A. Palmer, 2011-04-15 Recent events from strife in Tibet and the rapid growth of Christianity in China to the spectacular expansion of Chinese Buddhist organizations around the globe vividly demonstrate that one cannot understand the modern Chinese world without attending closely to the question of religion. The Religious Question in Modern China highlights parallels and contrasts between historical events, political regimes and cultural movements to explore how religion has challenged and responded to secular Chinese modernity from 1898 to the present. Vincent Goossaert and David A. Palmer piece together the puzzle of religion in China not by looking separately at different religions in different contexts but by writing a unified story of how religion has shaped and in turn been shaped by modern Chinese society. From Chinese medicine and the martial arts to communal temple cults and revivalist redemptive societies, the authors demonstrate that from the nineteenth century onward, as the Chinese state shifted the religious landscape, consistently resurfaced in a bewildering variety of old and new forms. The Religious Question in Modern China integrates historical, anthropological and sociological perspectives in a comprehensive overview of China's religious history that is certain to become an indispensable reference for specialists and students alike.

Religion in China and Its Modern Fate Paul R. Katz, 2014-04-01 Paul R. Katz

Superstitious Regimes Rebecca Nodostup, 2010-07-01 We live in a world shaped by secularism the separation of numinous power from political authority and religion from the political social and economic realms of public life Not only has progress toward modernity often been equated with secularization but when religion is admitted into modernity it has been distinguished from superstition That such ideas are continually contested does not undercut their extraordinary influence These divisions underpin this investigation of the role of religion in the construction of modernity and political power during the Nanjing Decade 1927 1937 of Nationalist rule in China This book explores the modern recategorization of religious practices and people and examines how state power affected the religious lives and physical order of local communities It also looks at how politicians conceived of their own ritual role in an era when authority was meant to derive from popular sovereignty The claims of secular nationalism and mobilizational politics prompted the Nationalists to conceive of the world of religious association as a dangerous realm of superstition that would destroy the nation This is the first superstitious regime of the book's title It also convinced them that national feeling and faith in the party state would replace those ties the second superstitious regime OIKOS Maria Relaki, Jan Driessen, 2020-07-28 This collection of papers explores whether the Levi Straussian notion of the House is a valid concept in aiding the comprehension of the social structure of Bronze Age Aegean societies The volume succeeds in stressing the advances made in the study of social structure of the Aegean on the basis of material remains Popular Religion and Ritual in Prehistoric and Ancient Greece and the Eastern Mediterranean Giorgos Vavouranakis, Konstantinos Kopanias, Chrysanthos Kanellopoulos, 2019-01-14 This volume features a group of select peer reviewed papers by an international group of authors both younger and senior academics and researchers on the frequently neglected popular cult and other ritual practices in prehistoric and ancient Greece and the eastern Mediterranean

History and Magical Power in a Chinese Community P. Sangren, 1987-09-01 This book is a case study of history and culture in the Taiwanese town of Ta-chi and the group of rural villages that constitute its standard marketing community However its scope exceeds that of most community studies The author attempts to construct a holistic view of Chinese culture from an analysis of the relationship between history and ritual in a particular locality The author argues that social institutions and collective representations are dialectically connected in the process of social and cultural reproduction He describes this dialectical process through an analysis of the key cultural concept of ling the magical power attributed to ghosts gods and ancestors In analyzing the symbolic logic of ling he asserts that it can be fully understood only as a product of the reproduction of social institutions and as a manifestation of a native historical consciousness Structuralist and Marxist insights are combined to explain how ling is best understood as both a cultural logic of symbolic relations and a material logic of social relations The book is in three parts Part I is a social and economic history that outlines what one might call an objectivist or positivist view of Ta-chi's history describing events as they were regardless of the perceptions of local participants This material is a background to the synchronic sociological analysis of local territorial cults that constitutes Part II In Part III the author unsettles the objectivist assumptions of Part I by showing how the idiom of ling underlies Taiwanese constructions of history and identity and how the cultural construction of history dialectically reproduces society and creates history The book is illustrated with 8 pages of photographs 17 line drawings and 9 maps Cadres and Kin Gregory A. Ruf, 1999 Building on ethnographic research in a rural village in Sichuan this book examines changing relationships between social organization politics and economy during the 20th century Town and Country in China David Faure, Tao Tao Liu, 2016-04-30 The transformation in Chinese social theory in the twentieth century placed the rural urban divide at the centre of individual identity In 1500 such distinctions were insignificant and it was the emergence of political reforms in the early 1920s and 1930s which separated cities and towns as agents of social change and encouraged a perception of rural backwardness This interdisciplinary collection traces the development and distinctions between urban and rural life and the effect on the Chinese sense of identity from the sixteenth century to the present day It provides a daunting example of the influence that political ideology may exert on an individual's sense of place
