Wyer, Jr.,2014-01-02 Narrative forms of mental representation and their influence on comprehension communication and judgment have rapidly become one of the main foci of research and theory in not only psychology but also other disciplines including linguistics sociology and anthropology No one has been more responsible for the awakening of interest in this area than Roger Schank and Bob Abelson In their target article they argue that narrative forms of mental representation or stories are the basic ingredients of social knowledge that play a fundamental role in the comprehension of information conveyed in a social context the storage of this information in memory and the later communication of it to others After explicating the cognitive processes that underlie the construction of narratives and their use in comprehension memory and communication the chapter authors consider the influence of stories on a number of more specific phenomena including political judgment marital relations and memory distortions that underlie errors in eyewitness testimony The provocativeness of the target chapter is matched by that of the companion articles each of which not only provides an important commentary on Schank and Abelson's conceptualization but also makes an important contribution to knowledge in its own right The diversity of perspectives reflected in these articles whose authors include researchers in linguistics memory and comprehension social inference cognitive development social judgment close relationships and social ecology testifies to the breadth of theoretical and empirical issues to which the target chapter is potentially relevant This volume is a timely and important contribution to research and theory not only in social cognition but in many other areas as well

Goodbye Cinema, Hello Cinephilia Jonathan Rosenbaum, 2010-10-15 The esteemed film critic Jonathan Rosenbaum has brought global cinema to American audiences for the last four decades His incisive writings on individual filmmakers define film culture as a diverse and ever evolving practice unpredictable yet subject to analyses just as diversified as his own discriminating tastes For Rosenbaum there is no high or low cinema only more interesting or less interesting films and the pieces collected here from an appreciation of Marilyn Monroe's intelligence to a classic discussion on and with Jean Luc Godard amply testify to his broad intellect and multi faceted talent Goodbye Cinema Hello Cinephilia gathers together over fifty examples of Rosenbaum's criticism from the past four decades each of which demonstrates his passion for the way we view movies as well as how we write about them Charting our changing concerns with the interconnected issues that surround video DVDs the Internet and new media the writings collected here also highlight Rosenbaum's polemics concerning the digital age From the rediscovery and recirculation of classic films to the social and aesthetic impact of technological changes Rosenbaum doesn't disappoint in assembling a magisterial cast of little known filmmakers as well as the familiar faces and iconic names that have helped to define our era As we move into this new decade of moviegoing one in which Hollywood will continue to feel the shockwaves of the digital age Jonathan Rosenbaum remains a valuable guide Goodbye Cinema Hello Cinephilia is a consummate collection of his work not simply for fans of this seminal critic but for all those open to the wide variety of films he embraces and helps us to elucidate
