Remembering Malcolm Macquarrie Maggie Blick, 2001 Remembering Malcolm Macquarrie is a celebration of story of meaning of the human spirit Played out by a dazzling cast of characters family legacies sweep back and forth across the years and generations from 1924 to beyond 2020 emerging like clear struck bells in the order she strikes them Deftly crafted in breathtaking prose with sly and subtle black humour Remembering Malcolm Macquarrie is a bold first novel that dares to take on and play with the grandeur and frailty that is being human Gaelic Cape Breton Step-Dancing John G.

Gibson, 2017-07-04 The step dancing of the Scotch Gaels in Nova Scotia is the last living example of a form of dance that waned following the great emigrations to Canada that ended in 1845 The Scotch Gael has been reported as loving dance but step dancing in Scotland had all but disappeared by 1945 One must look to Gaelic Nova Scotia Cape Breton and Antigonish County to find this tradition Gaelic Cape Breton Step Dancing the first study of its kind gives this art form and the people and culture associated with it the prominence they have long deserved Gaelic Scotland's cultural record is by and large pre literate and references to dance have had to be sought in Gaelic songs many of which were transcribed on paper by those who knew their culture might be lost with the decline of their language The improved Scottish culture depended proudly on the teaching of dancing and the literate learning and transmission of music in accompaniment Relying on fieldwork in Nova Scotia and on mentions of dance in Gaelic song and verse in Scotland and Nova Scotia John Gibson traces the historical roots of step dancing particularly the older forms of dancing originating in the Gaelic speaking Scottish Highlands He also places the current tradition as a development and part of the much larger British and European percussive dance tradition With insight collected through written sources tales songs manuscripts book references interviews and conversations Gaelic Cape Breton Step Dancing brings an important aspect of Gaelic history to the forefront of cultural debate Westerly, 2001

A Phenomenological Hermeneutic of Antiracism in The Autobiography of Malcolm X David Polizzi, 2019-06-04. This text provides a phenomenological account of the experience of anti-black racism as described by Malcolm X. Central to this analysis is the phenomenology that emerges over the course of Malcolm's life, which emerges through the various personal transformations that the autobiography introduces and explores. As this process unfolds, a variety of different aspects of lived experience can be witnessed that become situated within the process of naming that Malcolm employs to situate the specifics of his experience. For example, the phenomenology of Malcolm's early childhood experience is defined by two very different competing definitions for blackness. Though Malcolm Little and his family exist or find themselves thrown within a social structure that employs a narrative of anti-black racism, his parents are able to provide a powerful alternative meaning for blackness that is informed by the perspective taken from the Marcus Garvey Movement of the early 1900s. When that narrative is effectively silenced, given Malcolm's separation from his family, the positive meanings for black being in the world disappear and leave Malcolm with few alternatives to this new reality. As the autobiography moves forward, Malcolm's experience becomes defined by the phenomenology that these overlapping narratives construct. During certain moments of this phenomenology, the negative aspects of anti-black racism seem to impose very specific challenges to Malcolm's lived experience that become difficult to overcome, and in others, powerful alternative meanings for black being in the world are taken up and successfully employed to address the consequences of this type of racism. Though the fact of anti-black racism is never actually defeated, Malcolm's relationship to this process is drastically transformed over the course of his reflection.

Old and New World Highland Bagpiping John Graham Gibson, 2002. Old and New World Highland Bagpiping provides a comprehensive biographical and genealogical account of pipers and piping in highland Scotland and Gaelic Cape Breton. The work is the result of over thirty years of oral fieldwork among the last Gaels in Cape Breton for whom piping fitted unself-consciously into community life as well as an exhaustive synthesis of Scottish archival and secondary sources. Reflecting the invaluable memories of now deceased new world Gaelic lore bearers, John Gibson shows that traditional community piping in both the old and new world Ghealtachlan was and for a long time remained the same, exposing the distortions introduced by the tendency to interpret the written record from the perspective of modern post-eighteenth century bagpipers. Following up the argument in his previous book

Traditional Gaelic Bagpiping 1745 1945 Gibson traces the shift from tradition to modernism in the old world through detailed genealogies focusing on how the social function of the Scottish piper changed and step dance piping progressively disappeared Old and New World Highland Bagpiping will stir controversy and debate in the piping world while providing reminders of the value of oral history and the importance of describing cultural phenomena with great care and detail

Communities of Memory William James Booth, 2018-07-05 Memory has fueled merciless violent strife and it has been at the core of reconciliation and reconstruction It has been used to justify great crimes and yet it is central to the pursuit of justice In these and more everyday ways we live surrounded by memory individual and social in our habits our names the places where we live street names libraries archives and our citizenship institutions and laws Still we wonder what to make of memory and its gifts though sometimes we are hardly even certain that they are gifts Of the many chambers in this vast palace I mean to ask particularly after the place of memory in politics in the identity of political communities and in their practices of doing justice from the Preface W James Booth seeks to understand the place of memory in the identity ethics and practices of justice of political communities Identity is he believes a particular kind of continuity across time one central to the possibility of agency and responsibility and memory plays a central role in grounding that continuity Memory identity takes two forms a habitlike form the deep presence of the past that is part of a life led in common and a more fragile vulnerable form in which memory struggles to preserve identity through time notably in bearing witness a form of memory work deeply bound up with the identity of political communities Booth argues that memory holds a defining place in determining how justice is administered Memory is tied to the very possibility of an ethical community one responsible for its own past able to make commitments for the future and driven to seek justice Underneath and motivating the politics of memory understood as contests over the writing of history over memorials museums and canons he writes there lies an intertwining of memory identity and justice Communities of Memory both argues for and maps out that intertwining

Marxism and Totality Martin Jay, 1984 Totality has been an abiding concern from the first generation of Western Marxists most notably Lukács, Korsch, Gramsci and Bloch through the second exemplified by the Frankfurt School, Lefebvre, Goldmann, Sartre, Merleau-Ponty and Della Volpe up to the most recent typified by Althusser, Colletti and Habermas Yet no consensus has been reached concerning the term's multiple meanings expressive, decentered, longitudinal, latitudinal, normative or its implications for other theoretical and practical matters By closely following the adventures of this troublesome but central concept Marxism Totality offers an unconventional account of the history of Western Marxism The Caledonian, 1915

Mormonism in Dialogue with Contemporary Christian Theologies David Lamont Paulsen, Donald W. Musser, 2007 This volume brings together for the first time a broad range of scholars from Mormon and other Christian traditions Replacing polemics and apologetics with dialogue these exchanges show how the full spectrum of contemporary theologies can be informed by uniquely Mormon ideas and correlatively how Mormon thought can be illuminated through the study of key ideas of the foremost theologians of the twentieth and twenty first centuries      The Reconstruction of Resurrection Belief Peter Carnley, 2020-01-01 While its companion volume The Resurrection in Retrospect addresses the inadequacies of an approach to the Resurrection of Christ purely as an event of past historical time The Reconstruction of Resurrection Belief articulates an alternative understanding of Resurrection faith as essentially a response of trust based upon a knowledge by acquaintance with the living presence of Christ today In the hope that it may have some traction in an increasingly secular world of contemporary scientific realism Carnley demonstrates an understanding of the nature of Resurrection faith in the language of today with as much logical coherence as possible and explains how the claim that the animating Spirit of the Christian community that Saint Paul spoke of as the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus Rom 8 2 may be justifiably identified in faith today as the living presence of Jesus of Nazareth

Arts & Humanities Citation Index ,2002      The Cross and the Lynching Tree James H. Cone, 2011 A landmark in the conversation about race and religion in America They put him to death by hanging him on a tree Acts 10 39 The cross and the lynching tree are the two most emotionally charged symbols in the history of the African American community In this powerful new work theologian James H Cone explores these symbols and their interconnection in the history and souls of black folk Both the cross and the lynching tree represent the worst in human beings and at the same time a thirst for life that refuses to let the worst determine our final meaning While the lynching tree symbolized white power and black death the cross symbolizes divine power and black life God overcoming the power of sin and death For African Americans the image of Jesus hung on a tree to die powerfully grounded their faith that God was with them even in the suffering of the lynching era In a work that spans social history theology and cultural studies Cone explores the message of the spirituals and the power of the blues the passion and of Emmet Till and the engaged vision of Martin Luther King Jr he invokes the spirits of Billie Holliday and Langston Hughes Fannie Lou Hamer and Ida B Well and the witness of black artists writers preachers and fighters for justice And he remembers the victims especially the 5 000 who perished during the lynching period Through their witness he contemplates the greatest challenge of any Christian theology to explain how life can be made meaningful in the face of death and injustice      Marcuse Robert Pippin, Andrew Feenberg, Charles P. Webel, 1988 Distinguished scholars Jurgen Habermas Claus Offe Douglas Kellner and Martin Jay among others draw upon historical theoretical and biographical information to assess Marcuse's philosophy from its grounding in classical German idealism through the break with Heidegger to his role in the American counterculture of the sixties and seventies Indispensable for anyone interested in an in depth understanding of one of the most burning issues of our time the relation of critical theory to social action      The Future as Catastrophe Eva Horn, 2018-09-18 Why do we have the constant feeling that disaster is looming Beyond the images of atomic apocalypse that have haunted us for decades we are dazzled now by an array of possible catastrophe scenarios climate change financial crises environmental disasters technological meltdowns perennial subjects of literature film popular culture and political debate Is this preoccupation with catastrophe questionable alarmism or complacent passivity Or are there certain truths that can be revealed only in apocalypse In The Future as Catastrophe Eva Horn offers a novel critique of the modern fascination with disaster which she treats as a symptom of our relationship to the future Analyzing the catastrophic imaginary from its cultural and historical roots in Romanticism and the figure of the Last Man through the narratives of climatic cataclysm and the Cold War's apocalyptic sublime to the contemporary popularity of disaster fiction and end of the world blockbusters Horn argues that apocalypse always haunts the modern idea of a future that can be anticipated and planned Considering works by Lord Byron J G Ballard and Cormac McCarthy and films such as 12 Monkeys and Minority Report alongside scientific scenarios and political metaphors she analyzes catastrophic thought experiments and the question of survival the choices legitimized by imagined states of exception and the contradictions inherent in preventative measures taken in the name of technical safety or political security What makes today's obsession different from previous epochs is the sense of a catastrophe without event a stealthily creeping process of disintegration Ultimately Horn argues imagined catastrophes offer us intellectual tools that can render a future shadowed with apocalyptic possibilities affectively epistemologically and politically accessible      The American Film Institute Catalog of Motion Pictures Produced in the United States American Film Institute, 1997 After more than fifteen years this initial volume of the American Film Institute Catalog series is again in print The 1920s set covers the important filmmaking period when movies became talkies and the careers of many influential directors and actors were launched Films such as Wings The Phantom of the Opera All Quiet on the Western Front and The Jazz Singer are included in this volume
