Downs, 2014-12-08 Historians have long recognized the middle of the twentieth century as significant in the history of the modern South owing to a convergence of social change political realignment and cultural expansion This period in southern history has provided extensive material for scholars of race gender and politics In addition sweeping economic changes spread throughout the South permanently shifting the area's material resources Transforming the South examines this transition from farm to factory and explores the dramatic reshaping of the region's economy Matthew L. Downs focuses on three developments in the Tennessee Valley the World War I era government nitrate plants and hydroelectric dams at Muscle Shoals Alabama the extensive work completed by the Tennessee Valley Authority and Cold War Space Age defense investment in Huntsville Alabama Downs argues that the modernization of the Sunbelt economy depended on cooperation between regional leaders and federal funders Local boosters lobbied to receive federal funds for their communities while simultaneously forming economic development organizations that would prepare those communities for further growth Economic reform also drove social reform as members of historically disenfranchised groups attained employment in the new industrial workforce they gained financial and political capital to push for social change Transforming the South considers the role played by the recipients of government funds in the mid twentieth century and demonstrates how communities exerted an unparalleled influence over the federal investments that shaped the southern economy "I Hate Reading" Justin M. The Little Bookstore on Heart Lake Lane Sarah Robinson, 2023-05-23 In this charming installment of the Heart Lake series a grumpy single dad and a small town bookseller who's secretly an advice columnist find love when they least expect it. As chaotic as it can be, Rosie Dean loves her unruly life. But between raising twins alone, running her struggling bookshop, and secretly writing a parenting advice column, the single mom can't think about dating. At least that's what she tells herself until her high school crush and his incredible blue eyes return to Heart Lake for the summer. Even though Evan has grown into a huge grump, he's still a super sexy one and soon sparks begin to fly. Single dad and widower Evan Mills is used to hearing he's too serious. But with a grieving tween daughter to raise on his own, the graphic designer is just trying to stay strong for her. He hopes a few weeks at the lake will be the fresh start they both need. Evan never anticipated reconnecting with Rosie or that she could make him feel whole again if he'd give her the chance. Will one steamy summer with Rosie be long enough to melt Evan's heart? Includes the bonus novella Annie Rains Kiss Me in Sweetwater Springs.

Madame President Sharon Young, 2011-03-26 This is a story about a woman who runs for President of the United States. It involves international intrigue, alliances with Canada, a contest with the sitting President over whether to enter into a skirmish in an Eastern European country, and a former lover who ends up running against her. There is time spent in New York State on the campaign trail, debates with political rivals, a conflict against the possibility of an Arab alliance with a Central American country dealing with oil exploitation in the Yukon, interplay with the campaign committee and encounters with the press, as well as an attempt on her life. The plot is high concept with dense plotting but with light moments such as sexual interludes and one slapstick party scene involving a prime minister, a couple of senators, and a reporter. The writing is in the tradition of a carefully detailed plot drawn out sparingly in a sensitive internal monologue with a compelling love story and a personal encounter with the abortion issue.
