Chivalry and Exploration, 1298-1630 Jennifer Robin Goodman, 1998 The literature of medieval knighthood is shown to have influenced exploration narratives from Marco Polo to Captain John Smith Explorers from Marco Polo to Captain John Smith viewed their travels and discoveries in the light of attitudes they absorbed from the literature of medieval knighthood Their own accounts and contemporary narratives reinforced by the interest of early printers reveal this interplay but historians of exploration on the one hand and of chivalry on the other have largely ignored this cultural connection Jennifer Goodman convincingly develops the idea of the chivalric romance as an imaginative literature of travel she traces the publication of medieval chivalric texts alongside exploration narratives throughout the later middle ages and renaissance and reveals parallel themes and preoccupations She illustrates this with the histories of a sequence of explorers and their links with chivalry from Marco Polo to Captain John Smith and including Gadifer de la Salle and his expedition to the Canary Islands Prince Henry the Navigator Cortés Hakluyt and Sir Walter Raleigh JENNIFER GOODMAN teaches at Texas A M University

The Mélusine Romance in Medieval Europe Lydia Zeldenrust, 2020 Readers have long been fascinated by the enigmatic figure of Mélusine a beautiful fairy woman cursed to transform into a half serpent once a week

whose part monstrous sons are the ancestor of several European noble houses This study is the first to consider how this romance developed from a local legend to European bestseller analysing versions in French German Castilian Dutch and English It addresses questions on how to study medieval literature from a European perspective moving beyond national canons and reading M lusine s bodily mutability as a metaphor for how the romance itself moves and transforms across borders It also analyses key changes to the romance s content form and material presentation including its images and traces how the people who produced and consumed this romance shaped its international transmission and spread The author shows how M lusine s character is adapted within each local context while also uncovering previously unknown connections between the different branches of this multilingual tradition Moving beyond established paradigms of separate national traditions manuscript versus print and medieval versus Renaissance literature the book integrates literary analysis with art historical and book historical approaches

Reading and the History of Race in the Renaissance Elizabeth Spiller, 2011-05-12 Elizabeth Spiller studies how early modern attitudes towards race were connected to assumptions about the relationship between the act of reading and the nature of physical identity As reading was understood to happen in and to the body what you read could change who you were In a culture in which learning about the world and its human boundaries came increasingly through reading one place where histories of race and histories of books intersect is in the minds and bodies of readers Bringing together ethnic studies book history and historical phenomenology this book provides a detailed case study of printed romances and works by Montalvo Heliodorus Amyot Ariosto Tasso Cervantes Munday Burton Sidney and Wroth Reading and the History of Race traces ways in which print culture and the reading practices it encouraged contributed to shifting understandings of racial and ethnic identity

Renaissance Romance Dr Nandini Das,2013-05-28 Romance was criticized for its perceived immorality throughout the Renaissance and even enthusiasts were often forced to acknowledge the shortcomings of its dated narrative conventions Yet despite that general condemnation the striking growth in English fiction in the late sixteenth and early seventeenth centuries is marked by writers who persisted in using this much maligned narrative form In Renaissance Romance Nandini Das examines why the fears and expectations surrounding the old genre of romance resonated with successive new generations at this particular historical juncture Across a range of texts in which romance was adopted by the court by popular print and by women Das shows how the process of realignment and transformation through which the new prose fiction took shape was driven by a generational consciousness that was always inherent in romance In the fiction produced by writers such as Sir Philip Sidney Robert Greene and Lady Mary Wroth the transformative interaction of romance with other emergent forms from the court masque to cartography was determined by specific configurations of social groups drawn along the lines of generational difference What emerged as a result of that interaction radically changed the possibilities of fiction in the period
