Early Modern Autobiography Ronald Bedford, Lloyd Davis, Philippa Kelly, 2006 Why and in what ways did late medieval and early modern English people write about themselves and what was their understanding of how selves were made and discussed This collection goes to the heart of current debate about literature and autobiography addressing the contentious issues of what is meant by early modern autobiographical writing how it was done and what was understood by self representation in a society whose groupings were both elaborate and highly regulated Early Modern Autobiography considers the many ways in which autobiographical selves emerged from the late medieval period through the seventeenth century with the aim of understanding the interaction between those individuals lives and their worlds the ways in which they could be recorded and the contexts in which they are read In addressing this historical arc the volume develops new readings of significant autobiographical works while also suggesting the importance of texts and contexts that have rarely been analyzed in detail enabling the contributors to reflect on and challenge some prevailing ideas about what it means to write autobiographically and about the development of notions of self representation The idea of the self as seen from diverse and fascinating perspectives on sixteenth and seventeenth century life this is what readers can expect from Early Modern Autobiography A beautifully edited collection genuinely far reaching and insightful Early Modern Autobiography makes known to us a great deal about how people saw themselves four hundred years ago Derek Cohen

The Theater of Experiment Al Coppola, 2016-08-19 The first book length study of the relationship between science and theater

during the long eighteenth century in Britain The Theater of Experiment explores the crucial role of spectacle in the establishment of modern science by analyzing how eighteenth century science was staged in a double sense On the one hand this study analyzes science in performance the way that science and scientists were made a public spectacle in comedies farces and pantomimes for purposes that could range from the satiric to the pedagogic to the hagiographic But this book also considers the way in which these plays laid bare science as performance that is the way that eighteenth century science was itself a kind of performing art subject to regimes of stagecraft that traversed the laboratory the lecture hall the anatomy theater and the public stage Not only did the representation of natural philosophy in eighteenth century plays like Thomas Shadwell's Virtuoso Aphra Behn's The Emperor of the Moon Susanna Centlivre's The Basset Table and John Rich's Necromancer or Harelequin Doctor Faustus influence contemporary debates over the role that experimental science was to play public life the theater shaped the very form that science itself was to take By disciplining and ultimately helping to legitimate experimental philosophy the eighteenth century stage helped to naturalize an epistemology based on self evident decontextualized facts that might speak for themselves In this the stage and the lab jointly fostered an Enlightenment culture of spectacle that transformed the conditions necessary for the production and dissemination of scientific knowledge Precisely because Enlightenment public science initiatives taking their cue from the public stages came to embrace the stagecraft and spectacle that Restoration natural philosophy sought to repress from the scene of experimental knowledge production eighteenth century science organized itself around not the sober masculine modest witness of experiment but the sentimental feminized eager observer of scientific performance
