Latino Crossings Nicholas De Genova, Ana Yolanda Ramos-Zayas, 2004-08-02 Despite being lumped together by census data there are deep divisions between Mexicans and Puerto Ricans living in the United States Mexicans see Puerto Ricans as deceptive disagreeable nervous rude violent and dangerous while Puerto Ricans see Mexicans as submissive gullible naive and folksy The distinctly different styles of Spanish each group speaks reinforces racialized class differences Despite these antagonistic divisions these two groups do show some form of Latinidad or a shared sense of Latin American identity Latino Crossings examines how these constructions of Latino self and otherness interact with America's dominant white black racial consciousness Latino Crossings is a striking piece of scholarship that transcends the usually rigid boundary between Chicano Mexican and Puerto Rican studies Schools as Radical Sanctuaries René Antrop-González, 2011-11-01 Large comprehensive urban high schools were designed and constructed with the belief that they could meet the needs of all its students academic and otherwise By and large however these schools have only done a good job of sorting students for specific jobs in a society based on capitalism and White supremacy Consequently students schooled in these large institutions are often sorted depending on how they are situated and or perceived by institutional agents i e teachers administrators guidance counselors and other staff along racial ethnic class gender sexual orientation and ability lines The overall result of such structurally and culturally based discriminatory practices has led to astronomically horrendous dropout pushout rates among urban youth particularly those of color who live in poverty However in such a sea of despair there exist islands of hope and miracles These islands of hope and miracles are constituted of small high schools that have become sanctuaries for their students their families and communities of color Moreover not only do these school sanctuaries exist but they have the potential to serve as inspirations to communities that are looking to the small schools initiative as a possible solution to the widespread failure of large comprehensive high schools to serve their needs Although much recent small schools research discusses the benefits of smallness very little of this research demonstrates or acknowledges the various ways in which communities have created small schools that have established the necessary conditions to make them sustainable culturally relevant and linked to social justice while greatly impacting the improved academic achievement of their students Therefore the focus of this book is to advance the school as radical sanctuary concept as described through the history curricula and experiences of urban youth and their teachers in two small urban high schools This book is important for those educationists who wish to deepen their understanding of small school reform and its implications for urban education

Chicanas and Chicanos in School Marcos Pizarro, 2009-06-03 By any measure of test scores and graduation rates public schools are failing to educate a large percentage of Chicana o youth But despite years of analysis of this failure no consensus has been reached as to how to realistically address it Taking a new approach to these issues Marcos Pizarro goes directly to Chicana o students in both urban and rural school districts to ask what their school experiences are really like how teachers and administrators support or thwart their educational aspirations and how schools could better serve their Chicana o students In this accessible from the trenches account of the Chicana o school experience Marcos Pizarro makes the case that racial identity formation is the crucial variable in Chicana o students success or failure in school He draws on the insights of students in East Los Angeles and rural Washington State as well as years of research and activism in public education to demonstrate that Chicana o students face the daunting challenge of forming a positive sense of racial identity within an educational system that unintentionally yet consistently holds them to low standards because of their race From his analysis of this systemic problem he develops a model for understanding the process of racialization and for empowering Chicana o students to succeed in school that can be used by teachers school administrators parents community members and students themselves
