Institutional Context of Education Systems in Europe R.H. Hofman, W.H.A. Hofman, J.M. Gray, P. Daly, 2006-01-16 Based on empirical analysis using configuration theory and multi dimensional scaling this book provides insight into types of relationships that can be found between groups of countries with certain institutional context features and into the quality and equity of their education system In this volume the authors take up the challenge of considering what a European settlement might look like In doing so they take into account worldwide trends and the increasing evidence of convergence across educational systems The outcomes of comparative analyses seem to suggest that strong education systems in terms of finance governance and choice could be preferable To a greater or lesser extent therefore all the systems of education currently in use in Europe face some common challenges The way in which these challenges are addressed will determine the future of these systems Key elements in the current debate that are considered in greater detail in this volume include changing views on a centre local relations with signs of an increasing commitment to decentralisation as a guiding principle for developing school governance b school autonomy which is now increasingly regarded as the engine room for school improvement especially in relation to sustaining it and c the celebration of community and school choice as a means of securing higher levels of parental involvement This volume will be of interest to researchers and practitioners working in education educational research and sociology of education It will also be of relevance to those interested in the comparison of various education systems and in governance funding of education and school choice School Organisation (RLE Edu

L) William Tyler, 2012-05-16 The internal organisation of the school touches on many areas of contemporary debate Is there such a thing as a good school Are large urban comprehensives necessarily impersonal Are the charges of indiscipline conflict and declining standards in modern schools based on a failure to understand schools as institutions At the time this book was first published sociological analysis had neglected to consider schools as organisational entities preferring to see them as either the sites for negotiated encounters between teachers and pupils or else as agencies of class reproduction The author redresses this imbalance and by relating the various literatures on the school to the constitutive patterns of its internal organisation he demonstrates the need for a more intensive sociological study of this embattled institution School
