School Matters:

School Matters RoSusan D. Bartee, M. Christopher Brown, 2007 There are four types of capital economic human cultural and social The distribution of capital in home and school settings affects the types of educational outcomes and the quality of lifelong opportunities that individuals are able to enjoy Resource availability and accessibility influence the success levels at which teaching and learning is experienced Capital possession or acquisition impacts the ability to navigate the academic pipeline and to recognize the appropriate tools by which to do so Minimal attempts have been taken to address different perspectives related to economic human cultural and social capital This book identifies the various tenets of capital as having shared similarities and or differences as well as reveals how the distribution of capital impacts educational settings More specifically this book reveals that given the increases in the parental education or the cultural capital of African Americans no significant changes have occurred in the number of years that African American children attend schools This finding remains consistent in terms of the sort of cultural capital that they are able to gain In sum the research concludes that cultural capital does assume a significant role in the transfer of advantages that stem from middle and upper level socioeconomic backgrounds School Matters Peter Mortimore, Pamela Sammons, Louise Stoll, David Lewis, Russell
