Science Of Human Progress:

Science and human progress, 1974 Science and Human Progress ... Sir Oliver Lodge, 1927 Perpetuity
Michael Herlache, 2017-01-27 Human progress is the universal cause of man Human progress is the movement towards receiving passive benefits from survival and then active benefits Human progress occurs at the level of the individual rather than the collective tribe or public or any other grouping term used to refer to human beings As you can see in the infographic the reasoned self interest is the key to human progress culminating in perpetuity The ideologically zero sum believe that the self interest is an impediment to the advancement of their agenda and thus advocate that human progress is the loss of self interest This is the basis for the philosophy and science of war known as Bias Bias is associated with the regression of the human de evolution is the state of man to zero sum From Survival to Active Benefits to Passive Benefits From a philosophical and scientific perspective man s advancement is from merely surviving and dealing with the challenges that nature provides to creating assets that can be utilized actively to generate benefits for him Past the active involvement in said assets man s next step is to build assets that generate passive benefits for himself that do not require his active involvement This passive benefit stream is associated with the perpetuity A Model for Human Progress Perpetuity Human progress can thus be modeled with perpetuity The progress of man is towards the perpetuity The key to integrating the false dichotomy that is philosophy vs science is the perpetuity which ties both together The key to the perpetuity is reason Knowledge should be engineered towards the universal cause of man human progress Knowledge Engineering Perpetuity is the operating system ie the nature of the mind in terms of knowledge engineering the Perpetuity BOK can be thought of as the platform and other subjects simply mods built onto the platform once exposed to reason the human cannot help but think in terms of reason such is the nature of the mind and how the human evolved this speaks to the fact that reason as the nature of the mind is a universal and why reasoned rule is inevitable The nature of the mind is perpetuity ie passive benefits that never atrophy This was the purpose of creation The build the perfect perpetuity the human evolved evolves towards perpetuity The more reasoned one is the more passive benefits that they receive pleasure at the level of the mind and body To understand the nature of the human it is important to understand the nature of the mind which is perpetuity perpetuity can be modeled

Gernot Bohme, 2019-04-02 Gernot Bohme a distinguished and original contributor to critical theory's philosophy of science project sets out the main theses of this program in an important volume for science studies scholars Stressing that science is a necessary aspect of advanced societies Bohme explores the most fundamental questions about its social political and cultural roles in modern society In light of the mixed blessings of technical society Bohme questions whether we can continue to regard the institution of science as the top of a hierarchy of knowledge or as a neutral means of progress let alone as a benign force for good Science and its future are too important to be left to the scientists society Bohme insists must take control of its scientific future Human Progress Michael Herlache, 2017-01-12 From Survival to Active Benefits to Passive

Benefits From a philosophical and scientific perspective man's advancement is from merely surviving and dealing with the challenges that nature provides to creating assets that can be utilized actively to generate benefits for him Past the active involvement in said assets man's next step is to build assets that generate passive benefits for himself that do not require his active involvement This passive benefit stream is associated with the perpetuity A Model for Human Progress Perpetuity Human progress can thus be modeled with perpetuity The progress of man is towards the perpetuity The key to integrating the false dichotomy that is philosophy vs science is the perpetuity which ties both together The key to the perpetuity is reason Knowledge should be engineered towards the universal cause of man human progress Sustainable Human

Development in the Twenty-First Century - Volume II Ismail Sirageldin, 2008-12-31 Sustainable Human Development in the Twenty First Century is a component of Encyclopedia of Human Resources Policy Development and Management in the global Encyclopedia of Life Support Systems EOLSS which is an integrated compendium of twenty Encyclopedias The volume of Human Development examines the state and nature of human development and identifies factors that determine its promotion for the twenty first century A general goal since the ultimate goal for human development is to enhance the quality of human life However the concept quality of human life is not well defined It is determined by a set of interrelated

factors that cut across many disciplines with varied perspectives and paradigms These include the prevailing culture health status economic performance technological development political and social conditions the building of human capacity and capabilities and institutional development on the local and global levels For example in an environment characterized by a better quality of human life it is expected that people will be able to lead long and productive lives They are also expected to enjoy good health have access to knowledge and educational opportunities and be treated by all with respect in a socially equitable and dignified manner In the sphere of political economy they are expected to have the opportunity to participate in governance decisions that affect their lives and the community in which they live and to have the potential to earn sufficient income to supply themselves with adequate nutrition shelter and other material and aesthetic needs Furthermore people are expected to maintain a sustainable environment and equitable social contracts across space and generations especially in the context of the evolving global governance The volume of Sustainable Human Development in the Twenty First Century is divided into five topics which are then expanded into multiple subtopics each as a chapter presented in two volumes The first is Major issues in Human Development and provides an over view of the Topic with emphasis on the sociological foundation of human development The second Topic Diversity and Historical Processes reviews the historical and technological processes which have led to the present state of human diversity and differentiation The third Topic Causes of Global Change focuses on whether it is possible in the present global environment to enlarge people s capabilities so that economic progress may be translated into a multidimensional human happiness The fourth Topic Consequences of Global Change examines global change not in the narrow sense of short term economic change but rather as historical waves of long term development The fifth Topic on Planning Strategies reviews current practice and projects challenges in the next century These two volumes are aimed at the following five major target audiences University and College Students Educators Professional Practitioners Research Personnel and Policy Analysts Managers and Decision Makers and NGOs
