Science And Technology In Africa:

In Search of Modernity Paul Tiyaambe Zeleza, Ibulaimu Kakoma, 2003 Having grappled with the question of modernisation for a long time Africa now faces an issue that with an increasingly knowledge based global economy has only become more urgent in this new millennium This volume examines Africa's scientific and technological literacy production and consumption focusing in detail on the constraints and challenges opportunities and developments and the strategies required to promote the advancement of IT and biotechnology in Africa to help advance our understanding of science and technology developments in Africa Science and Technology in Africa John W. Forje, 1989 Popularisation of Science and Technology Education Commonwealth Secretariat, 2002 Through country case studies centred around Sub Saharan Africa this book provides critical insights into why science and technology should be popularised what and whose science and technology systems should be introduced and promoted and how science and technology should be implemented and practised Bulletin of the UNESCO Regional Office of Science and Technology for Africa Unesco. Regional Office of Science and Technology for Africa, 1978 Bulletin of the Unesco Regional Office of Science and Technology for Africa, 1994-07 Building Partnerships in Science and Technology for Africa's Development South Africa. Department of Science and Technology, 2006 Science and Technology Policy in Africa Jeggan Colley Senghor, 2000 Endogenous Capacity Building in Science and Technology in Africa United Nations. Economic Commission for Africa. Science and Technology Section, 1993 What Do Science, Technology, and Innovation Mean from Africa? Clapperton Chakanetsa Mavhunga, 2017-06-16 Explorations of science technology and innovation in Africa not as the product of technology transfer from elsewhere but as the working of African knowledge In the STI literature Africa has often been regarded as a recipient of science technology and innovation rather than a maker of them In this book scholars from a range of disciplines show that STI in Africa is not merely the product of technology transfer from elsewhere but the working of African knowledge Their contributions focus on African ways of looking meaning making and creating The chapter authors see Africans as intellectual agents whose perspectives constitute authoritative knowledge and whose strategic deployment of both endogenous and inbound things represents an African centered notion of STI Things do not always mean the same from everywhere observes Clapperton Chakanetsa Mavhunga the volume's editor Western colonialist definitions of STI are not universalizable The contributors discuss topics that include the trivialization of indigenous knowledge under colonialism the creative labor of chimurenga the transformation of everyday surroundings into military infrastructure the role of enslaved Africans in America as innovators and synthesizers the African ethos of fixing the constitutive appropriation that makes mobile technologies African and an African innovation strategy that builds on domestic capacities The contributions describe an Africa that is creative technological and scientific showing that African STI is the latest iteration of a long process of accumulative multicultural knowledge production Contributors Geri Augusto Shadreck Chirikure Chux Daniels Ron Eglash Ellen Foster
