The Poems of Abraham Cowley Abraham Cowley, 1822 Poetry, Poets, Readers Peter Robinson, 2002 Poetry Poets Readers is a defence of poetry against the protective moves which claim that poets never lie because they never affirm or that their poems exist in a separate world These much reiterated manoeuvres for safe guarding poetry by banishing it from an active role in life can paradoxically go hand in hand with a poet's yearning for the authority of a legislator Through detailed considerations of poetry by Shakespeare Keats Yeats Auden Elizabeth Bishop and Paul Muldoon along with sustained meditations on question forms in poems the role of fact in fictions the nature of literary value speech acts and performative utterances issued by poets the book sets out a fresh model for relationships between poetry poets and readers one which allows the historical fact of poems having made things happen to be itself happening Peter Robinson himself an award winning poet explores what we do by imagining when we read or write poems In describing how poetry poets and readers make things happen the poet offers us an invitation and implies a promise Taking up the one we find out how to keep the other

The Poems of Abraham Cowley, 1790 Poetry and Allegiance in the English Civil Wars Nicholas McDowell, 2008-11-20 This book is about the things which could unite rather than divide poets during the English Civil Wars friendship patronage relations literary admiration and anti clericalism The central figure is Andrew Marvell renowned for his ambivalent allegiance in the late 1640s Little is known about Marvell's associations in this period when many of his best known lyrics were composed The London literary circle which formed in 1647 under the patronage of the wealthy royalist Thomas Stanley included Cavalier friends of Marvell such as Richard Lovelace but also John Hall a Parliamentary propagandist inspired by reading Milton Marvell is placed in the context of Stanley's impressive circle of friends and their efforts to develop English lyric capability in the absence of traditional court patronage By recovering the cultural values that were shared by Marvell and the like minded men with whom he moved in the literary circles of post war London we are more likely to find the reasons for their decisions about political allegiance By focusing on a circle of friends and associates we can also get a sense of how they communicated with and influenced one another through their verse There are innovative readings of Milton s sonnets and Lovelace s lyric verse while new light is shed on the origins and audience not only of Marvell s early political poems including the Horatian Ode but lyrics such as To His Coy Mistress

Language, Truth, and Literature Richard Gaskin, 2013-04-18 According to the literary humanist works of imaginative literature have an objective meaning which is fixed at the time of their production and which is the same for all readers then and thereafter not subject to the vagaries of individual readers responses Such works refer to the real world and make statements about that world which are of cognitive as well as aesthetic value the two kinds of value are indeed intimately connected Richard Gaskin offers a defence of literary humanism so understood against assault from two directions On the one hand some analytic aestheticians have argued that works of literature do not bear referentially on the world and do not make true statements about it others hold that such works do not make a contribution to knowledge others again allow that works of literature may have cognitive value but deny that this depends on their having truth or reference On the other hand reception theorists and deconstructionists have rejected the humanist s objectivist conception of literary meaning and typically take a pragmatist and anti realist approach to truth and meaning This latter poststructuralist treatment of literature has often been accompanied by a radical politicization of its study In defending literary humanism against these various forms of attack Gaskin shows that the reading and appreciation of literature is a cognitive activity fully on a par with scientific investigation and that we can and should engage in it disinterestedly for the sake of what can be learnt about the world and our place in it
