The Borderlands of Southeast Asia James Clad, Sean M. McDonald, Bruce Vaughn, 2011 As an academic field in its own right the topic of border studies is experiencing a revival in university geography courses as well as in wider political commentary Until recently border studies in contemporary Southeast Asia appeared as an afterthought at best to the politics of interstate rivalry and national consolidation The maps set out all agreed postcolonial lines Meanwhile the physical demarcation of these boundaries lagged Large slices of territory on land and at sea eluded definition or delineation That comforting ambiguity has disappeared Both evolving technologies and price levels enable rapid resource extraction in places and in volumes once scarcely imaginable The beginning of the 21st century's second decade is witnessing an intensifying diplomacy both state to state and commercial over offshore petroleum In particular the South China Sea has moved from being a rather arcane area of conflict studies to the status of a bellwether issue Along with other contested areas in the western Pacific and south Asia the problem increasingly defines China's regional relationships in Asia and with powers outside the region especially the United States Yet intraregional territorial differences also hobble multilateral diplomacy to counter Chinese claims and daily management of borders remains burdened by a lot of retrospective baggage The contributors to this book emphasize this mix of heritage and history as the primary leitmotif for contemporary border rivalries and dynamics Whether the region's 11 states want it or not their bordered identity is falling into ever sharper definition if only because of pressure from extraregional states This book aims to provide new ways of looking at the reality and illusion of bordered Southeast Asia Journal of the House of Representatives of the United States United States Congress. House, 2008 Some vols include supplemental journals of such proceedings of the sessions as during the time they were depending were ordered to be kept secret and respecting which the injunction of secrecy was afterwards taken off by the order of the House Territorial Disputes and Resource Management Rongxing Guo, 2006 Territorial disputes refer to disputes over territories that are claimed by two or more independent countries The disputes may evolve from historical and or cultural claims or they may be brought on by competition of resource exploitation This book sets out to present a guide to resource management in disputed areas throughout the world The Hmong, 1988 Resources in Education, 1987-10
