Language, Corpora, and Technology in Applied Linguistics Muhammad Afzaal, Swaleha Bano Naqvi, Geng Qiang, 2023-11-27 As culture and society has become more digitalized especially when computer science and digital technologies have entered a new era in the twenty first century translation studies began to utilize a wide range of tools to enhance its reading of texts and contexts without which translation both as a practice and as a theorization could barely persist It has become more apparent that two extreme poles between macro and micro visions have formed the diversified terrains of translation studies On the one hand technologies like NLP topic modeling network analysis and data visualization make distant reading become possible thus allowing us to have a paradigmatic view of how human's ideas beliefs values knowledge and even emotions have spread in some patterns across cultural geographical and language divides in world history On the other hand corpus methods such as the use of keywords collocates and concordance lines changed the way by which texts were closely read from linear to vertical With microscope like corpus tools we could go deeper into the texture for perception of nuanced meaning While considering a fact that translation is seldom mono-modal in conveying meaning we have to reconceptualize context as a multimodal environment where audio visual and other resources interact to convey and make meaning With regard to the fast development of digital technology translation studies take an active role in gaining an enhanced capability in promoting transformation Complexity has been favored in terms of theoretical framework and methodology New questions are asked old ones revisited with novel tools but more areas wait to be cultivated and more questions to be approached by combining quantitative and qualitative methods We could ask if digital technologies would bring new innovation to study of translation history a heavily walled land for traditional humanists who tend to repeat so what to question the less significance of data driven studies The idea of high quality machine translation has become so realistic in today's market that translation educators have to face the shock wave it brought to translation learners and practitioners and rethink the relation between human translators and algorithms Machine translation assisted communication could help remove boundaries for better communication but at the same time it also creates conflicts and leads to confrontation Thus understood it is imperative to give a concerned attention to digital translation studies that is to study translation by resorting to and drawing on the digital technologies This Research Topic is intended to promote current directions and new developments in cross disciplinary critical discourse research We welcome papers which from a critical analytical perspective deal with contemporary social scientific political economic or professional discourses and genres Papers addressing the highlighted topics are especially welcome In giving weight to these topics we wish to call to attention some of the most pressing problems currently facing the world

Endogenous Origins of Economic Reforms in India and China Rajiv G. Maluste, 2011-07 Attitudinal change in the context of economic reforms has been referred to in Rodrik and Subramanian 2005 DeLong 2003 Kohli 1989 and Panagariya 2004 2008 This dissertation provides empirical support for this literature establishing an earlier start for India's economic policy liberalisation than presented in stylized accounts It demonstrates the endogenous nature of the origins of these policy shifts Attitudinal change literature had directed attention to the need for further research into India's policy changes of the early 1980s and for studying broader comparability issues in other developing countries This research makes a contribution towards filling these gaps This dissertation shows that India started its economic liberalisation under the Indira Gandhi administration from 1980 to 1984 These findings depart from the conventional view that India's economic policy changes were initiated by the Narasimha Rao government in 1991 or by the Rajiv Gandhi administration in the mid to late 1980s The dissertation establishes that policy shifts of the early 1980s had endogenous origins in the political leadership's attitudinal changes The Indira Gandhi administration of the early 1980s revisited the statist policies of its previous tenure from 1966 to 1977 The new approach entailed more openness towards private enterprise scaling back the role of the public sector and starting India's integration into the global economy The dissertation also discusses the comparable role of attitudinal changes at the start of China's policy liberalisation led by Deng Xiaoping from 1978 to 1982 It focuses on the significance and challenges faced by China's political leadership in bringing about societal attitudinal change The dissertation concludes by drawing comparisons between India and China developing a linkage between their endogenous attitudinal changes and economic policy liberalisation

A Continuous Revolution Barbara Mittler, 2020-03-17 Cultural Revolution Culture often denigrated as nothing but propaganda was liked not only in its heyday but continues to be enjoyed today A Continuous Revolution sets out to explain its legacy By considering Cultural Revolution propaganda art music stage works prints and posters comics and literature from the point of view of its longue dure Barbara Mittler suggests it was able to build on a tradition of earlier art works and this allowed for its sedimentation in cultural memory and its proliferation in contemporary China Taking the aesthetic experience of the Cultural Revolution 1966 1976 as her base Mittler juxtaposes close readings and analyses of cultural products from the period with impressions given in a series of personal interviews conducted in the early 2000s with Chinese from diverse class and generational backgrounds By including much testimony from these original voices Mittler illustrates the extremely multifaceted and contradictory nature of the Cultural Revolution both in terms of artistic production and of its cultural experience

On Xi Jinping Kevin Rudd, 2024-09-17 An authoritative account of Xi Jinping's worldview and how it drives Chinese behaviour both domestically and on the world stage In his new book On Xi Jinping former Australian Prime Minister Kevin Rudd provides an authoritative account of the ideological worldview driving Chinese behaviour both domestically and on the world stage that of President Xi Jinping who now hold near total control over the Chinese Communist Party and is now in effect president for life Rudd argues that Xi's worldview differs significantly from those of the leaders who preceded him and that this ideological shift is reflected in the real world of Chinese policy and behaviour Focusing on China's domestic politics political economy and foreign policy Rudd characterises Xi Jinping's ideological framing of the world as Marxist Leninist nationalism According to Rudd Xi's notion of Leninism has taken the party and Chinese politics further to the left in comparison to his predecessors Also his Marxism has also taken Chinese economic thinking to the left in a more decisively more statist direction and away from the historical dynamism of the private sector However Chinese nationalism under Xi has moved further to the right towards a much harder edged foreign policy vision of China and a new determination to change the international status quo Xi's worldview is an integrated one where his national ideological vision for China's future is ultimately inseparable from his view on China's position in the region and the world These changes in worldview are also reflected in Xi's broader rehabilitation of the concept of struggle as a legitimate concept for the conduct of both Chinese domestic and foreign policy a struggle that need not necessarily always be peaceful Finally Xi's ideological worldview also exhibits a new level of nationalist self confidence about China's future derived from China's historical and civilizational strengths but reinforced by his Marxist Leninist concept of historical determinism and the belief that the tides of history are now on firmly China's side A powerful analysis of the worldview of arguably the most consequential world leader of our era this will be essential reading for anyone interested in how Xi is transforming both China and the international order and most importantly why
