Self And Salvation:

Self and Salvation David F. Ford, 1999-03-04 This eagerly awaited book by David F Ford makes a unique and important contribution to the debate about the Christian doctrine of salvation Using the pivotal image of the face Professor Ford offers a constructive and contemporary account of the self being transformed He engages with three modern thinkers Levinas J ngel and Ricoeur in order to rethink and reimagine the meaning of self Developing the concept of a worshipping self he explores the dimensions of salvation through the lenses of scripture worship practices the life death and resurrection of Christ and the lives of contemporary saints He uses different genres and traditions to show how the self flourishes through engagement with God other people and the responsibilities and joys of ordinary living The result is a habitable theology of salvation immersed in Christian faith thought and practice while also being deeply involved with modern life in a pluralist world

Self and Salvation David F. Ford, 1999 Trinitarian Self and Salvation Scott Harrower, 2012-01-13 In 1967 Karl Rahner famously wrote The economic Trinity is the immanent Trinity and vice versa From that time onwards Rahner s Rule has become the norm for conceiving the relationship between the Trinity in the economy of salvation and God s eternal inner life Evangelical theologians currently employ Rahner s Rule in a variety of ways One of the most popular is the Strict Realist Reading whereby trinitarian relationships in salvation history are taken to mirror eternal relationships within God This book brings this norm into conversation with the witness of Scripture in order to assess its viability In doing so it highlights troubling issues that arise from the application of the Strict Realist Reading of Rahner s Rule to the narrative of Luke Acts This book suggests that the Strict Realist Reading can be shown to be a questionable basis for our doctrine of God s inner life

A Stone in My Shoe J. Michael Walters, 2021-06-15 What s more miserable than trying to walk with a stone in your shoe Many American evangelicals are experiencing pain and discomfort in their relationship to the church Stones in their shoes make the faith journey uncomfortable and increasingly untenable They either leave the church altogether become church shoppers or live on the margins of the church as outliers This book presents the vantage point of a lifelong evangelical pastor and religious educator who sees himself as an outlier Walters draws on decades of pastoral life and classroom experience to engage the church in a conversation aimed at clarifying the concerns and discomforts of evangelical outliers While this is one person s story it intersects with the stories of many others in American evangelicalism especially clergy In identifying the stones which trouble and discomfort so many like him Walters continually calls the church his church back to its biblical and theological foundations gender studies and cultural studies The Hasidic Psychology ,2003-11-01 Interest in the impact of ethical systems and social or religious ideologies on socio behavioral patterns is a longstanding theme in social science research While interest may have begun with Max Weber and his thesis of the relationship between the Protestant ethic and the spirit of capitalism it extends far beyond this Surprisingly few studies have delved into the socio behavioral patterns emanating from Jewish ethics This book with a new introduction by the author fills that gap As Hasidic Psychology makes clear Jewish ethics are unique in many ways especially in that they are essentially other centered Man s ability to affect his own future and interpersonal relations are explained according to the theory of contraction popularized in Hasidic thought God by contracting Himself to evacuate space for the human world bestowed upon man the power and responsibility to determine his own future and even affect God s disposition In the first part of the book the sociological structural concept of mono versus multiple ideal labeling is introduced This concept refers to a social system in which diverse material and spiritual actualization patterns are structurally introduced as equal social ideals In the second part basic tenets of classic interaction and socialization are compared to the interpersonal perspective and the contraction theory is explained as a process of mutual emulation whereby father and son affect each other In the third part a functional approach to deviance is developed through the Hasidic process known as ascend via descend Polyphony Embodied - Freedom and Fate in Gao Xingjian's Writings Michael

Lackner,Nikola Chardonnens,2014-07-28 Like artists important writers defy unequivocal interpretations Gao Xingjian winner of the Nobel Prize in literature is a cosmopolitan writer deeply rooted in the Chinese past while influenced by paragons of Western Modernity The present volume is less interested in a general discussion on the multitude of aspects in Gao s works and even less in controversies concerning their aesthetic value than in obtaining a response to the crucial issues of freedom and fate from a clearly defined angle The very nature of the answer to the question of freedom and fate within Gao Xingjian s works can be called a polyphonic one there are affirmative as well as skeptical voices But polyphony as embodied by Gao is an even more multifaceted phenomenon Most important for our contention is the fact that Gao Xingjian s aesthetic experience embodies prose theater painting and film Taken together they form a Gesamtkunstwerk whose diversity of voices characterizes every single one of them Paul Tillich Richard Pomeroy,2002-01-23 Pomeroy gives the reader a clear view of the Systematic Theology of Paul Tillich perhaps the greatest theologian of the 20th century Tillich s theology addresses a wide range of theological issues beginning with the nature of God and ending with the nature of Eternal Life Using the latest in social science analysis Tillich identifies specific conditions confronted by individuals and nations addressing each from a Bible based theological standpoint At the end of each chapter Pomeroy illustrates the issues at hand with real life stories or reflections from leading scientists theologians and social scientists This is then followed by discussion questions The book is a welcome relief for theologians and lay people alike as it has depth without all those written words For a mainline church study group it is a primer First Letters After Exile by Thomas Mann, Hannah Arendt, Ernst Bloch, and Others David

Sin, Pride & Self-Acceptance Terry D. Cooper, 2009-09-20 What is at the root of the problem of humanity Is it pride or lack of self-esteem Do we love ourselves too much or too little The debate about the human condition has often been framed this way in both theological and psychological circles Convictions about preaching teaching marriage and child rearing as well as politics social welfare business management and the helping professions more often than not fall on one side or the other of this divide With theological and psychological insight Terry D Cooper provides trenchant analysis of this centuries long debate and leads us beyond the usual impasse Humanistic psychology has often regarded traditional Christianity as its archrival in assessing the Education for Self-transformation Duck-Joo Kwak, 2011-10-12 Exemplifying what it advocates this book is an innovative attempt to retrieve the essay form from its degenerate condition in academic writing Its purpose is to create pedagogical space in which the inner struggle of lived experience can articulate itself in the first person Working through essays the modern post secular self can guide understand and express its own transformation This is not merely a book about writing methods it has a sharp existential edge Beginning by defining key terms such as self transformation Kwak sketches the contemporary debates between Jürgen Habermas and Charles Taylor on the status of religious language in the public domain and its relationship to secular language This allows her to contextualize her book's central questions how can philosophical practice reduce the experiential rift between knowledge and wisdom How can the essay form be developed so that it facilitates as praxis pedagogical self transformation Kwak develops her answers by working through ideas of George Lukács and Stanley Cavell of Hans Blumenberg and Søren Kierkegaard whose work is much less familiar in this context than it deserves to be Kwak's work provides templates for new forms of educational writing new approaches to teaching educators and new ways of writing methodology for educational researchers Yet the importance of her ideas extends far beyond teaching academies to classroom teachers curriculum developers and to anyone engaged in the quest to lead a reflective life of one's own

Her Quest for Self: a Journey Gayreen Lyngdoh, 2015-10-14 To journey into the pages of this book is to journey into the colourful world of Chinese and Chinese American culture into slivers of history into gender politics into myth and perhaps even into ourselves In the private struggles and triumphs of Pearl S Bucks and Amy Tans women characters in their quest to re frame and re define themselves and their lives echo the universal experience of women in time and space the stories of love and loss the yearnings and heartaches the joys and sorrows the laughter and the tears and above all their quiet strength and resilience in the face of great odds and injustices that more often than not have marked the female experience through generations The book will no doubt strike a chord in the hearts of the readers and offer a fascinating insight into the heart of a woman's world and what it is to be a woman Pearl S Buck and Amy Tan the two authors revisited in this book may both be described as writers who have in their own ways written about the lives of women. Through their work they challenged patriarchal assumptions about women by attempting to fashion a distinctive feminine voice that allows for the articulation of women's experiences in their own voices and/or through the female perspective. This book takes a re-look at the women characters in select novels of these two writers, examining and analysing their experiences and subjectivities as they journey in quest of the self. Special attention is drawn to the role of stories/storytelling as a potent means of female expression and of bridging multifarious human divides. The urgency of reframing and reinterpreting popular myths as a way of critiquing and changing mindsets where these need to be changed is also explored in depth. The book is therefore a critical and insightful study of the works of two women that although written in different periods yet intersect in these pages. The novels studied are those relating specifically to China and the Chinese-Chinese American experience, the main subject being the Chinese woman both in her own local space as well as outside of it. Storytelling enables the transmission and perpetuation of values, culture and history which as depicted here are crucial to self-knowledge and to an understanding of one's place and identity in the universe. The self that is represented in these novels therefore is not a self in isolation but a self that is a part and parcel of the human tapestry where race, gender, culture and history meet and intersect.
