Self Concept And School Achievement:

Self Concept and School Achievement William Watson Purkey,1970 Developing Positive Student Self-concept David L. Silvernail,1981 Inviting School Success William Watson Purkey,John M. Novak,1996 Founded on TTinvtational theory this book offers a fresh approach for today s teachers The authors cover the teaching skills and techniques necessary to invite the student to participate in the learning process They demonstrate the ways in which the teacher s beliefs and attitudes about people including trust respect optimism and intentionality are paramount in enabling the student to become his her personal best Self-concept of Ability and School Achievement Wilbur Bone Brookover,Michigan State University. College of education. Bureau of educational research services,1965 Self-concept of Ability and School Achievement Wilbur Bone Brookover,Jean M. LePere,1965 Self-concept of Ability and School Achievement Wilbur B. Brookover,1962 Role of Self-concept in School Achievement Elsie Schaffrick,1991 Relationship Between Academic Achievement and Self-concept in Elementary and Middle School Students Lori K. Jensen,1996 The Relationship of Self-concept of Academic Ability to Academic Achievement for Grade Eight Students in Six Rural Schools of Ferryland District Catherine Florence O'Brien,1972 Relationships Among Self-expectations, Self-concept, and Academic Achievement Dorothy Margaret Binder,1965 Self-concept of Ability and School Achievement ,1962 The Relationship of Self-concept to Academic Achievement Richard William Loveless,1966 Self - Concept, Learning Styles, Study Habits and Academic Achievement of Adolescents in Kashmir: A Study on Psychological Variables and Academic Achievement of Adolescents in Kashmir Siraj Shazia,2014-02 There have been a countless new developments in the field of education It is a fact that in recent years Education has emerged as a professional subject knowledge of which is essential for an effective instruction The utility of the book is further enhanced by the provision of summary and references and appendices Not only this the logistic and lucid presentation of the book will foster critical thinking and creative imagination in dealing with the students It is hoped that this book will enable the teachers to perceive classroom situations with a deeper insight and also increase his her professional competence They can focus on the shortcomings of the students so that they can be tackled well in time and can groom and excel in all fields of life Self-concept and Academic Achievement in Primary School Dimitra Mareta,1999 Self Concept and Academic Achievement Earl Enge,1964

Self-Concept John Hattie,2014-03-05 The aim of this book is to discuss the notions of self concept self esteem and related terms from an educational and psychological perspective Specifically this book is concerned with developing a model of self concept and corollaries to this model that assesses the dimensionality of self concept reviews tests of self concept discusses the relationship between self concept and other variables particularly achievement describes the development of self concept and evaluates programs to enhance self concept Throughout this volume emphasis is placed on ordering the many studies using recent methodological advances such as meta analysis and the analysis of covariance structures After detailing a conceptual model of self concept the book offers various experimental and statistical discussions of the model Unlike many other models the claim is not that this model is the correct one but that it may serve as a useful coathanger until a better one is devised

The Relationship of Student Self-concept to Academic Achievement in High School Math Students Judson Miller, 2002 The purpose of this research was to bring into focus some of the affective issues that students face in the math classroom It is my personal belief that too much attention has been given to cognitive issues in the classroom especially within the subject of mathematics The theoretical background of this study lies in previous work in self concept Specifically this research looks at student voices to shed light upon the relationship of student self concept and academic achievement To this end the research relies nearly entirely upon student interviews which were conducted in Seattle Public School District with twelve 9th and 10th grade students The students were chosen by the researcher in concert with their teachers to produce a sample that spanned the range of self concept status From the original twelve students three students became the subject of a more specific focus within the study and were asked to complete a follow up interview The results of the study focus on specific patterns within four subsets of the entire sample Commonalities and differences were analyzed in the following groups students with high math achievement and high self concept high math achievement and low self concept low math achievement and high self concept low math achievement and low self concept Special focus was paid to students with high math achievement and low self concept because of this group's cohesiveness and because of their seemingly counterintuitive attributes

Self-Concept and Academic Achievement Ignatius Isaac Dambudzo, 2011-12 Society has increasingly placed greater emphasis on the academic achievement of its citizens the world over There is growing concern about lower academic achievement of learners at different levels Competition for places in high achieving schools organization of extra lessons hiring of private tutors demonstrate the importance attached to high academic achievement Schools are ranked according to pass rates achieved Schools inspectors categorise schools as outstanding or unsatisfactory largely on the basis of learners performance Research conducted to find out causes of poor academic achievement has highlighted global factors such as school and home characteristics This book goes a step further by presenting individual personality factor self concept to demonstrate its relationship with academic achievement among adolescents Variables gender age school location school type are examined for their possible influence on academic achievement This is a book for everyone parents learners teachers head teachers academics researchers Read adolescents voices about learning experiences It is organized in sections Simply go to the section of interest and read
