Wallis,2003 Robert J Wallis explores the interface between the new and prehistoric shamans of popular culture and anthropology drawing on interviews with a variety of practitioners particularly contemporary pagans in Britain and north America Shamans Through Time Jeremy Narby,2004-09-09 A survey of five centuries of writings on the world s great shamans the tricksters sorcerers conjurers and healers who have fascinated observers for centuries This collection of essays traces Western civilization s struggle to interpret and understand the ancient knowledge of cultures that revere magic men and women individuals with the power to summon spirits As written by priests explorers adventurers natural historians and anthropologists the pieces express the wonder of strangers in new worlds Who were these extraordinary magic makers who imitated the sounds of animals in the night or drank tobacco juice through funnels or wore collars filled with stinging ants Shamans Through Time is a rare chronicle of changing attitudes toward that which is strange and unfamiliar With essays by such acclaimed thinkers as Claude Lévi Strauss Black Elk Carlos Castaneda and Frank Boas it provides an awesome glimpse into the incredible shamanic practices of cultures around the world Teaching Religion and Healing Linda L. Barnes,Inés M. Talamantez,2006-10-19 The study of medicine and healing traditions is well developed in the discipline of anthropology Most religious studies scholars however continue to assume that medicine and biomedicine are one and the same and that when religion and medicine are mentioned together the reference is necessarily either to faith healing or bioethics Scholars of religion also have tended to assume that religious healing refers to the practices of only a few groups such as Christian Scientists and pentecostals Most are now aware of the work of physicians who attempt to demonstrate positive health outcomes in relation to religious practice but few seem to realize the myriad ways in which healing pervades virtually all religious systems This volume is designed to help instructors incorporate discussion of healing into their courses and to encourage the development of courses focused on religion and healing It brings together essays by leading experts in a range of disciplines and addresses the role of healing in many different religious traditions and cultural communities An invaluable resource for faculty in anthropology religious studies American studies sociology and ethnic studies it also addresses the needs of educators training physicians health care professionals and chaplains particularly in relation to what is referred to as cultural competence the ability to work with multicultural and religiously diverse patient populations
