The Toughest Kid We Knew Frank Bergon, 2020-06-15 Frank Bergon's newest work is a thoughtful exploration of the ways that memories of random childhood events become unexpected revelations about life in the West In many senses this project is a personalized version of Two Buck Chuck The Marlboro Man where Bergon explored the ways that a multiethnic and multiracial society shaped and continues to shape the day to day lived realities of the residents and communities of the San Joaquin Valley Bergon's latest book creation however is more elegiac in tone paying tribute to ranching and farming lives that are disappearing under suburban and exurban sprawl industrial farming and white collar job growth

Zen and the Brain James H. Austin, 1999-06-04 A neuroscientist and Zen practitioner interweaves the latest research on the brain with his personal narrative of Zen Aldous Huxley called humankind's basic trend toward spiritual growth the perennial philosophy In the view of James Austin the trend implies a perennial psychophysiology because awakening or enlightenment occurs only when the human brain undergoes substantial changes What are the peak experiences of enlightenment How could these states profoundly enhance and yet simplify the workings of the brain Zen and the Brain presents the latest evidence In this book Zen Buddhism becomes the opening wedge for an extraordinarily wide ranging exploration of consciousness In order to understand which brain mechanisms produce Zen states one needs some understanding of the anatomy physiology and chemistry of the brain Austin both a neurologist and a Zen practitioner interweaves the most recent brain research with the personal narrative of his Zen experiences The science is both inclusive and rigorous the Zen sections are clear and evocative Along the way Austin examines such topics as similar states in other disciplines and religions sleep and dreams mental illness

Preposterous Use of Literature Tracy Scott McMillin, 2000 He examines the ways in which Emerson's texts have been read in the United States the myriad methods by which those texts have been pillaged picked over and repackaged in a word consumed by biographers political apologists self help proponents entrepreneurs and academicians alike Back from the Far Field Bernard W. Quetchenbach, 2000 Many poets writing after World War II have found the individual focus of contemporary poetics poorly suited to making statements directed at public issues and public ethics The desire to invest such individualized poetry with greater cultural authority presented difficulties for Vietnam protest poets for example and it has been a particular challenge for nature writers in the Thoreau tradition who have attempted to serve as advocates for the natural world Examining the implications of this dilemma Bernard W Quetchenbach locates the poets Robert Bly Gary Snyder and Wendell Berry within two traditions the American nature writing tradition and the newer tradition of contemporary poetics He compares the work of two other twentieth century poets Robinson Jeffers and Theodore Roethke to illustrate how the contemporary shift toward a poetics focused on the poet's life has affected portrayals of nature and the public voice in poetry Turning back to the work of Bly Snyder and Berry Quetchenbach assesses their attempts to reinvent the public voice in the context of contemporary poetics and what effect these attempts have had on their work He argues that these poets have learned from their postwar generation techniques for adapting a personalized poetics to environmental advocacy In addition to modifying what critics have called the poetics of immediacy these poets have augmented their poetic output with prose and identified themselves with long standing traditions of poetic ethical and spiritual authority In doing so Bly Snyder and Berry have attempted to solve not only a problem inherent in contemporary poetics but also the larger problem of the role of the poet in a society that does not recognize poetry While it would be an overstatement to suggest that these three figures have found a place for the poet in American life they have reached audiences that extend beyond traditional readers of poetry At the end of the twentieth century Quetchenbach concludes poets have begun to identify and direct their writing to specific audiences defined less by aesthetic preferences and more by a shared interest in and dedication to the work's subject matter Whether revealing a disturbing trend for poetry or an encouraging one for environmentalism and other political causes it is one of many provocative conclusions Quetchenbach draws from his examination of postwar nature poetry

Dramas of Solitude Randall Roorda, 1998-02-26 Brings the insights of narrative theory to bear upon the genre of nature writing to explore the social or ethical purposes of solitude in stories of retreat in nature Digressions in Deep Time Declan Lloyd, Warren Mortimer, 2024-06-18 Deep time is a term which attempts to capture temporal scales far beyond human comprehension These are stretches of time epitomised by geological and cosmic scale processes vast enough to make the entirety of human existence appear as little more than a footnote The past few years have seen a boom in texts dedicated to the study of deep time extending across a broad range of disciplines which fall markedly outside of its geological roots These studies are unified by two ideas in particular that deep time thinking and ecocriticism should be considered in conjunction and that literature and the arts play a vital role in fostering a deep time awareness Digressions in Deep Time is the first collection of essays which considers the multifarious representations of deep time across literature and the arts assembling the work of a wide range of prominent scholars whose research frequently engages with temporality and ecocriticism Featured contributions include work by the Pulitzer prize winning author John McPhee who popularised the term deep time in the late seventies as well as chapters by Richard Irvine author of An Anthropology of Deep Time Benjamin Morgan author of The Outward Mind and Andrew Tate author of Apocalyptic Fiction

Signs and Seasons John Burroughs, 2006-05-29 Renowned as a pioneer of the new school of nature writing and among the most widely read authors of his time John Burroughs has had a profound influence on our appreciation of nature Signs and Seasons originally published in 1886 provides an excellent introduction to the extensive work of one of America's great writers Because the essays were collected and arranged by Burroughs himself they offer a synoptic view of his complex and many-sided genius Signs and Seasons covers a wide range of Burroughs's interests including plants and animals the wilderness pastoral landscapes and the methods and goals of the naturalist An authoritative new introduction by Jeff Walker makes Burroughs's work relevant to the twenty first century not only through Burroughs's excellent natural history writing but also through his beliefs about community sustainability and social justice. Additional notes give historical and scientific context for each essay and offer the reader fresh insight into his work. Walker's intimate knowledge of the Hudson River valley, Riverby and Slabsides, the areas about which Burroughs writes, reveals sympathy for and understanding of Burroughs's work. This edition will be indispensable to the devotee of John Burroughs's writing and to a new generation of environmental reader.

The Writers Directory, 2013 The River Underground Shaun Timothy Griffin, 2001

Short stories and exciting excerpts from Nevada writers offer a sampler of literary talent from the Silver State. Few readers outside Nevada are aware of the richness and diversity of the state's literary community or of the number of nationally respected writers who make the state their home and often the subject matter of their work. Editor Shaun T. Griffin, in this compelling anthology of contemporary fiction from Nevada, makes a very convincing case that the state's wealth runs to far more than glitz and gold. Here we find a delightful and long forgotten story by the doyen of Nevada writers, Robert Laxalt; a moving story by Adrian C. Louis, a Native American from Lovelock who has won national acclaim for his powerful fiction and poetry about reservation life; and excerpts from work by best-selling writers Teresa Jordan, Steven Nightingale, Douglas Unger, and Richard Wiley. Settings range from rural Nevada to rural post-revolutionary China, from the excitement of Las Vegas to a Basque immigrant household in Carson City, from the hills of Appalachia to the Pacific during World War II. Characters include a pair of Mormon teenagers trying to escape the moral rigors of their faith; a fugitive Shoshone Indian trying to preserve the ways of his ancestors against the pressures of history; an immigrant family in Las Vegas coping with the father's final illness; a trio of escaped prisoners bent on revenge; and an aging African American jazz musician, and more. Here is work by writers whose names are known to readers of fine fiction everywhere, and work by talented newcomers for whom this is a first publishing venue, but surely not the last. Editor Griffin has provided for each selection a brief biographical sketch of the author and some comments on the qualities of the piece that prompted its inclusion in the anthology. As a collection of fiction, this is exciting, reading, provocative, often moving, sometimes startling in its brilliance. It demonstrates unequivocally that writing and writers are flourishing in Nevada, and that the state's literary community is remarkably abundant in talent, creativity, and the range of its voices and concerns.
