ABSTRACT

This article examines the "Non-Aligned Movement", which plays an important role in contemporary international relations. The article was created by synthesizing the information obtained by scanning the literature. The historical background, basic principles and effects of the Non-Aligned Movement on international politics have been examined in detail in the literature. This movement emerged during the cold war and adopted basic principles such as independence, peace and security. Additionally, the unique features of the Non-Aligned Movement were emphasized by comparing it with similar movements. In the methodology section, research methods such as source analysis, comparative analysis and examination of documents of relevant organizations are explained. In the discussion section, a comprehensive evaluation was made of the Non-Aligned Movement, discussing its current situation, the challenges it faces and its potential contributions in the future. In the conclusion and recommendation section, the general meaning of the findings was evaluated and the suggestions offered by the article and a road map for further research were drawn. This article offers a comprehensive overview for readers who wish to understand the role of the Non-Aligned Movement in contemporary international relations and anticipate future developments.

1. INTRODUCTION

In the arena of international relations, interactions between states and the reflections of these interactions at the global level determine the complexity of contemporary world politics. In this context, the emergence of states and various actors with different ideologies, strategies and policies throughout history has deeply affected world politics. In this complexity, the Non-Aligned Movement has gained a unique position in the international relations scene and become an important stakeholder of this dynamic process. (Aghayarov, M. 2022)

The evolution of the Non-Aligned Movement throughout history has witnessed important periods of global politics and kept pace with changing dynamics. In the post-Cold War period, in an environment where polarization between the great powers reached its peak, the Non-Aligned Movement built its own identity by adopting the principle of neutrality. This identity aims to contribute to the international system by focusing on basic principles such as independence, peace and security. (Jazić, Z. 2005)

The main purpose of this article is to examine the Non-Aligned Movement from a broad perspective, its historical background, basic principles and effects on international politics in detail. In this context,

India and the Nonaligned Summits Renu Srivastava, 1995 It historically examines India's impact on the non-aligned movement as manifest at the Belgrade Summit 1961 to the Jakarta Summit 1992. It dilates upon Nehru's eloquent theoretical exposition of non-alignment at the Belgrade Summit. Shastri's concern with regional issues at Cairo and Mrs Gandhi's espousal of restructuring the international order at Lusaka and at the subsequent conferences as well as Rajiv's optimistic leadership towards the unfinished task of his mother. Special attention has been given to India's performance at the New Delhi summit. It highlights Indian efforts to resolve the various contentious issues that had plagued the movement since the last summit at Havana in 1979 and explains why the Summit was hailed as the fresh beginning of the NAM. Detailed analysis of the post New Delhi Summit era encompassing India's Chairpersonship of the movement under Rajiv Gandhi's leadership, his dynamic support to the African cause at Harare in 1986 and his contribution to moot a Planet Protection fund at the second Belgrade Summit 1989. It also incorporates Mr Narashimha Rao's strong stand against attaching conditionalities to all forms of assistances, intellectual property rights, terrorism etc at the Jakarta Summit 1992.
