North African Environment At Risk:

The North African Environment At Risk Will D Swearingen, Abdellatif Bencherifa, 2019-07-11 Deforestation soil erosion desertification air and water pollution loss of wildlife habitat and declining biodiversity are interrelated manifestations of a growing environmental crisis in North Africa that has received relatively little attention from government policymakers and is poorly understood by North African peoples the international development community and scholars In this book a multidisciplinary group of scholars explores the broad range of human activities causing the deterioration of North Africa's fragile environment including population pressure and poverty rapid urbanization intense competition for land and water and mismanagement of natural resources The contributors examine in particular the conflict between economic development and environmental sustainability They analyze the historical roots of current environmental problems the underlying socioeconomic causes potential solutions and differences in environmental policies among various countries This is an insightful portrait of a developing region attempting to reconcile traditional methods of land use with growing demands for resources the exigencies of economic development and the limitations of its natural resource base North African environment at risk Abdellatif Bencherifa, 1996 Climate Change Law and Policy in the Middle East and North Africa Region Damilola S. Olawuyi, 2021-07-28 Climate Change Law and Policy in the Middle East and North Africa Region provides an in depth and authoritative examination of the guiding principles of climate change law and policy in the MENA region This volume introduces readers to the latest developments in the regulation of climate change across the region including the applicable legislation institutions and key legal innovations in climate change financing infrastructure development and education It outlines participatory and bottom up legal strategies focusing on transparency accountability gender justice and other human rights safeguards needed to achieve greater coherence and coordination in the design approval financing and implementation of climate response projects across the region With contributions from a range of experts in the field the collection reflects on how MENA countries can advance existing national strategies around climate change green economy and low carbon futures through clear and comprehensive legislation Taking an international and comparative approach this book will be of great interest to students scholars and practitioners who work in the areas of climate change environmental law and policy and sustainable development particularly in relation to the MENA region Climate Change in the Middle East and North Africa William R. Thompson, Leila Zakhirova, 2021-07-04 Environmental factors in the Middle East and North Africa MENA have played a crucial role in the historical and social development of the region The book delves into a broad set of historical literature from the past 15 000 years that neglected to consider environmental factors to their full effect Beyond the broad historic analysis the chapters derive conclusions for today's debate on whether climate change leads to more social conflict and violence Introducing a theoretical framework focused on adaptive cycling this book probes and refines the role of climate in ancient and modern political economic systems in the MENA region It also underscores just how bad the 21st century environment may become thanks to global warming While the MENA region may not survive the latest onslaught of deteriorating climate there is also some interest in how a region that once led the world in introducing all sorts of innovations thousands of years ago has evolved into a contemporary setting characterized by traditional conservatism poverty and incessant strife Emphasizing regional dynamics the book's central question deals with the role of climate change in the rise and decline of the MENA region The book will be a key resource to students and readers interested in global warming including academics and policymakers

Security and Environment in the Mediterranean Hans Günter Brauch, Peter H. Liotta, Antonio Marquina, Paul F. Rogers, Mohammad El-Sayed Selim, 2012-12-06 In this volume security specialists peace researchers environmental scholars demographers as well as climate desertification water food and urbanisation specialists from the Middle East and North Africa Europe and North America review security and conflict prevention in the Mediterranean They also analyse NATO's Mediterranean security dialogue and offer conceptualisations on security and perceptions of security challenges as seen in North and South The latter half of the book analyses environmental security and conflicts in the Mediterranean and environmental consequences of World War II the Gulf War the Balkan wars and the Middle East conflict It also examines factors of global environmental change population growth climate change desertification water scarcity food and urbanisation issues as well as natural disasters Furthermore it draws conceptual conclusions for a fourth phase of research on human and environmental security and peace as well as policy conclusions for cooperation and partnership in the Mediterranean in the 21st century

Assessments of Regional and Global Environmental Risks Alexander E. Farrell, Jill Professor Jäger, 2010-09-30 As environmental challenges grow larger in scale and implications it is increasingly important to apply the best scientific knowledge in the decisionmaking process Editors Farrell and Jäger present environmental assessments as the bridge between the expert knowledge of scientists and engineers on the one hand and decisionmakers on the other When done well assessments have a positive impact on public policy the strategic decisions of private firms and ultimately the quality of life for many people This book is the result of an international interdisciplinary research project to analyze past environmental assessments and understand how their design influenced their effectiveness in bringing scientific evidence and insight into the decisionmaking process The case studies in the book feature a wide range of regional and global risks including ozone depletion transboundary air pollution and climate change Assessments of Regional and Global Environmental Risks offers several important contributions It provides a clear account of the choices faced in the design of environmental assessments and a clear description of the lessons learned from past assessments It illustrates why assessments are social processes not simply reports And while they identify no universal one size fits all design the authors find that to be effective environmental assessments must be viewed by those who produce and use them as being salient credible in their scientific support and legitimate or fair in design and execution

The number of humanitarian disasters triggered by a natural hazard has doubled every decade since the 1960s. At the same time the global economic growth rate per capita is twice its 1960s value. Does this mean economic growth is independent of the impacts of natural disaster? Natural Disaster and Development in a Globalizing World is the first book to acknowledge the full implications of globalization for disaster and development. The contributors to this book fully examine global processes and how they might affect disaster risk at the global scale: links between international issues such as diplomatic relations, the growth of non-governmental organizations and the health of the international insurance industry and disaster risk; the interaction of these large scale forces with local conditions through case study analysis of individual disaster events. In his revealing work, author Pelling makes clear the links between global scale processes and local experiences of disaster and underlies the difficulty of attributing blame for individual disasters on specific global pressures. He argues that action to reduce disaster must be coordinated at the local, national and global scales and that there is a need for greater integration across the physical and social sciences. In this context the human rights agenda is seen as a way of moving disaster reduction efforts forward.

Facing Global Environmental Change Hans Günter Brauch, Navnita Chadha Behera, Patricia Kameri-Mbote, John Grin, Ursula Oswald Spring, Béchir Chourou, Czesław Mesjasz, Heinz Krummenacher, 2009-06-04. The year 2007 could perhaps accurately be described as the year when climate change finally received the attention that this challenge deserves globally. Much of the information and knowledge that was created in this field during the year was the result of the findings of the Fourth Assessment Report AR4 of the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) which were disseminated on a large scale and reported extensively by the media. This was the result not only of a heightened interest on the part of the public on various aspects of climate change but also because the IPCC itself proactively attempted to spread the findings of its AR4 to the public at large. The interest generated on the scientific realities of climate change was further enhanced by the award of the Nobel Peace Prize to the IPCC and former Vice President of the US Al Gore. By taking this decision in favour of a leader who has done a great deal to create awareness on climate change and a body that assesses all scientific aspects of climate change and disseminates the result of its findings, the Norwegian Nobel Committee has clearly drawn the link between climate change and peace in the world.

The Middle East Arda Özkan, Pinar Yürür, 2024-08-06. The Middle East Crises: Conflicts and Wars aims to evaluate the Middle East through international politics with diverse theoretical frameworks. Chapters have been written by many contributors who explore the Middle East from multiperspectives. The scope of this book is very comprehensive and many relevant issue areas are examined. In addition to focusing on the different perspectives of international relations, current problems are considered especially in the axis of classic modern and post modern security studies. The main issues of Syria, Lebanon, Qatar, Saudi Arabia, Iran, Iraq, the UAE, Jordan, Palestine, Kuwait, Oman, Yemen, Bahrain, Israel and Turkey are included. Maritime disputes, the Arab Spring, energy transfer, migration, the EU, hydro politics, Green Sukuk, green Islamic bond, youth policies and strategic investments in the
