

LOVE
seeketh not itself to dress,
Nor for itself hath any care,
But for another giveth care,
And builds a heaven in hell's despite.

William Blake

WHAT

shall I do for my love,
Who is so tender,
And dear and true,
Loving and true and tender,
My strength and my defender —
What shall I do?

I will cleave unto my love,
Who am too lowly
For him to take.
With a self-surrender holy
I will cleave
unto him solely,
I will give my being wholly
For his dear sake.

Poems From the Heart Jean Marie Norman, 2024-02-27 This book of poetry started with no thought process at all. A few poems written over many years. Mostly with very personal messages to family and friends. Poems to my husband my grandchildren my friends. Then for unknown reasons I started writing about life. My life the lives of people I know and simply life in the world in which I live. Many of these poems lean close to my heart thus the title. They certainly do reflect my personal thoughts on life love loss and laughter. Asterisked titles are titles given to me over time by my BFF who challenged me to write the poem. You might say she spurred me on. The world I grew up in and the world my grandchildren are growing up in are so significantly different it's sometimes hard to even imagine. My poems reflect the changes both good and bad as perceived by the writer. Some strike on my past some on the sadness of today's world and some simply on the joy I see in life. I hope you find comfort humour and a wee bit of quietude in some of the poems and that you see the beauty of life both in the human factor and the world we've been given to care for. Poems from the Heart Christine Powell, 2006-02-27 Poems from the heart is an emotional poetry book on real or fantasy experiences by me or people I have come to know. I wrote my first poem when I was 12. I think that behind every poem lies a deep emotional story. This is a big help when it comes to writing.
