Computer - Human Interaction in Symbolic Computation Norbert Kajler,2012-12-06 The well attended March 1994 Hlse workshop in Amsterdam was a very lively con ference which stimulated much discussion and human human interaction

As the editor of this volume points out the Amsterdam meeting was just part of a year long project that brought many people together from many parts of the world The value of the effort was not only in generating new ideas but in making people aware of work that has gone on on many fronts in using computers to make mathematics more understandable The author was very glad he attended the workshop In thinking back over the conference and in reading the papers in this collection the author feels there are perhaps four major conclusions to be drawn from the current state of work 1 graphics is very important but such features should be made as easy to use as possible 2 symbolic mathematical computation is very powerful but the user must be able to see intermediate steps 3 system design has made much progress but for semester long coursework and book length productions we need more tools to help composition and navigation 4 monolithic systems are perhaps not the best direction for the future as different users have different needs and may have to link together many kinds of tools The editor of this volume and the authors of the papers presented here have also reached and documented similar conclusions

Computers and Education in the 21st Century Manuel Ortega, José Bravo, 2007-05-08 ConieD is the biannual Congress on Computers in Education organised by the Spanish Association for the Development of Computers in Education ADIE The last Congress held in Puertollano Ciudad Real brought together researchers in different areas ranging from web applications educational environments or Human Computer Interaction to Artificial Intelligence in Education The common leitmotiv of the major part of the lectures was the World Wide Web In particular the focus was on the real possibilities that this media presents in order to make the access of students to educational resources possible anywhere and anytime This fact was highlighted in the Conclusions of the Congress following this Preface as the Introduction From the full 92 papers presented to the Programme Committee we have selected the best 24 papers that we are presenting in this book The selection of papers was a very difficult process taking into account that the papers presented in the Congress 60 were all good enough to appear in this book Only the restrictions of the extension of this book have limited the number of papers to 24 These papers represent the current high quality contributions of Spanish research groups in Computers in Education Manuel Ortega Cantero Jos Bravo Rodr guez Editors xiii Introduction ConieD 99 1st National Congress on Computers in Education has brought together a very important group of Spanish and Latin American researchers devoted to studying the application and use of computers in education
