Newgate Stephen Halliday, 2007-12-31 There have been more prisons in London than in any other European city Of these Newgate was the largest most notorious and worst Built during the twelfth century it became a legendary place the inspiration of more poems plays and novels than any other building in London It was a place of cruelty and wretchedness at various times holding Dick Turpin Titus Oates Daniel Defoe Jack Sheppard and Casanova Because prisons were privately run any time spent in prison had to be paid for by the prisoner Housing varied from a private cell with a cleaning woman and a visiting prostitute to simply lying on the floor with no cover Those who died inside and only a quarter of prisoners survived until their execution day had to stay in Newgate as a rotting corpse until relatives found the money for the body to be released Stephen Halliday tells the story of Newgate's origins the criminals it held the punishments meted out and its rebuilding and reform This is a compelling slice of London's social and criminal history

Minstrelsy of the Scottish Border: consisting of historical and romantic ballads, collected in the Southern Counties of Scotland; with a few of modern date, founded upon local tradition Walter Scott, 1806

AIDS and Accusation Paul Farmer, 1992 In this book ethnographic historical and epidemiologic data are brought to bear on the subject of the Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome AIDS in Haiti The forces that have helped to determine rates and pattern of spread of Human Immunodeficiency Virus HIV are examined as are social responses to AIDS in rural and urban Haiti and in parts of North America History and its calculus of economic and symbolic power also help to explain why residents of a small village in rural Haiti came to understand AIDS in the manner that they did Drawing on several years of fieldwork the evolution of a cultural model of AIDS is traced In a small village in rural Haiti it was possible to document first the lack of such a model and then the elaboration over time of a widely shared representation of AIDS The experience of three villagers who died of complications of AIDS is examined in detail and the importance of their suffering to the evolution of a cultural model is demonstrated Epidemiologic and ethnographic studies are prefaced by a geographically broad historical analysis which suggests the outlines of relations between a powerful center the United States and a peripheral client state Haiti These relations constitute an important part of a political economic network termed the West Atlantic system The epidemiology of HIV and AIDS in Haiti and elsewhere in the Caribbean is reviewed and the relation between the degree of involvement in the West Atlantic system and the prevalence of HIV is suggested It is further suggested that the history of HIV in the Dominican Republic Jamaica Trinidad and Tobago and the Bahamas is similar to that documented here for Haiti

Infections and Inequalities
Paul Farmer, 2001-02-23 Paul Farmer has battled AIDS in rural Haiti and deadly strains of drug resistant tuberculosis in the slums of Peru A physician anthropologist with more than fifteen years in the field Farmer writes from the front lines of the war against these modern plagues and shows why even more than those of history they target the poor This peculiarly modern inequality that permeates AIDS TB malaria and typhoid in the modern world and that feeds emerging or re emerging infectious diseases such as Ebola and cholera is laid bare in Farmer s harrowing memoir rife with stories about diseases and human suffering Using field work and new scholarship to challenge the accepted methodologies of epidemiology and international health Farmer points out that most current explanatory strategies from cost effective treatment to patient noncompliance inevitably lead to blaming the victims In reality larger forces global as well as local determine why some people are sick and others are shielded from risk Yet this moving autobiography is far from a hopeless inventory of insoluble problems Farmer writes of what can be done in the face of seemingly overwhelming odds by physicians and medical students determined to treat those in need whether in their home countries or through medical outreach programs like Doctors without Borders
