Insurgency and Counterinsurgency in Kenya Hannah Whittaker, 2015-10-20 In Insurgency and Counterinsurgency in Kenya Hannah Whittaker offers an in depth analysis of the Somali secessionist war in northern Kenya 1963-68. Combining archival and oral data, the work captures the complexity of the conflict which combined a series of local, national and regional confrontations. The conflict was not, Whittaker argues, evidence of the potency of Somali nationalism but rather an early expression of its failure. The book also deals with the Kenyan government's response to the conflict as part of the entrenchment of African colonial boundaries at independence. Contrary to current narratives of an increasingly borderless world, Whittaker reminds us of the violence that is produced by state-led attempts to shore up contested borderlands. This work provides vital insights into the history behind the on-going troubled relationship between the Kenyan state and its Somali minority and between Kenya and Somalia.

African Biblical Studies Andrew M. Mbuvi, 2022-09-22. Andrew M. Mbuvi makes the case for African biblical studies as a vibrant and important emerging distinct discipline while also using its postcolonial optic to critique biblical studies for its continued underlying racially and imperialistically motivated tendencies. Mbuvi argues that the emergence of biblical studies as a discipline in the West coincides with and benefits from the establishment of the colonial project that included African colonization. At the heart of the colonial project was the Bible, not only as ferried by missionaries who often espoused racialized views to convert heathens in the distant lands but as the text used in the racialized justification of the colonial violence. Interpretive approaches established within these racist and colonialist matrices continue to dominate the discipline, perpetuating racialized interpretive methodology and frameworks. On these grounds, Mbuvi makes the case that the continued marginalization of non-western approaches is a reflection of the continuing colonialist structure and presuppositions in the discipline of biblical studies. African Biblical Studies not only exposes and critiques these persistent oppressive and subjugating tendencies but showcases how African postcolonial methodologies and studies that prioritize readings from the perspective of the marginalized and oppressed offer an alternative framework for the discipline. These readings, while destabilizing and undermining the predominantly white Euro-American approaches and their ingrained prejudices and problematizing the biblical text itself, posit the need for biblical interpretation that is anti-colonial and anti-racist.

As Pastoralists Settle Elliot Fratkin, Eric Abella Roth, 2006-03-30. The Social Health and Economic Consequences of Pastoral Sedentarization in Marsabit District, Northern Kenya. ERICABELLA ROTH AND ELLIOT FRATKIN. 1. INTRODUCTION. Formerly nomadic livestock-keeping pastoralists have settled in many regions of the world in the past century. Some groups, including those in the former Soviet Union, Iran and Israel, have settled in response to state-enforced measures; others, including Saami in Norway or Bedouins in Saudi Arabia, in response to changing economic opportunities. East Africa, home to many cattle and camel-keeping pastoral societies, has been among the most recent to change. The shift to sedentism by East African pastoralists increased dramatically in the late 20th century as a result of sharp economic political demographic and environmental changes Prolonged drought population growth increased reliance on agriculture and political insecurities including civil war and ethnic conflict have all affected the ability of pastoralists to keep their herds Still the majority of pastoralist households in Kenya Ethiopia Somalia and Tanzania remain committed to raising livestock even as they adapt to farming or urban residence Pastoral production remains a major economic focus in the savannas and scrub deserts of Africa due to both its ecological adaptability and the economic incentive to market livestock and their products Fratkin 2001 Pastoralists settle for a variety of reasons some in response to pushes away from the pastoral economy others to the pulls of urban or agricultural life Kenya National Assembly Official Record (Hansard), 1974-03-12 The official records of the proceedings of the Legislative Council of the Colony and Protectorate of Kenya the House of Representatives of the Government of Kenya and the National Assembly of the Republic of Kenya African Seminars Various Authors, 2021-02-25 Originally published between 1986 and 1989 the 8 volumes in this set reflect the research and debate surrounding many issues for the African economy society and culture and as such make a vital contribution to effective development both rural and urban They re issue key titles from the International African Library and the International African Seminars and address themes of direct relevance to contemporary Africa on topics as diverse as medicine migration housing pastoralism and marriage Culture and Customs of Kenya Neal W.
