Superstructures in Space Michael H. Gorn, 2008 Since the launch of Sputnik 1 in 1957 hundreds of spacecraft from satellites and probes to space stations have ventured beyond Earth's atmosphere to orbit the globe fly to other planets peer into the depths of the universe or encounter comets and asteroids Many have become household names their missions the focus of popular attention while others undertake their equally important tasks in relative anonymity SuperStructures in Space is the first book to present pictorially the most important of these man made objects Featuring a wealth of breathtaking illustrations this remarkable volume reveals the exciting story behind each selected spacecraft its origins and development its designers and manufacturers and its launch and objectives The first survey of the world's most significant and fascinating spacecraft at the dawn of the twenty first century Lavishly illustrated throughout with hundreds of captivating photographs and drawings An authoritative and engaging book by an eminent aerospace historian that will appeal to readers of all ages BOOK JACKET The Space Station Theodore R. Thorpe, 2007-08-28 By 2016 the International Space Station will face retirement What then When colonizing space NASA blazes the trails but private industry must build the roads For common citizens to inhabit space there must be a station in near Earth orbit only 400 miles high where dedicated commercial activities can take place It will be a hub of commerce where industrial scientists can perform chemistry and biology tourists can have lavish vacations solar power stations can be built and serviced and where satellites can be tested and deployed This is now within the grasp of several businesses that are determined to see this vision through The commercialization of low Earth orbit can free NASA and the other space agencies around the world to colonize the Moon and Mars In fact these agencies will be some of the first customers on an industrial facility in space The commercial space station can be the crucible from which a new economy is forged where better medicines cleaner energy sources stronger materials and wider human experiences can be realized These space stations are being deployed now They will do practical useful things in space for the common good of taxpayers They will be new tools in the fight to solve medical and environmental problems to come And they will provide jobs and tax revenue The 21st century will be an industrial space century where average citizens can participate as entrepreneurs or customers
