Selected Papers on High Power Lasers John M. Soures, 1991 Laser Induced Damage in Optical Materials, 1997

The Power- and Energy-handling Capability of Optical Materials, Components, and Systems Roger M.

Wood, 2003 Annotation There is a maximum power and energy that you can put into or transmit through your optical system in many cases this maximum is well below the laser induced damage threshold This tutorial explains the factors and constraints that limit the power and energy handling capability of optical materials components and or systems Because the lasers coming off the production lines are much more stable efficient and controlled than in the past today s engineers often do not have the insight into the technology as was required of first generation laser engineers However important insights into the use and performance of the laser and optical systems can be lost unless we remind ourselves at periodic intervals of the problems our predecessors had to face Self-focusing: Past and Present Robert W. Boyd, Svetlana G. Lukishova, Y. R.

Shen, 2008-12-16 Self focusing has been an area of active scientific investigation for nearly 50 years This book presents a comprehensive treatment of this topic and reviews both theoretical and experimental investigations of self focusing This book should be of interest to scientists and engineers working with lasers and their applications From a practical point of view self focusing effects impose a limit on the power that can be transmitted through a material medium Self focusing also can reduce the threshold for the occurrence of other nonlinear optical processes Self focusing often leads to damage in optical materials and is a limiting factor in the design of high power laser systems But it can be harnessed for the design of useful devices such as optical power limiters and switches At a formal level the equations for self focusing are equivalent to those describing Bose Einstein condensates and certain aspects of plasma physics and hydrodynamics There is thus a unifying theme between nonlinear optics and these other disciplines One of the goals of this book is to connect the extensive early literature on self focusing filamentation self trapping and collapse with more recent studies aimed at issues such as self focusing of fs pulses white light generation and the generation of filaments in air with lengths of more than 10 km It also describes some modern advances in self focusing theory including the influence of beam nonparaxiality on self focusing collapse This book consists of 24 chapters Among them are three reprinted key landmark articles published earlier It also contains the first publication of the 1964 paper that describes the first laboratory observation of self focusing phenomena with photographic evidence Laser-Induced Damage in Optical Materials G Exarhos, Arthur H. Tunable Lasers Handbook Frank J. Duarte, 1996-01-08 Many laser applications depend on the ability of a particular laser to be frequency tunable Among the many different types of frequency tunable lasers are dye lasers excimer lasers and semiconductor lasers This book gives active researchers and engineers the practical information they need to choose an appropriate tunable laser for their particular applications Presents a unified and integrated perspective on tunable lasers Includes sources spanning the electromagnetic spectrum from the UV to the FIR Contains 182 figures and 68 tables Provides coverage of optical parametric oscillators and tunable gas liquid solid state and semiconductor lasers Encyclopedia of Optical Engineering: Abe-Las, pages 1-1024 Ronald G.
