Selfflying The African Bush:

Self-Flying the African Bush Barbara L. Feader, 2002-03-01 Always desiring to take the road least traveled in 1998 I made plans through Smith Travel in Easton Maryland to take one very special road and explore game preserves in South and East Africa But the roads I travel are between 3 000 and 9 000 feet above mean sea level in the left seat of a single engine airplane And that was how I wanted to do my exploring in South and East Africa Mr George Sellers a travel agent with Smith Travel at the time was given the task of working out my travel plans He chose Mike Johnson and Andrew Kerrich who operate Ubuntu Safaris in Johannesburg South Africa to customize my safari and gave them the particulars of what they should do They were to lease a single engine airplane for me to fly beginning in late July and lasting through August 1998 and employ someone to validate my U S pilot license qualifying me to fly a plane of African Registry A myriad of other requests were made for them to accomplish including a trip to visit a falconer on his farm in Jacobsdal in the Orange Free State for an overnight stay a hot air balloon flight over the Serengeti with a champagne breakfast in the middle of the desert a two hour elephant ride in the wilds of Zimbabwe and a flight over the Indian Ocean to the Spice Island of Zanzibar They were to work out the details of what visa s I would need to visit game preserves in up to 10 countries in South and East Africa and figure the cost of everything for me to pre pay before leaving the U S to guard against any chance of unexpected surprises while there The first obstacle confronting me was my age My seventy ninth birthday loomed less than four months away and to qualify for insurance on the plane they leased for me it would be necessary for me to have a co pilot accompany me on my entire journey I authorized them to find me a co pilot and they engaged Ms Kym Morton a consultant with Ubuntu on safaris a fifteen year veteran African bush pilot and a grade II instructor She agreed to validate my U S pilot license and accompany me on my month long safari To my delight she was a member of International Women Pilots more prominently known as The Ninety Nines the same as I Through the expertise of the people at Smith Travel everything went along smoothly and on the morning of July 27 I boarded my flight to New York to connect with the South African Airline for a seventeen hour flight to Johannesburg South Africa landing at 3 00 PM on July 28 1998 After going through immigration I wheeled a cart with my belongings out to the airport lobby where I saw two handsome fellows with a large sign that read BARBARA FEADER Assuming the obvious I wheeled happily over to where they waited and was soon seated in the back of their car being whisked to Lanseria Airport just outside Johannesburg while Mike briefed me on what plans had been made for the evening and to meet my co pilot Kym and look over the plane she had reserved for me The plane was a high wing Cessna Skylane 182RG similar to the one I had flown in Kalispel Montana to take a mountain flying course in 1975 and one I had flown on safari in Australia in July and August 1978 The only difference was it was a later model and had retractable gear Kym had leased the plane from the owner for our safari but learned a day or two before I arrived that the owner had decided to sell it leaving us without transportation It was a squeeze play on the owner s part to force Kym to buy the plane and it worked because it was too late for her to make other arrangements Had she not done so my safari would have been snafued I was most grateful for her gift and really hoped she had not put herself in an untenable situation because of me It was then time for Mike and Andrew to drop me at my hotel The Hertford a few miles away where I was really ready for a soothing soak in a hot bath and dinner before be AERO TRADER & CHOPPER SHOPPER, MARCH 2002 Causey Enterprises, LLC,

Childhood in Contemporary Diasporic African Literature Christopher E. W. Ouma,2020-02-27 This book examines the representation of figures memories and images of childhood in selected contemporary diasporic African fiction by Adichie Abani Wainaina and Oyeyemi The book argues that childhood is a key framework for thinking about contemporary African and African Diasporic identities It argues that through the privileging of childhood memory alternative conceptions of time emerge in this literature and which allow African writers to re imagine what family ethnicity nation means within the new spaces of diaspora that a majority of them occupy The book therefore looks at the connections between childhood space time and memory childhood gender and sexuality childhoods in contexts of war as well as migrant childhoods These dimensions of childhood particularly relate to the return of the memory of Biafra the figures of child soldiers memories of growing up in Cold War Africa queer boyhoods sonhood as well as experiences of migration within Africa North America and Europe

The New Expatriates Anne-Meike Fechter, Katie Walsh, 2013-09-13 While scholarship on migration has been thriving for decades little attention has been paid to professionals from Europe and America who move temporarily to destinations beyond the West Such migrants are marginalised and depoliticised by debates on immigration policy and thus there is an urgent need to develop nuanced understanding of these more privileged movements In many ways these are the modern day equivalents of colonial settlers and expatriates yet the continuities in their migration practices have rarely been considered The New Expatriates advances our understanding of contemporary mobile professionals by engaging with postcolonial theories of race culture and identity The volume brings together authors and research from across a wide range of disciplines seeking to evaluate the significance of the past in shaping contemporary expatriate mobilities and highlighting postcolonial continuities in relation to people practices and imaginations Acknowledging the resonances across a range of geographical sites in Asia Africa and the Middle East the chapters consider the particularity of postcolonial contexts while enabling comparative perspectives A focus on race and culture is often obscured by assumptions about class occupation and skill but this volume explicitly examines the way in which whiteness and imperial relationships continue to shape the migration experiences of Euro American skilled migrants as they seek out new places to live and work This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Ethnic and Migration Studies

Animate Earth Stephan Harding, 2009-03-05 An exciting exploration into how Gaian science can help us to develop a sense of connectedness with the more than human world Written by ecologist Stephan Harding Animate Earth argues that we need to establish the right relationship with the planet as a living entity in which we are indissolubly embedded and to which we are all accountable Now in its second edition this fascinating book includes a new chapter on fungi contemplative exercises and an update on the global climate situation Stephan's work is based on careful integration of rational scientific analysis with our intuition sensing and feeling a vitally important task at this time of severe ecological and climate crisis He replaces the cold objectifying language of science with a way of speaking of our planet as a sentient living being rather than as a dead inert mechanism Chemical reactions for instance are described using human metaphors such as marriage to bring personality back into the world of rocks atmosphere water and living things In this sense the book is a contemporary attempt to rediscover anima mundi the soul of the world through Gaian science whilst assuming no prior knowledge of science Discover what it means to live as harmoniously as possible within a sentient creature of planetary proportions with this inspiring read
