Regulating Lifestyle Risks

Alberto Alemanno, Amandine Garde, 2015-01-01 This collection of essays looks at the role the European Union could and should play in promoting healthier lifestyle in light of the moral philosophical legal and political challenges associated with the regulation of individual choices By tackling the main non communicable diseases NCD risk factors tobacco consumption harmful use of alcohol unhealthy diets and lack of physical activity the contributors endeavour to identify common themes and determine whether and if so to what extent the lessons learned in relation to each area of EU intervention could be transposed to the others By focusing on the European Union legal order the book highlights both the opportunities that legal instruments offer for NCD prevention and control agenda in Europe as well as the constraints that the law imposes on policy makers

The Consumption and Representation of Lifestyle Sports Belinda Wheaton, 2014-06-11 Since their emergence in the 1960s lifestyle sports also referred to as action sport extreme sports adventure sports have experienced unprecedented growth both in terms of participation and in their increased visibility across public and private space book seeks to explore the changing representation and consumption of lifestyle sport in the twenty first century The essays which cover a range of sports and geographical contexts including Brazil Europe North America and Australasia focus on three themes First essays scrutinise aspects of the commercialisation process and impact of the media reviewing and reconsidering theoretical frameworks to understand these processes The scholars here emphasise the need to move beyond simplistic understandings of commercialisation as co option and resistance to capture the complexity and messiness of the process and of the relationships between the cultural industries participants and consumers The second theme examines gender identity and representations exploring the potential of lifestyle sport to be a politically transformative space in relation to gender sexuality and race The last theme explores new theoretical directions in research on lifestyle sport including insights from philosophy sociology and cultural geography The themes the monograph addresses are wide reaching and centrally concerned with the changing meaning of sport and sporting identity in the twenty first century This book was previously published as a Special Issue of Sport in Society

Exposing Lifestyle Television Gareth Palmer, 2016-04-15 In the last decade lifestyle television has become one of the most dominant television genres with certain shows now global brands with formats exploited by producers all over the world What unites these programmes is their belief that the human subject has a flexible malleable identity that can be changed within television friendly frameworks In contrast to the talk shows of the eighties and nineties where modest transformation was discussed as an ideal advances in technology combined with changing tastes and demands of viewers have created an appetite for dramatic transformations This volume presents case studies from across the lifestyle genre considering a variety of themes but with a shared understanding of the self as an evolving project driven by enterprise Written by an international team of scholars the collection will appeal to sociologists of culture and consumption as well as to scholars of media studies and media production throughout the world
