The Art of Floating Kristin Bair O'Keeffe,2014-04-01 At a time when nothing seems real it takes something truly unusual to put your life into focus When her beloved husband Jackson disappeared without a trace popular novelist Sia Dane stopped writing closed down her house stuffed her heart into a cage and started floating It wasn t the normal response to heartache but Sia rarely did things the normal way Exactly one year one month and six days after Jackson s disappearance Sia discovers a mysterious man on the beach He s mute unresponsive and looks as if he has just walked out of the sea It s the sort of situation Jackson would have solved with a simple call to the police But Jackson is gone As unreal as he seems Sia is determined to help this man Perhaps she can return him to his place in the world to whoever lost him and loves him Perhaps she can answer their questions the way no one could answer hers But as her friends and family help her winnow her way to the truth Sia comes to realize that the unfathomable leap between sorrow and healing begins with a single step estimated to be approaching 100 million. Due to their increasing risks of undesirable educational and social as well as health and psychological outcomes, there is a great urgency to help floating children and left behind children beat the odds. This book offers an analysis of how oscillations of government discourse have come to shape central and local educational policies regarding the schooling of these children. It also delves into child and youth resilience in this unique migration context, examining what can be done to build up resilience of floating and left behind children. In this vein, the book will complement current knowledge and advance context and culture specific understandings of child and youth resilience through both school based and community based approaches. The book aims to answer a fundamental question: How to help floating children and left behind children become responsive and resilient to structural deficiencies and dynamics in the migration context of China. This is important reading for scholars, school professionals, community workers, and policy makers to better address the social and educational resilience and wellbeing of floating and left behind children.
