New Directions in Geographical Education David Boardman, 1985-01-01 Geography in British Schools. 1850-2000 Rex Walford, 2001 This history of geography as a major subject in the British school curriculum in the past 150 years deconstructs some of the myths which have grown up around school geography s Victorian image considers geography s struggle for examination recognition in the early years of the 20th century and describes periods of different emphases in the field It analyzes the revolution in teaching geography in the 1960s and 1970s and examines the effect of the National Curriculum Includes bandw historical photos Walford taught postgraduate courses for geography teachers at the University of Cambridge from 1973 to 1999 Distributed by ISBS c Book News Inc Developments and Directions in Geographical Fieldwork in Geography: Reflections, Perspectives and Actions Rod Education Rodney Gerber, John Lidstone, 1996 Gerber, Goh Kim Chuan, 2013-03-14 Geographers regard fieldwork as a vital instrument for understanding our world through direct experience for gathering basic data about this world and as a fundamental method for enacting geographical education The range of international geography and educational experts who contributed to this volume has demonstrated that the concept of fieldwork has a considerable history in the field of geography They have demonstrated that the theoretical aspects of fieldwork have been interpreted differently in regions around the world but the importance of fieldwork remains strong globally A fresh look at the pedagogic implications for fieldwork in formal education offers ideas both for promoting it in geographical education and for maintaining its place in the geography curriculum Audience Forward looking geographers and educators now recognise that alternative strategies especially those involving the use of information technology should be developed to reaffirm the centrality of fieldwork in geographical and wider education International Handbook on Geographical Education Rod Gerber, 2013-03-09 I am very pleased to have been asked by Rod Gerber to provide a preface to such a book Not least because of the twenty four chapters eight are written by former students or colleagues with whom I have worked in the past and whom I still meet at conferences on geographical education It is with a certain pride and joy that I note the progress which has been made in geographical education both in its day to day teaching and in research in the twenty years following the end of my term of office as Chair of the Commission on Geographical Education of the International Geographical Union CGEIUG My successors Joe Stoltman Hartwig Haubrich Rod Gerber and now Lea Houtsonen have done much and are continuing to work hard to foster the development of geographical education This book is proof if proof were needed that the international collaboration in this field is alive and well with contributions coming from all the continents except Antarctica It would be a moribund subject that remained unaffected in one way or another by developments on the great world stage as Fairgrieve 1926 would have put it And as Rod Gerber shows the issues of globalisation of cultural encounters of differing value systems of new technologies of variable economic development and of environmental quality all feature as topics which influence and are influenced by geographical education Continuum

The history of geography is closely connected with the history of human society Geography embraces both the physical and human worlds and aims to bridge natural and human sciences For a geographer although the environment and its conservation is a crucial item it is also fundamentally concerned with the living standards of humankind Although its wide embrace may be seen as a weakness diversification is also strength and an attraction Approaches are multidisciplinary exploring the complex linkages between the cultural and the natural These favor cross cultural communication and mutual understanding at a global scale There is a geographical basis to most of the outstanding political problems and geographical reasons to explain them The subject matter of the geography theme is presented basically on how the subject matter is taught presently at the universities and following the many paths its practitioners are following in doing research It introduces modern subject matters and goes much further than a simple description of places and travels The theme has been divided into four main topics Foundations Physical Geography Human Geography and Technical matters The scope of the foundation topic is to present an overview of the basis of the geographical field its scope history methods and its importance in education The chapters included are Main Stages of the Development Theory and Methods and Geographical Education The Physical Geography topic includes the historical background of the geographical study of the Earth natural environment and the main fields cultivated by geographers It consists of eight chapters on basic research fields which are Geomorphology Climatology

Earl, 2003-09-11 Praise for First Edition Key Issues in Secondary Education addresses crucial cross curricular issues which are central to secondary schooling in the new millennium We are confident that this book will make a major contribution to the understanding of new teachers as they grapple with issues that go beyond subject boundaries and as they explore the fundamental issues which affect schools and young people today Donald McIntyre and Mike YoungerThis eagerly awaited second edition has been fully up dated and revised with new chapters on the nature and measurement of intelligence and issues of race and racism in school and society Other chapters addressing the rapidly changing world of educational policy and innovation have been substantially rewritten to take account of recent developments and current debates All contributors write clearly and accessibly without over simplifying the complexity of the issues or the value they pose Understanding Geographical and Environmental Education Michael C. Williams, 1995-12-07 These papers aim to provide a substantial review of the literature pertaining to a comprehensive range of traditional and contemporary research paradigms and research methods The book is designed as a reference work for novice researchers in the fields of geographical and environmental education Geography Education Research in the UK: Retrospect and Prospect Graham Butt, 2019-08-22 This book provides a unique assessment of the development of research in geography education and its future prospects offering a challenging critique of subject based education research with particular reference to geography education across a range of different jurisdictions It covers a range of topics including the changing role of research in geography education the relationship between education research and professional practice with special reference to geography education research the place of academic subject knowledge in geography education research critiques of the functions of research in geography education and the key issues for education policy and policymakers concerning educational research at national and international levels Importantly in a period marked by radical change for education research and researchers the book offers a timely appraisal of possible ways forward for geography education research Addressing the needs of academics research students policymakers and education practitioners who undertake use or shape the future of research in geography education it comprehensively explores the forces that have driven the development of geography education research and pedagogy Further by positioning its analysis in the context of education policy debates in the UK and further afield it assesses the role and function of research in education and offers an outlook on its future This book is essential reading for all those who wish to understand the sporadic and increasingly uncertain development of subject based research in education Teaching Geography 11-18: a Conceptual Approach David Lambert, John Morgan, 2010-01-16 This is a must read for all 11 18 geography educators It argues for a new geography curriculum founded on a set of major concepts that are profoundly relevant to 21st century life For years books on 11 18 geography education have focussed on classroom techniques new pedagogic technologies and alternative modes of student assessment Not this one Teaching Geography 11 18 digs deep It asks not only what geography is for but bases its answer on a set of key concepts able to sustain an exciting and relevant curriculum It also grounds its many arguments in the latest geographical research thus re establishing the broken connection between geography teaching in schools and that in higher education Professor Noel Castree University of Manchester UK This engaging and stimulating book aims to radically re shape and sharpen debates in geography education by taking an entirely fresh approach to both the subject and its place in secondary education Key questions addressed in this book include What is the place of geography within the secondary school curriculum To what extent does school geography reflect and engage with contemporary issues and theories from the wider subject What are the issues challenges and opportunities of a concept led approach to teaching geography What are the implications of ICT media and technology for the future of geography teaching in schools Influenced by the revised national curriculum for geography which has reduced the prescribed content to be covered this book offers an objective view of the concept led approach The new focus on concepts represents a significant shift in how geography is to be taught in schools yet there has been little extended discussion of what a concept led approach to teaching and learning would entail This book fills that void by examining geography s key concepts and providing teachers with a theoretically robust and practical approach to curriculum planning using a concept led approach This is essential reading for all secondary geography teachers trainee teachers and anyone involved with education and curriculum planning PEACE STUDIES.
