The Local Impact of Globalization in South and Southeast Asia Bart Lambregts, Niels Beerepoot, Robert C. Kloosterman, 2015-08-27 In the past two decades several millions of IT enabled services jobs have been relocated or offshored from the US and Europe to in particular low cost economies around the world Most of these jobs so far have landed in South and South East Asia with India and the Philippines receiving the bulk of them This has caused profound changes in the international division of labour and has had correspondingly wide social and economic effects This book examines how this next wave in globalization affects people and places in South and South East Asia It brings together twelve case studies from India the Philippines China Hong Kong and Thailand and explores how and for whom services offshoring creates opportunities triggers local economic transformations and produces challenges This book in addition compares how different countries take part in this second global shift investigates service sector driven economic development from a historical perspective and engages with the question whether and to what extent services offer a new promising avenue of sustained economic growth for developing countries It argues that service led development in developing countries is not easy for all the workers involved or a guaranteed path to sustained economic development and prosperity This volume stands out from other books in the field in its exploration of the social and economic outcomes in the cities and countries where services have been located Based on cutting edge empirical research and original data the volume offers a state of the art contribution to this growing debate The book provides valuable insights for students scholars and professionals interested in services offshoring socio economic development and contemporary transformations in South and South East Asia

Openness to Creative Destruction Arthur M. Diamond,2019 Life improves under the economic system often called entrepreneurial capitalism or creative destruction but more accurately called innovative dynamism Openness to Creative Destruction Sustaining Innovative Dynamism shows how innovation occurs through the efforts of inventors and innovative entrepreneurs how workers on balance benefit and how good policies can encourage innovation The inventors and innovative entrepreneurs are often cognitively diverse outsiders with the courage and perseverance to see and pursue serendipitous discoveries or slow hunches Arthur M Diamond Jr shows how economies grow where innovative dynamism through leapfrog competition flourishes as in the United States from roughly 1830 1930 Consumers vote with their feet for innovative new goods and for process innovations that reduce prices benefiting ordinary citizens more than the privileged elites Diamond highlights that because breakthrough inventions are costly and difficult patents can be fair rewards for invention and can provide funding to enable future inventions He argues that some fears about adverse effects on labor market are unjustified since more and better new jobs are created than are destroyed and that other fears can be mitigated by better policies The steady growth in regulations often defended on the basis of the precautionary principle increases the costs to potential entrepreneurs and thus reduces innovation The Great Fact of economic history is that after at least 40 000 years of mostly poor nasty brutish and short humans in the last 250 years have started to live substantially longer and better lives Diamond increases understanding of why

Will Robots Take Your Job?: A Plea for Consensus Nigel M. de S. Cameron, 2017-06-23 The trend that began with ATMs and do it yourself checkouts is moving at lightning speed Everything from driving to teaching to the care of the elderly and indeed code writing can now be done by smart machines Conventional wisdom says there will be new jobs to replace those we lose but is it so simple And are we ready Technology writer and think tank director Nigel Cameron argues it's naive to believe we face a smooth transition Whether or not there are new jobs we face massive disruption as the jobs millions of us are doing get outsourced to machines A twenty first century rust belt will rapidly corrode the labor market and affect literally hundreds of different kinds of jobs simultaneously Robots won't design our future we will Yet shockingly political leaders and policy makers don't seem to have this in their line of sight So how should we assess and prepare for the risks of this unknown future

Beyond the Skills Gap Matthew T. Hora, 2019-01-02 2018 Frederic W Ness Book Award AAC U How can educators ensure that young people who attain a postsecondary credential are adequately prepared for the future Matthew T Hora and his colleagues explain that the answer is not simply that students need more specialized technical training to meet narrowly defined employment opportunities Beyond the Skills Gap challenges this conception of the skills gap highlighting instead the value of broader twenty first century skills in postsecondary education They advocate for a system in which employers share responsibility along with the education sector to serve the collective needs of the economy society and students Drawing on interviews with educators in two and four year institutions and employers in the manufacturing and biotechnology sectors the authors demonstrate the critical importance of habits of mind such as problem solving teamwork and communication They go on to show how faculty and program administrators can create active learning experiences that develop students skills across a range of domains The book includes in depth descriptions of eight educators whose classrooms exemplify the effort to blend technical learning with the cultivation of twenty first century habits of mind The study set in Wisconsin takes place against the backdrop of heated political debates over the role of public higher education This thoughtful and nuanced account enriched by keen observations of postsecondary instructional practice promises to contribute new insights to the rich literature on workforce development and to provide valuable guidance for postsecondary faculty and administrators
