Hotel staff had planned to evict the two the following day after several weeks of unpaid rent Mounting debts had finally broken the fifty year old Hillman a now struggling author of mixed success but it had not always been that way as Thomas Aiello shows in his study of the life and work of this forgotten midcentury figure As a youth Hillman attended the prestigious Noble and Greenough School near Boston Pursuing a career as a writer he published several dozen pieces of short fiction and a critically acclaimed novel Fortune's Cup 1941 Hollywood studios purchased the rights to two of his stories and made them into films The Great Man Votes 1939 and Here I Am a Stranger 1940 But Hillman remained for the most part a middling magazine writer like the majority of fiction authors working during the Depression Although most did not resort to acts of manic violence Hillman's tenuous position in literary circles along with his gradual descent into financial ruin proved a far more common tale than the stories of literary success often pored over by critics and historians of this period In The Trouble in Room 519 Money Matricide and Marginal Fiction in the Early Twentieth Century Aiello weaves a compelling true crime narrative into his exploration of the economics of magazine fiction and the strains placed on authors by the publishing industry prior to World War II Examining Hillman's writing as exemplary of Depression era popular fiction Aiello includes eight stories written by Hillman and originally published in prominent midcentury American magazines including Collier's Liberty and McCall's to provide additional context and insight into this trying time and tragic life
