New Church Anth Package 3 Components:

Corporate Elements in Pauline Anthropology Sang-Won Son, 2001 In this book the author claims that modern western biblical scholarship greatly influenced by extreme individualism has not paid due attention to the corporate dimension of Pauline anthropology. It investigates the following elements in Paul's letters in the light of his usage and background: 1 Paul's in Christ formula 2 his comparison and contrast of Adam and Christ 3 his concept of the church as the body of Christ and 4 as the temple house and building of God and 5 his understanding of the sexual union as one flesh. The author insists that these elements closely interwoven in concept and realistic in expression indicate that Paul understands the risen Christ as a corporate person in whom all believers are included and the church as a corporate solidarity inclusive of both Christ and believers. Underlying this concept is the author argues Paul's assumption of the corporate solidarity of human existence. Paul views man not only as an individual but also as a corporate person whose existence extends in certain respects beyond his individual being to form corporate solidarity with others. This view of man both as an individual and corporate person the author concludes has significant implications for the rest of Pauline theology particularly for his Christology ecclesiology and eschatology.

New Directions in Biocultural Anthropology Molly K. Zuckerman, Debra L. Martin, 2016-10-17 Biocultural or biosocial anthropology is a research approach that views biology and culture as dialectically and inextricably intertwined explicitly emphasizing the dynamic interaction between humans and their larger social cultural and physical environments. The biocultural approach emerged in anthropology in the 1960s matured in the 1980s and is now one of the dominant paradigms in anthropology particularly within biological anthropology. This volume gathers contributions from the top scholars in biocultural anthropology focusing on six of the most influential productive and important areas of research within biocultural anthropology. These are critical and synthetic approaches within biocultural anthropology: biocultural approaches to identity including race and racism health diet and nutrition infectious disease from antiquity to the modern era epidemiologic transitions and population dynamics and inequality and violence studies. Focusing on these six major areas of burgeoning research within biocultural anthropology makes the proposed volume timely widely applicable and useful to scholars engaging in biocultural research and students interested in the biocultural approach and synthetic in its coverage of contemporary scholarship in biocultural anthropology. Students will be able to grasp the history of the biocultural approach and how that history continues to impact scholarship as well as the scope of current research within the approach and the foci of biocultural research into the future. Importantly contributions in the text follow a consistent format of a discussion of method and theory relative to a particular aspect of the above six topics followed by a case study applying the surveyed method and theory. This structure will engage students by providing real world examples of anthropological issues and demonstrating how biocultural method and theory can be used to elucidate and resolve them. Key features include Contributions which span the breadth of approaches and topics within biological anthropology from the insights granted through work with ancient human remains to those granted through collaborative research with contemporary peoples Comprehensive treatment of diverse topics within biocultural anthropology from human variation and adaptability to recent disease pandemics the embodied effects of race and racism industrialization and the rise of allergy and autoimmune diseases and the sociopolitics of slavery and torture Contributions and sections united by thematically cohesive threads Clear jargon free language in a text that is designed to be pedagogically flexible contributions are written to be both understandable and engaging to both undergraduate and graduate students Provision of synthetic theory method and data in each contribution The use of richly contextualized case studies driven by empirical data Through case study driven contributions each chapter demonstrates how biocultural approaches can be used to better understand and resolve real world problems and anthropological issues

Lacanian Psychoanalysis and Eastern Orthodox Christian Anthropology in Dialogue Carl Waitz, Theresa Tisdale, 2021-10-26 This book vigorously engages Lacan with a spiritual tradition that has yet to be thoroughly addressed within psychoanalytic literature the Eastern Orthodox Christian tradition The book offers a unique engagement with a faith system that highlights and extends analytic thinking For those in formation within the Orthodox tradition this book brings psychoanalytic insights to bear on matters of faith that may at times seem opaque or difficult to understand Ultimately the authors seek to elicit in the reader the reflective and contemplative posture of Orthodoxy as well as the listening ear of analysis while considering the human subject This work is relevant and important for those training in psychoanalysis and Orthodox theology or ministry as well as for those interested in the intersection between psychoanalysis and religion

The Spirit and Relational Anthropology in Paul Samuel D. Ferguson, 2020-08-28 La 4e de couverture indique For the Apostle Paul humans do not identify and act on their own but are constituted in part by relationships Samuel D Ferguson shows that according to Paul the work of the Holy Spirit further attests to this as Christians realize their new life through Spirit created relationships of sonship and communal interdependence

The Chaldeans Yasmeen Hanoosh, 2019-05-30 Modern Chaldeans are an Aramaic speaking Catholic Syriac community from northern Iraq not to be confused with the ancient Mesopotamian civilization of the same name First identified as Chaldean by the Catholic Church in the sixteenth century this misnomer persisted developing into a distinctive and unique identity In modern times the demands of assimilation in the US together with increased hostility and sectarian violence in Iraq gave rise to a complex and transnational identity Faced with Islamophobia in the US Chaldeans were at pains to emphasize a Christian identity and appropriated the ancient pre Islamic history of their namesake as a means of distinction between them and other immigrants from Arab lands In this the first ethnographic history of the modern Chaldeans Yasmeen Hanoosh explores these ancient modern inflections in contemporary Chaldean identity discourses the use of history as a collective commodity for developing and sustaining a positive community image in the present and the use of language revival and monumental symbolism to reclaim association with Christian and pre Christian traditions
