

QUICK TIPS FOR EFFECTIVE PATIENT PRESENTATIONS:

Know expectations.

Preferences for presentations can vary between specialties and attendings in terms of length and style.

Be concise.

Succinctly convey the most essential patient information in a logical way to tell the patient's story.

Synthesize information.

Present organized, accurate information that highlights the points you think are most relevant.

Engage your listeners.

Deliver your presentation in an organized, clear, and professional manner with good eye contact.

Be mindful of your audience.

Adjust accordingly for different settings, including bedside presentations.

Keep it patient-centered.

Advocate for your patient using language that is kind, empathetic, and non-judgmental. Know your biases and work to counteract them.

Practice.

Take every opportunity to present patients and practice before you present to your team.

Medically Unexplained Symptoms, Somatisation and Bodily Distress Francis Creed, Peter Henningsen, Per Fink, 2011-07-14. Medically unexplained symptoms and somatisation are the fifth most common reason for visits to doctors in the USA and form one of the most expensive diagnostic categories in Europe. The range of disorders involved includes irritable bowel syndrome, chronic widespread pain and chronic fatigue syndrome. This book reviews the current literature, clarifies and disseminates clear information about the size and scope of the problem and discusses current and future national and international guidelines. It also identifies barriers to progress and makes evidence-based recommendations for the management of medically unexplained symptoms and somatisation. Written and edited by leading experts in the field, this authoritative text defines international best practice and is an important resource for psychiatrists, clinical psychologists, primary care doctors and those responsible for establishing health policy.

A Textbook of General Practice 3E Patrick White, Ann Wylie, 2011-12-30. An essential guide to general practice and being a general practitioner. A Textbook of General Practice is written specifically with the medical student and foundation doctor in mind, reflecting current teaching practice. Readers are encouraged to learn through doing with practical exercises throughout the book. Student and tutor quotes offer insights into personal experience while thinking and discussion points encourage reflection. With content entirely updated to reflect the latest recommendations from Tomorrow's Doctors, the third edition of A Textbook of General Practice is the number one choice for undergraduates seeking a narrative introduction to this important discipline.

Time-Limited Therapy in a General Practice Setting Glyn Hudson-Allez, 1997-10-15. An excellent book, an important source of learning bringing clarity and insight into often isolated areas.

Counselling in Medical Settings CMS Journal. Glyn Hudson-Allez's book is very well researched and clearly written. Time limited therapy is an effective and professional means of offering practical help and the book is highly recommended reading for all counsellors wishing to work in this way.

Family Practice As general practitioners are increasingly capping provision of counselling sessions, time limited therapy skills are becoming ever more important to counsellors working alongside GPs. Time limited therapy provides a specific set of skills which enable counsellors to cope successfully with the large number and wide range of referrals they can receive in primary care settings. This book covers both difficulties commonly presented in primary care such as anxiety, stress, bereavement and depression and problems not usually considered appropriate for working within a time limited framework such as eating disorders, medical complaints and abuse. The author shows that clients with such problems can also be helped.

effectively Integrating counselling skills with psychological knowledge Glyn Hudson Allez outlines the psychological and physical aspects of each problem and provides concise guidelines with illustrative case studies on how time limited therapy can be used efficiently in each case She also discusses the administration and evaluation of a counselling service within primary care
