lasting empire in Indian history Examines the history of the Mughal presence in India from 1526 to the mid eighteenth century Creates a new framework for understanding the Mughal empire by addressing themes that have not been explored before Subtly traces the legacy of the Mughals world into today's India Religious Cultures in Early Modern India Rosalind O'Hanlon, David Washbrook, 2014-01-02 Religious authority and political power have existed in complex relationships throughout India's history The centuries of the early modern in South Asia saw particularly dynamic developments in this relationship Regional as well as imperial states of the period expanded their religious patronage while new sectarian centres of doctrinal and spiritual authority emerged beyond the confines of the state Royal and merchant patronage stimulated the growth of new classes of mobile intellectuals deeply committed to the reappraisal of many aspects of religious law and doctrine Supra regional institutions and networks of many other kinds sect based religious maths pilgrimage centres and their guardians saints and sufi orders flourished offering greater mobility to wider communities of the pious This was also a period of growing vigour in the development of vernacular religious literatures of different kinds and often of new genres blending elements of older devotional juridical and historical literatures Oral and manuscript literatures too gained more rapid circulation although the meaning and canonical status of texts frequently changed as they circulated more widely and reached larger lay audiences Through explorations of these developments the essays in this collection make a distinctive contribution to a critical formative period in the making of India's modern religious cultures This book was published as a special issue of South Asian History and Culture

Waqf in Central Asia R. D. McChesney, 2014-07-14 Waqfs or religious endowments have long been at the very center of daily Islamic life establishing religious cultural and welfare institutions and serving as a legal means to keep family property intact through several generations In this book R D McChesney focuses on the major Muslim shrine at Balkh once a flourishing city on an ancient trade route in what is now northern Afghanistan and provides a detailed study of the political economic and social conditions that influenced and were influenced by the development of a single religious endowment From its founding in 1480 until 1889 when the Afghan government took control of it the waqf at Balkh was a formidable economic force in a financially dynamic region particularly during those times when the endowment's sacred character and the tax privileges it acquired gave its managers considerable financial security This study sheds new light on the legal institution of waqf within Muslim society and on how political conditions affected the development of socio religious institutions throughout Central Asia over a period of four hundred years Originally published in 1991 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905
