Historic Churches of New Mexico Today Frank Graziano, 2019-04-01
This interpretive guide combines history and ethnography to represent living traditions at the adobe and stone churches of New Mexico. Each chapter treats a particular church or group of churches and includes photographs, practical information for visitors, and context pertinent to current understanding. Frank Graziano provides unprecedented coverage of the churches by combining his extensive fieldwork with research in archives and previous scholarship. The book is written in an engaging narrative prose that brings the reader inside of congregations in Indian and Hispanic villages. The focus is less on church buildings than on people in relation to churches: parishioners, caretakers, priests, restorers, and on the author's experiences researching among them.

John Gaw Meem at Acoma Kate Wingert-Playdon, 2012-11-15
Built by Spanish Franciscan missionaries in the seventeenth century, the magnificent mission church at Acoma Pueblo in west central New Mexico is the oldest and largest intact adobe structure in North America. But in the 1920s, in danger of becoming a ruin, the building was restored in a cooperative effort among Acoma Pueblo, which owned the structure, and other interested parties. Kate Wingert-Playdon's narrative of the restoration and the process behind it is the only detailed account of this milestone example of historic preservation in which New Mexico's most famous architect, John Gaw Meem, played a major role.

An Archaeology of the Cosmos Timothy R. Pauketat, 2013
An Archaeology of the Cosmos seeks answers to two fundamental questions of humanity and human history. The first question concerns that which some use as a defining element of humanity: religious beliefs. Why do so many people believe in supreme beings and holy spirits? The second question concerns changes in those beliefs. What causes beliefs to change? Using archaeological evidence gathered from ancient America, especially case material from the Great Plains and the pre-Columbian American Indian city of Cahokia, Timothy Pauketat explores the logical consequences of these two fundamental questions. Religious beliefs are not more resilient than other aspects of culture and society, and people are not the only causes of historical change. An Archaeology of the Cosmos examines the intimate association of agency and religion by studying how relationships between people, places, and things were bundled together and positioned in ways that constituted the fields of human experience. This rethinking of theories of agency and religion provides readers with challenging and thought-provoking conclusions that will lead them to reassess the way they approach the past.

Santa Fe Elizabeth West, 2012
This question and answer book contains 400 reminders of what is known and what is sometimes forgotten or misunderstood about a city that was founded more than 400 years ago. Not a traditional history book, this group of questions is presented in an apparently random order, and the answers occasionally meander off topic as if

part of a casual conversation Southwest Archaeology in the Twentieth Century Linda S Cordell, Don D Fowler, 2005-11-10

Mesa Verde Chaco Canyon Canyon de Chelly and Paquim are well known to tourists and scholars alike as emblems of the American Southwest This region has been the scene of intense archaeological investigations for more than a hundred years with more research done here than in any other part of the United States With contributions from well known archaeologists Southwest Archaeology in the Twentieth Century reviews the histories of major archaeological topics of the region during the twentieth century giving particular attention to the vast changes in southwestern archaeology during the later decades of the century Included are the huge influence of field schools the rise of cultural resource management CRM the uses and abuses of ethnographic analogy the intellectual contexts of archaeology in Mexico and current debates on agriculture sedentism and political complexity This book provides an authoritative retrospective of intellectual trends as well as a synthesis of current themes in the arena of the American Southwest From publisher's description Kiva, Cross, and Crown John L. White, 2003-02-28 Each year a billion dollars is spent on church buildings in the United States Yet there is no authoritative book available to guide building committees ministers and others responsible for new churches in the theological implications of their work Dr White explores the theological and historical considerations relevant to building for Protestant worship Surprisingly these are often ignored by building committees usually with disastrous results His approach is highly original especially in his theological treatment of worship yet his book is also a operative in the largest sense in that it relates theology to practice Professor White begins with a critical analysis of contemporary concepts of Protestant worship and then defines the liturgical factors in church design Following this there are four chapters giving an historical account of various experiments from the third century to the present This section indicates the tremendous variety of possibilities open to the church builder many of which have been ignored too long A final chapter deals with emotive factors all vitally relevant to the architect choir liturgical art and style The opportunity to design a new church building occurs only once or twice in each generation of church members It is all the more important that it be done carefully since the building will continue to affect the life of the congregation for many years Until fundamental questions as to what the Church is and what the Church does in worship are raised a congregation is not prepared to build This book will help churches find the answers The 155 item bibliography should be of value to many since a recent extensive bibliography on Protestant church architecture does not exist This book also contains 60 diagrams of
