Riesebrodt, 2010-02-15 Why has religion persisted across the course of human history Secularists have predicted the end of faith for a long time but religions continue to attract followers Meanwhile scholars of religion have expanded their field to such an extent that we lack a basic framework for making sense of the chaos of religious phenomena To remedy this state of affairs Martin Riesebrodt here undertakes a task that is at once simple and monumental to define understand and explain religion as a universal concept Instead of propounding abstract theories Riesebrodt concentrates on the concrete realities of worship examining religious holidays conversion stories prophetic visions and life cycle events In analyzing these practices his scope is appropriately broad taking into consideration traditions in Judaism Christianity Islam Buddhism Daoism and Shinto Ultimately Riesebrodt argues all religions promise to avert misfortune help their followers manage crises and bring both temporary blessings and eternal salvation And as The Promise of Salvation makes clear through abundant empirical evidence religion will not disappear as long as these promises continue to help people cope with life The Rise of Islam and the Bengal Frontier, 1204-1760 Richard M. region most receptive to the Islamic faith This area today is home to the world's second largest Muslim ethnic population How and why did such a large Muslim population emerge there And how does such a religious conversion take place Richard Eaton uses archaeological evidence monuments narrative histories poetry and Mughal administrative documents to trace the long historical encounter between Islamic and Indic civilizations Moving from the year 1204 when Persianized Turks from North India annexed the former Hindu states of the lower Ganges delta to 1760 when the British East India Company rose to political dominance there Eaton explores these moving frontiers focusing especially on agrarian growth and religious change In all of the South Asian subcontinent Bengal was the region most receptive to the Islamic faith This area today is home to the world's second largest Muslim ethnic population How and why did such a large Muslim population emerge there And how does su A Short History of the Mughal Empire Michael Fisher, 2015-10-01 The Mughal Empire dominated India politically culturally socially economically and environmentally from its foundation by Babur a Central Asian adventurer in 1526 to the final trial and exile of the last emperor Bahadur Shah Zafar at the hands of the British in 1858 Throughout the

The East India Company, 1600-1857 William A. Pettigrew, Mahesh Gopalan, 2016-07-15. This book employs a wide range of perspectives to demonstrate how the East India Company facilitated cross-cultural interactions between the English and various groups in South Asia between 1600 to 1857 and how these interactions transformed important features of both British and South Asian history. Rather than viewing the Company as an organization projecting its authority from London to India, the volume shows how the Company's history and its broader historical significance can best be understood by appreciating the myriad ways in which these interactions shaped the Company's story and altered the course of history. Bringing together the latest research and several case studies, the work includes examinations of the formulation of economic theory, the development of corporate strategy, the mechanics of state finance, the mapping of maritime jurisdiction, the government and practice of religions, domesticity, travel, diplomacy, state formation, art, gift-giving, incarceration and rebellion. Together, the essays will advance the understanding of the peculiarly corporate features of cross-cultural engagement during a crucial early phase of globalization. Insightful and lucid, this volume will be useful to scholars and researchers of modern history, South Asian studies, economic history and political studies.

Hinduism as a Missionary Religion Arvind Sharma, 2012-01-02. Is Hinduism a missionary religion? Merely posing this question is a novel and provocative act. Popular and scholarly perception both ancient and modern puts Hinduism in the non-missionary category. In this intriguing book, Arvind Sharma re-opens the question. Examining the historical evidence from the major Hindu eras—the Vedic, classical, medieval and modern periods—Sharma's investigation challenges the categories used in current scholarly discourse and finds them inadequate, emphasizing the need to distinguish between a missionary religion and a proselytizing one. A distinction rarely made, it is nevertheless an illuminating and fruitful one that resonates with insights from the comparative study of religion. Ultimately concluding that Hinduism is a missionary religion but not a proselytizing one, Sharma's work provides us with new insights both on Hinduism and the consideration of religion itself.

The Gunpowder Empires and Modern Times Marshall G.S. Hodgson, 2009-05-15 The final installment in the groundbreaking The Venture of Islam series a monumental three volume interpretation of Islamic civilization Review of Middle East Studies The Venture of Islam has been honored as a magisterial work of the mind since its publication in early 1975 In this three volume study illustrated with charts and maps Hodgson traces and interprets the historical development of Islamic civilization from before the birth of Muhammad to the middle of the twentieth century This work grew out of the famous course on Islamic civilization that Hodgson created and taught for many years at the University of Chicago In this concluding volume of The Venture of Islam Hodgson describes the second flowering of Islam the Safavi Timuri and Ottoman empires The final part of the volume analyzes the widespread Islamic heritage in today s world Praise for The Venture of Islam This is a nonpareil work not only because of its command of its subject but also because it demonstrates how ideally history should be written The New Yorker In placing Islamic society in a context encompassing not only Islam outside the Middle East proper but contemporary societies such as western Europe and China he provides a prospective sorely missed in most works on the subject Linda C Rose History The Cambridge History of British Foreign Policy, 1783-1919 Sir Adolphus William Ward, George Peabody Gooch, 1923
