Jacob,2013-08-21 The book discusses how to tackle long term social and ecological problems by using different environmental governance approaches to creating sustainable development. It explores opportunities and requirements for the governance of long term problems and examines how to achieve a lasting transformation. When investments are made to mitigate climate change or preserve biodiversity, future generations can reap benefits from the efforts of the present generation. However, long term social ecological change towards sustainable development is disrupted by the fact that the costs and benefits of action are seen by different generations. With a global focus that includes case studies from Europe, Asia, Africa, and North America, this book attempts to address the difficulty of developing and implementing effective long term governance solutions. The authors examine what distinguishes long term problems from other policy problems, what governance responses are available and used, and how different governance mechanisms, namely economic incentives, participation, as well as knowledge and learning, help to address them. Combining the perspectives on the different governance approaches and featuring cases studies on national, regional, and global issues, Long Term Governance for Social Ecological Change will be of interest to policy makers, students, and scholars of global environmental governance, development, sustainability, politics, economics, law, and sociology. Climate Change and Long-term Fluctuations of Commercial Catches L. B. Klika and S. Torin, Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2001-01-01. The main objective of this study is to develop a predictive model based on the correlation between well known climate indices and fish production to forecast fluctuations in the main commercial Atlantic and Pacific fish stocks for up to 30 years ahead. The probable scenario of climate and biota changes for the next 50-60 years is also considered.

Global Change Science Requirements for Long-term Archiving, 1999 Long Waves of Growth, Hegemonic Power, and Climate Change in the World Economy Phillip Anthony O'Hara, 2025-10-02. This book investigates eras of major geopolitical and socioeconomic power development, relative demise, and potential renewal for four major political economies. It concentrates on the Dutch Golden Age of the late 1500s and 1600s, British hegemony of the 1800s, Pax Americana of the 1900s, and Chinese potential hegemony of the 2000s, as well as long wave patterns of change over successive centuries to the present and to some degree into the future. Dutch, British, US, and Chinese economies are situated within patterns of long term successive rise and fall, and fall and rise of economic growth, hegemony, and climate change in the world political economy, including linkages between core, periphery, and semi periphery. Patterns of multiple crises tend to appear in between hegemonic periods, and climate change often undergoes complex dynamics through time, while currently climate anomalies are emerging during mostly long wave downswings and polycrises in the world economy. Contemporary themes of the book include the ongoing competition for world domination between the US and China, the conflict over Ukraine, Taiwan, that some think may generate world war 3, the climate change crisis that continues to plague the world, and whether the world and its major economies are likely to undergo a Golden Age into the future. Chapter 7 of this book on US hegemony and long waves includes extracts of material that won the Myrdal Prize for Book of the Year Prize from EAEPE, as well as Journal Article of the Year from Curtin Business School Ideas from parts of Chapter 9 emanate from a volume that won Book of the Year Award from CBS A climate change paper that won Journal Article of the Year Awards from EAEPE and CBS informed ideas that are used in several parts of this book The book outlines key stylized facts from the analysis and presents hypotheses for further investigation on the relationship between long term growth hegemony and climate change The book uses the work of Kondratiev Schumpeter and company themes in economic history modern political economy schools and the principles of political economy contingency paradigm to reformulate long wave hegemony and climate change hypotheses and empirics

The Foundations of Character Alexander Faulkner Shand,1914 A scientific treatment should not diminish but increase the general interest taken in character To bring together the various aspects of the subject which in literature are treated in isolation from one another to lead up to a general conception of it to study the methods by which the knowledge of it may be increased in accuracy and extent these are to make approaches to a scientific treatment of character While I have had chiefly to confine myself to a study of the tendencies of the emotions and sentiments this has been throughout my aim This book then is a study of method Yet I do not claim that this method is essentially new It is in the main the hypothetical method of the sciences it has had to be adapted to the treatment of character that is all A complete science of mind would include a science of character The best approach to such a science is through the study of the primary emotions and their connected instincts This study is to be directed to an analysis of tendencies PsycINFO Database Record c 2005 APA all rights reserved

Analysis and Modeling of Relationships Between Accidents and the Geometric and Traffic Characteristics of the Interstate System Julie Anna Fee,Stephen K. Dietz,Richard L. Beatty,1969 Principal findings of this study were that geometrics alone account for only a small portion of the variance in accidents and that no relationship could be established between fatalities and the geometrics studied The geometrics studied include several types of interchanges paved shoulders sight distance delineators surface types and other variables Mathematical models were developed which can provide estimates of the average number of accidents on a particular type of highway or interchange using the appropriate variables
