Performance of Native English Speakers and Learners Elaheh Nosrati-rad, 2023-04-18 This book is an original empirical study which contributes to the knowledge and scholarship in the fields of variational interlanguage and cross cultural pragmatics on a number of important levels It highlights the potential influence of individual regional and contextual variations on the language use of native speakers and pragmatic performance of English as a Foreign Language learners arguing that factors such as gender operationalised via sex e.g female and male and native culture should be considered in one single study The book discusses the complexity of the influence of gender on language use given that its influence may manifest in different ways in different cultures and contexts Thus researchers should focus on gender culture and contextual variation when analysing language use conventions of native speakers and language learners with data highlighting the role of gender in learners first and second languages and cultures The book also introduces findings which show the importance of cross cultural comparison of Western Anglo Saxon and Middle Eastern Persian cultures in a single study and through a cross culturally comparable data collection method Forthcoming Books Rose Arny, 2003-12 Making Requests by

Chinese EFL Learners Vincent X. Wang, 2011 Requests a speech act people frequently use to perform everyday social interactions have attracted particular attention in politeness theories pragmatics and second language acquisition This book looks at request behaviours in a significant EFL population Chinese speaking learners of English It will draw on recent literature such as politeness theories and cognitive models for interlanguage pragmatics development as well as placing special emphasis on situational context and formulaic language to provide a more fine grained investigation A range of request scenarios has been specifically designed for this project from common service encounters to highly face threatening situations such as borrowing money and asking a favour of police officer Our findings on Chinese style pragmatic behaviours and patterns of pragmatic development will be of value to cross cultural pragmatics researchers TESOL professionals and university students with an interest in this area of study
