No Vacancy:

No Vacancy Michael Tobias, Bob Gillespie, Elizabeth Hughes, 2006 If current world population trends were to continue human numbers could more than double to 13 billion people by the end of this century Given humanity's consumerist trends with resulting global warming and the overall impact on vulnerable biodiversity and habitat this would be ecologically disastrous No Vacancy is that rare chronicle of sobering optimism in a world more accustomed to thinking about population as a dilemma with little hope of positive change Family planning expert Bob Gillespie and renowned global ecologist author and film director Michael Tobias journeyed the world in search of answers This book reveals an exquisite window on remarkable events occurring in country after country where Tobias and Gillespie discovered changes that have resulted in smaller family sizes and the empowerment of women and children while creating critical pathways towards ecological sustainability From Iran Mexico Ghana and Nigeria to countries across Western Europe as well as the U S India and Indonesia No Vacancy paints an emotional at times provocative portrait of a global transformation a fertility transition that may well prove to be one of the most important and timely ingredients in humanity's survival and the continuation of life on Earth Book jacket
