Religious Belief Emotional Transformat:

Religious Belief and Emotional Transformation Paul Lauritzen, 1992 Even a cursory reading of contemporary moral philosophy and theological ethics reveals that discussions in these disciplines are often far removed from the actual experiences of individuals struggling to live morally One reason for this is the general silence in most modern ethical theory about the place of emotions in the moral life In this study of the possibility of emotional moral transformation through religious belief and practice Paul Lauritzen breaks this silence and attempts to explain both why emotions have been ignored and why they must be reclaimed Drawing on work in philosophical psychology cultural anthropology and religious studies Lauritzen develops an account of emotions and of the self that allows us to see how a system of religious belief and practice may dramatically transform the emotional life of the believer He argues that emotions are not biologically basic experiences invariant from culture to culture but rather are culturally mediated artifacts that are inescapably tied to communities of belief and practice that sustain particular understandings of the self and its world To this end Lauritzen sketches a social constructivist account of human emotions and analyzes the emotion of anger in detail By comparing anger as it is found in our culture with accounts of anger in certain non Western societies the author demonstrates that emotions are crucially shaped in communities of belief and practice and are thus open to transformation with a change in belief and practice This possibility is explored at length by examining the way in which a framework of retributive justice structures the experience of anger in our culture According to Lauritzen this framework presupposes that the human condition is characterized by limited resources on the one hand and by limited generosity on the other Against this background anger will appear to be a natural retributive response to violations of individuals rights The author concludes the study by showing how given particular religious views about human life and history the framework of retributive justice may be transformed or transcended in ways that dramatically affect the emotional life of the believer secular affect and emotion The volume emphasizes two analytical perspectives on the one hand chapters take an immanent perspective focusing on subjective feelings and emotions in relation to the religious and the secular On the other hand chapters take a relational perspective looking at the role of affect and emotion in how the religious and the secular constitute one another These perspectives cut across the three main parts of the volume the first one addressing historical intertwinements of religion and emotion the second part emphasizing affects emotions and religiosity and the third part looking at specific sensibilities of the secular The thirteen chapters provide a well balanced composition of theoretical methodological and empirical approaches to these areas of inquiry discussing both historical and contemporary cases

The Psychological Roots of Religious Belief M. D. Faber, 2010-06-03 In this insightful new study M D Faber whose previous work on the psychology of religion has won widespread critical acclaim offers a comprehensive naturalistic explanation of religious experience from the intertwining perspectives of neuroscience and developmental psychology Faber here argues that belief in God the powerful sensation of his presence and the heartfelt assent to the reality of the supernatural are all produced by the mind brain s inherent tendency to discover in religious narrative a striking memorial echo of its own biological development Although Faber maintains that we are not wired specifically for God as many contend our brain is so constructed as to make us profoundly susceptible to religious myths These myths encourage us to map our early internalized experience onto a variety of supernatural narratives with the figure of the Parent God and his angelic assistants at the center A key point of Faber s analysis is the connection between the onset of infantile amnesia during childhood s later years and the evocative power of religious mythology Although we cannot explicitly recall our earliest interactions with our parents or other caregivers religious narratives can and do jog these implicit emotional memories in an uncanny way which prompts us to accede to religion s central tenet namely that we are in the care of an omnipotent parental provider who watches over us and ministers to our needs In the final analysis religious experience attempts to recapture and to reinstate in an idealized form the symbiotic union of the early parent child relation This pioneering highly original work takes the reader to the neurological psychological bedrock of religious experience The Problem of Religious Experience Olga Louchakova-Schwartz, 2020-01-28 For a long time the philosophically difficult topic of religious experience has been on the sidelines of phenomenological research with a notable exception of Anthony Steinbock who focused on mysticism The book The Problem of Religious Experience Case Studies in Phenomenology with Reflections and Commentaries brings together preeminent as well as emerging voices in the field with fresh views on the topic Originating from dialogues of the Society for the Phenomenology of Religious Experience these two volumes cover a spectrum of phenomenological approaches with a thematization of the field in the form of case studies Contributions from theology comparative religion psychology and the philosophy of religion come together in the commentaries and meta narrative written by Olga Louchakova Schwartz the editor Volume I The Primeval Showing of Religious Experience examines religious experience with regard to its lived interiority in light of the problem of the ego cogito including the recent research on the embodiment of subjectivity and phenomenological materiality Volume I also sheds light on religious experience in regard for the problems of its constitution passive synthesis the world and otherness Volume II Doxastic Perspectives in the Phenomenology of Religious Experience addresses the phenomenology of revelation shows how different approaches treat the question of essence in religious experience i e what is it that makes religious experience religious and demonstrates how religious experience contributes to the psychological horizon of meaning The book identifies the growing edges in the phenomenological research of religious experience and is useful for psychologists philosophers and theologians alike The two volumes offer an excellent interdisciplinary introduction to the phenomenon of religious experience The case studies presented in them are arranged under the central topics of self alterity revelation and psychological aspects of religious experience and provide outstanding examples of applied phenomenology Hans Rainer Sepp Charles University Prague and Central European Institute of Philosophy In the context of the return of religion this book offers both a timely and necessary contribution to confront the peculiarities of religious experience Providing readers with applied phenomenological descriptions in an interdisciplinary spirit these debates will prove stimulating for a resurgent field of research that is starting to refine its conceptual devices and methodological presuppositions University of Vienna

Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgender Christians Bronwyn Fielder, Douglas Ezzy, 2017-12-14 Lesbian Gay Bisexual and Transgender Christians details the processes through which LGBT Christians resolve the fraught tensions between their religious sexual and gendered identities and examines the associated changes to their religious practice in the pursuit of authenticity The book moves between richly described first person accounts and clear theoretical analysis contextualising the discussion within contemporary theories of religion and same sex attraction Through careful qualitative research with LGBT Christians in the Australian Metropolitan Community Church MCC and the Uniting Church Bronwyn Fielder and Douglas Ezzy show that although painful self questioning and struggle is experienced by some LGBT Christians many people ultimately find a resolution and a sense of peace with their sexual identity as LGBT Christians The pursuit of authenticity is shown to be driven by participants essentialist understanding of sexuality and gender and the centrality of religiosity to their sense of self Offering insight into how participants transform their relationships emotions beliefs and ritual practices in order to make this authentic life possible this study is an important contribution to the field of religion and sexuality

Emotional Transformation Therapy Steven R. Vazquez, 2012-11-02 Emotional Transformation Therapy An Interactive Ecological Psychotherapy describes an entirely original approach to psychotherapy that drastically accelerates therapeutic outcomes in terms of speed and long term effects It includes an attachment based interpersonal approach that increases the impact of the therapist client bond and is amplified by the precise use of the client's visual ecology This synthesis is called Emotional Transformation Therapy ETT Steven R Vazquez PhD discusses four techniques that therapeutically harness the client's visual ecology When the client is asked to view a maximally saturated spectral chart of colors visual feedback provides immediate diagnostic information that helps the therapist to regulate emotional intensity or loss of awareness of emotions A second technique offers an original form of directed eye movement that facilitates relief of emotional distress within minutes A third technique uses peripheral eye stimulation to rapidly reduce extreme emotional or physical pain within seconds as well as to access previously unconscious thoughts emotions or memories related to the issue or symptom The fourth technique uses the emission of precise wavelengths colors of light into the client s eyes during verbal processing that dramatically amplifies the effect of talk therapy and changes the brain in profound ways Emotional Transformation Therapy uses theory research and case studies to show how this method can be applied to depression anxiety disorders posttraumatic stress disorder and complex trauma Pre and post brain scans have shown that ETT substantially changes the human brain This method possesses the potential to revolutionize psychotherapy as we know it The Psychology of Religion, Fourth Edition Ralph W. Hood, Jr., Peter C. Hill, Bernard Spilka, 2009-07-15 Scholarly and comprehensive yet accessible this state of the science work is widely regarded as the definitive graduate level psychology of religion text The authors synthesize classic and contemporary empirical research on numerous different religious groups Coverage includes religious thought belief and behavior across the lifespan links between religion and biology the forms and meaning of religious experience the social psychology of religious organizations and connections to morality coping mental health and psychopathology Every chapter features thought provoking quotations and examples that bring key concepts to life New to This Edition Revised and updated with the latest theories methods and empirical findings Many new research examples Restructured with fewer chapters for better fit with a typical semester More attention to the differences between religion and spirituality Covers emerging topics genetics and neurobiology positive psychology atheism and more

Emotions and Religious Dynamics Nathaniel A. Warne, 2016-05-13 We all feel emotions and are moved to action by them Religious communities often select and foster certain emotions over others Without understanding this it is hard to grasp the way groups view the world and each other Often it is the underlying emotional pattern of a group rather than its doctrines that either divides it from or attracts it to others These issues so important in today s world are explored in this book in a genuinely interdisciplinary way by anthropologists psychologists theologians and historians of religion and in some detailed studies of well and less well known religious traditions from across the world Emotions and Spirituality in Religions and Spiritual Movements Erika Wilson, 2012-07-19 Applying recent psychological and neuropsychological studies of emotions Erika Wilson explores the role of emotions in major Eastern Western and primal religions as well as in some contemporary spiritual movements The book tries to answer the following questions What kinds of emotions and spiritual experiences arise in individuals and groups during prayer conversions rituals meditations and other spiritual practices Which positive emotions are valued most in a particular religion or spiritual movement How do these attitudes relate to their respective historical context And finally how does each religious or spiritual teaching recommend handling negative emotions
