Haitian Revolutionary Fictions Marlene L. Daut,Grégory Pierrot,Marion C. Rohrleitner,2022-01-25 The Haitian Revolution 1791-1804 was the first antislavery and anticolonial uprising led by New World Africans to result in the creation of an independent and slavery free nation state The momentousness of this thirteen year long war generated thousands of pages of writing This anthology brings together for the first time a transnational and multilingual selection of literature about the revolution from the beginnings of the conflicts that resulted in it to the end of the nineteenth century With over two hundred excerpts from novels poetry and plays published between 1787 and 1900 and depicting a wide array of characters including Anacaona Makandal Boukman Toussaint Louverture Jean Jacques Dessalines and Henry Christophe this anthology provides the perfect classroom text for exploring this fascinating revolution its principal actors and the literature it inspired while also providing a vital resource for specialists in the field This landmark volume includes many celebrated authors such as Alexandre Dumas Victor Hugo Heinrich von Kleist Alphonse de Lamartine William Wordsworth Harriet Martineau and William Edgar Easton but the editors also present here for the first time many less well known fictions by writers from across western Europe and both North and South America as well as by nineteenth century Haitian authors refuting a widely accepted perception that Haitian representations of their revolution primarily emerged in the twentieth century Each excerpt is introduced by contextualizing commentary designed to spark discussion about the ongoing legacy of slavery and colonialism in the Americas Ultimately the publication of this capacious body of literature that spans three continents offers students scholars and the curious reader alike a unique glimpse into the tremendous global impact the Haitian Revolution had on the print culture of the Atlantic world

New World Studies Digital Humanities and the Lost Drama of Early Modern England Matthew Steggle,2016-04-22 This book establishes new information about the likely content of ten lost plays from the period 1580-1642 These plays authors include Nashe Heywood and Dekker and the plays themselves connect in direct ways to some of the most canonical dramas of English literature including Hamlet King Lear The Changeling and The Duchess of Malfi The lost plays in question are Terminus Richard the Confessor 1593 Cutlack 1594 Bellendon 1594 Truth's

Supplication to Candlelight 1600 Albere Galles 1602 Henry the Una c 1619 The Angel King 1624 The Duchess of Fernandina c 1630 42 and The Cardinal s Conspiracy bef 1639 From this list of bare titles it is argued can be reconstructed comedies tragedies and histories whose leading characters included a saint a robber a Medici duchess an impotent king at least one pope and an angel In each case newly available digital research resources make it possible to interrogate the title and to identify the play s subject matter analogues and likely genre But these concrete examples raise wider theoretical problems What is a lost play What can and cannot be said about objects in this problematic category Known lost plays from the early modern commercial theatre outnumber extant plays from that theatre but how in practice can one investigate them This book offers an innovative theoretical and practical frame for such work putting digital humanities into action in the emerging field of lost play studies

Four Contemporary American Playwrights Christopher Bigsby, 2025-10-16 The fourth in a series of books exploring the careers of 28 contemporary American playwrights this book covers the work of four male writers Lucas Hnath Brandon Jacobs Jenkins Stephen Karam and Tarell Alvin McCraney The dramatic strategies of these award winning playwrights range widely in styles and approach Christopher Bigsby interweaves critical analysis of their work with biographical information contemporary responses and the writers own comments drawn from interviews At a time when the question of identity is central in America at both a personal and national level how far do these playwrights see this as central or incidental to their work Bigsby argues that Brandon Jacobs Jenkins work often asks to what extent race is a construct in work including neighbors An Octoroon and Appropriate while stepping away from race in Everybody Tarell Alvin McCraney conscious that being labelled as gay or black can influence the reception of his work nonetheless embraces both in The Brothers Size Choir Boy Wig Out and his Oscar winning film Moonlight If Stephen Karam from a Lebanese American family engages with gay characters in Speech and Debate and The Humans this book posits that he is also interested in suffering something of which he has personal experience Finally Lucas Hnath approaches identity in another way appropriating the lives of real characters historical and contemporary inhabiting and deconstructing them

American Playwright, 1914 The Playwright's Voice David Savran, 1999 These 15 interviews illustrate the diversity of modern American theater and examine what makes it a unique art form Savran English Brown U discusses the work artistic influences and the state of contemporary American theater and its meaning and purpose with artists including Tony Kushner Jose Rivera Ntozake Shange and Anna Deveare Smith Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR The Playwright's Muse Joan Herrington, 2013-05-13 August Wilson penned his first play after seeing a man shot to death Horton Foote began writing plays to create parts for himself as an actor Edward Albee faced commercial pressures to modify his scripts and resisted After Wit Margaret Edson swore off playwriting altogether and decided to keep her day job as a kindergarten teacher instead The Playwright's Muse presents never before published interviews with some of the greatest names of American drama all recent winners of the Pulitzer Prize In these scintillating exchanges with eleven leading dramatists we learn about their inspirations and begin to grasp how the creative process works in the mind of a writer We learn how their first plays took shape how it felt to read their first reviews and what keeps them writing for theater today Introductory essays on each playwright's life and work written by theater artists and scholars with strong professional relationships to their subjects provide additional insight into the writers' contributions to contemporary theater Elmer Rice, a Playwright's Vision of America Anthony F. R. Palmieri, 1980 A thorough and detailed study of this playwright's remarkable long and productive career that stretched from 1914-1963 and included over 50 plays and a Pulitzer Prize It establishes that Rice's impact on the American theater probably surpasses that of any other American playwright The Playwright's Last Audience Miranda Stokes, 2024-12-06 The world is abuzz with anticipation for Alina Vostrikov's The Unseen not just a play but an immersive experience a seductive dance between reality and illusion Within the opulent decay of the Orpheum Theatre Alina a visionary playwright cloaked in enigmatic melancholy orchestrates her final masterpiece a farewell steeped in both breathtaking artistry and a chilling unspoken secret Every line of dialogue every flicker of light is a meticulously placed domino in a game whose rules remain tantalizingly hidden Elara Vance haunted by a past she can't quite grasp finds herself drawn into The Unseen's unsettling embrace At first captivated she soon feels a creeping unease The actors' words echo her deepest fears their faces shifting blurring the line between stage and life The city itself transforms into a distorted mirror of the play and a terrifying question takes root is Alina Vostrikov scripting Elara's life As Elara's world unravels Detective Silas Thorne investigates a string of disappearances linked to the Orpheum Haunted by his own past he becomes convinced that The Unseen holds the key His investigation collides with Elara's spiraling paranoia forging an uneasy alliance against the rising tide of the play's influence Woven within the novel is the complete script of The Unseen a living document that shifts and evolves alongside Elara's growing understanding of Alina's machinations Each performance ratchets up the tension Alina's control fraying as her secrets threaten to shatter the meticulously crafted illusion In a climactic final performance the play spills over into reality blurring the lines between audience and actors trapping them in a terrifying crescendo of Alina's design Elara guided by the evolving script must confront Alina and uncover the devastating truth behind The Unseen before it consumes them all Will she break free from the play's grip or become its final victim
